House Finally Passes Sales Tax Bill On Gross

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House finally advanced a bill to put the sales tax on a gross receipts basis Wednesday after a long and bitter battle.

The bill was requested by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to plug a $6 million loophole in the present sales tax law. He sent word to House leaders the bill must be moved forward.

And it was—but only after a partisan squabble. Democrats finally pushed it into position for passage on the argument the revenue is needed desparately.

The Supreme Court ruled recently operators of vending machines do not have to pay the 3 per cent sales tax on sales under 25 cents. That knocked a $6 million hole in the administration's budget plans.

As advanced, the bill would require a merchant to pay the tax on his gross receipts whether he collected it from his customers or not.

The House also gave first round approval to a bill changing the sales tax bracket system. Sales under 15 cents would be exempt compared with the present law exempting sales under 25 cents.

Late in the day the House revived and passed a bill to abolish the job of county school superintendent in counties where reorganization of districts has left the official with only nominal duties.

The bill failed to pass Tuesday by one vote. But when revived Wednesday it cleared on a 95-56 roll call.

An emergency clause to make the bill effective as soon as by the governor failed to pass.

Libby Ragains

Libby Ragains To Give Piano Solo

Miss Libby Ragains, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ragains, will be featured as the piano soloist with the Sikeston High School Symphonic Band, Early Division, in its Annual Spring Concert on Friday evening.

Miss Ragains is a Senior member of the band and is quite versatile in her musical activities. She plays 1st chair French Horn in the band and is a member of the French Horn Quartet. She is also very active as an accompanist in the vocal department and is a member of the High School Concert Choir.

The featured piano concerto will be the famous Cornish Rhapsody by Sir Hubert Bath. This is a very popular number with concert audiences and will please those music lovers in attendance.

Other numbers to be included in the concert are:

First Suite in Eb - Gustav Holst

Minuteman, Concert March - Pearson

Russian Easter Overture - Rimsky - Korsakoff

Nightfall, Alto Sax Solo -- Morrissey

Dry Bones, Swing Version - Arr. Paul Yoder.

Thunderbird - Erickson

Carousel Selections - Rodgers and Hammerstein

The concert will be held at the Middle School Auditorium and will start promptly at 8 P.M. There will be no admission charge and no reserved seats.

Two Important School Elections In Mississippi Co.

CHARLESTON-- Charleston's annual school election will be held Tuesday, April 6. Voters will elect two members of the county board of education.

Seeking re-election without opposition from the first county court district is Delmar Alcorn. Hunt Wellborn is running without opposition from the second district.

Voting places will be at the Bertrand School, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend Schools, Dorena, Pinhook, Wyatt, and Anniston Schools, at the Courthouse in Charleston and at the East Prairie High School. The polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

The R-1 District voters will vote on a tax levy of $3.19 per one hundred dollar assessed valuation for one year.

April 7, is the date set to enlarge the R-1 School District by the addition of the Bertrand, Texas Bend, and Thompson's Bend School Districts.

Passage of the reorganized proposal would eliminate the last three director districts in Mississippi County, and leave only Charleston R-1 and East Prairie R-2 Districts.

A simple majority of those voting in the entire district is required for passage of the re-organization proposal.

Voting places will be at the Anniston School Gymnasium, Bertrand School, Texas Bend White School, Wyatt Elementary School Thompson's Bend School, County Court Room, Court House at Charleston. The polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Three persons have filed for election to the Charleston R-1 Board of Education, according to Board Secretary Harry Sutherland.

The three are Woodrow Graham, incumbent president of the board, Mrs. W. Clifton Banta, incumbent Vice - president, and Ed C. Marshall Jr.

Filing deadline for the two vacancies on the board is Thursday, March 25, (today).

If the reorganization with Bertrand, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend is approved in the special election, the entire board, including the two members elected the previous day, will be vacated and a new election will be held for the six positions.

All Towns Must File Annual Audit

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A Senate committee Wednesday night approved a bill requiring all political subdivisions within the state to file annually with the state auditor a summary audit of their accounts.

The summaries would be due 120 days after the end of the fiscal year.

The committee also cleared a measure permitting counties to vote a 2-mill property tax to finance a property re-evaluation study.

Another bill okayed would permit cities or counties to contract with the U.S. Corps of Engineers in constructing recreation facilities along waterways.

A cooperating city or county would operate and maintain the facilities when completed.

Approved over opposition was a House bill to require school districts to advertise for bids on purchases in excess of $2,500.

Opponents representing school districts in St. Louis County and Kansas City said this would create an additional and often unjustifiable expense.

It would also raise a question of the legality of cooperative buying by two or more districts, a practice now used in some parts of the state, they said.

Approved by the House Ways and Means Committee was a measure exempting c il service annuities from state income taxes. It is sponsored by Rep. Donald Reed, D - Buchanan County.

One committee approved a bill giving newspapers access to birth and death records of the State Health Division. Under present law only limited inspection of the records is allowed.

Another committee rejected a bill that would have barred sales solicitation by telephone.

Other committees approved bills to:

Require vision tests of motorists when they renew their driver licenses—a measure already passed by the House.

Let cities license any business or occupation except those specifically exempted by law.

Allow police officers to arrest motorists for traffic violations even if they do not see the violation—for example on information relayed by a radar car or a spotter plane.

Approve $199,000 Loan For Kewanee Area Water System

NEW MADRID -- Tentative approval for a $199,000 loan has been given by J. E. Jose, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, to produce, filter, and distribute water for the Kewanee - LaForge - Farrenburg area in New Madrid County.

The proposal is to provide a deep well, a small tank, and a filtering plant at Kewanee and a larger storage tank at LaForge. This system would serve families and businesses in and around these rural communities.

Final approval will be based on certain provisions. Some of the more important of these include:

A water district with a legal board of directors organized under the circuit court.

Water - users agreements signed by 180 customers plus their $30.00 fees, which include a $5.00 meter deposit and a $25.00 service connection fee.

A revenue bond voted by the district in the amount of $199,000 to secure the loan and guaranteed 100% by the Federal government. The bond will not be a tax, on property, but will be repaid from monthly water bills by the users.

Alex Waters and Sons, consulting engineers, Sikeston, will handle the engineering work.

Charles Hatley, Attorney, New Madrid, will be the legal advisor.

An organizing committee composed of Paul Trout, chairman, Lester Merryman, Harold Farrenburg, Jim Spradling, and Jay Blankenship is now contacting prospective customers.

Those interested in setting up this public water supply district should contact the committee at once.

Special Election At Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE--Mayor David P. McCrate, in a special meeting of the city council, passed an ordinance calling for a special election, to fill the vacancy created by the sudden death of the city collector, Mrs. Edna Holman.

"The sudden death of our beloved City Collector, Mrs. Edna Holman, who has served the city for the past 22 years, and who had filed for re-election for this important position without opposition in the forthcoming election to be held Tuesday, April 6th, 1965 necessitated a special meeting called Saturday, March 20th., making it possible for those interested in the position to file anytime before midnight, March 31st."

The name or names of those seeking the position (if they qualify) will appear on the ballot.

Thompson Trial Set for April 22

BENTON — In circuit court this morning, Judge Marshall Craig called the defendant, Tommie Lee Thompson, charged with the murder of Mrs. W. R. Lewis, and his mother before the bench, and granted the defendant until Thursday, April 22, to obtain counsel.

Judge Craig asked the defendant's mother, "How long do you think it will take to obtain counsel for your son?" She replied, "about a month."

He then replied that he would extend the time until the april date, which is law day. The hearing ended at 11:30 a.m.

Bootheel Area Is Cradle Of Early Indian Civilization In America

A land leveling project on the farm on Edward C. Matthews, Jr., this week revealed the home sites of a Woodland Indian tribe that inhabited this area around 2,000 years ago. The farm is located one and one-half miles west of Sikeston, on the Salcedo road. The Gardner and Andrews Landleveling Company were at work leveling the land when the home sites were discovered.

On discovery of this Indian site, Mr. Matthews called the Missouri University Museum of Archaeology. Richard A. Marshall, director, came immediately to Sikeston with Rolland Pangburn, a research associate archaeologist, and the two have spent the past two days exploring the site.

It was learned by the archaeologists that the site found there were two levels of Indian occupation, the last of the two groups were Woodland people lived nearly 2,000 years ago, while an earlier group had settled there a thousand years before.

The historical knowledge was gained by the various type of Indian materials. The Woodland group made sand and clay tempered pottery, as well as stone projectile points. They also had houses on the site, with trash piles still intact.

The earliest level of occupation was one belonging to a late archaic people who did not have pottery, but did make clay balls similar to those made by archaic people at Poverty Point, La., as well as making dart points of stone, which proves their existence of around 3,000 years ago.

The find of these habitation sites in the Sikeston area is a most significant one according to the two Columbia men, and has uncovered a wealth of information on these two tribes. A circular house pattern was found, believed to belong to these archaic people, and constructed of poles, four inches in diameter, and set deeply in the ground and bent over to meet in the center. The house was 20 feet in diameter. One refuse pit was found just outside of the house circle on the south side.

An adolescent human burial was found just within the house circle on the north side, and the burial was fully flexed with interment face down. These findings marks the first time that the university archaeologists have recorded a house of this age, and also marks the first such has been recorded for the upper Mississippi Valley. They consider it an outstanding field.

It was said by these two men that Indian remains in Southeast Missouri are fast being destroyed by the present agricultural land development and land leveling. The sites of the higher places are being pushed to the lower areas, and it is on these higher places that the Indians and their remains are found.

They feel that some information should be recorded for future study in the development of the Indians of the North American continent. This area is unique as it has played a very important part in the development of pre - historic agriculture in North America.

The University of Missouri does not have access to funds for extensive research in the area and federal funds are not available for salvage in this area. Every effort, however, is being made to record as much of the information as possible, and with the assistance with a few prominent local men, a wealth of information has been obtained.

It is the impression of the Columbia men that Sikeston could become a focal point for a state park for the concentration of a museum in restoring early agricultural civilization to the world, dating back to the time of the birth of Christ. What is so remarkable as has been discovered in recent years, there are at least 15 known Indian village sites within five miles of Sikeston, and many times this number in a 50-mile radius. Due to the lack of funds they are doing whatever is possible to record this ancient history, which is of great importance to the North American continent. It has also been determined that as many tribes have lived in this area, as in any section of the American continent.

A Tree Is Planted On Hospital Grounds In Memory of Mrs. Lewis

Members of the Rose Gate Garden Club met Wednesday afternoon at Delta Community Hospital where they planted a white dogwood tree in memory of the late Mrs. W. R. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis had served with distinction in various capacities, and the past several years had helped to plant flower boxes at the local nursing homes, as well as assisting with the flower boxes in down town Sikeston. In 1964, she was chairman of the Horticulture Committee and helped make the 1964 Flower Show a success. She was vitally interested in Delta Community Hospital and gave very generously of her time to it, serving as a Gray Lady. Because of her interest in the hospital, the Rose Gate Garden Club was prompted to give the tree in her memory.

Guests of the club at the planting ceremony included, W. R. Lewis, Mrs. Ralph Boyer, Bill Board of Directors of Delta Community Hospital, and Harold Jones, hospital administrator.

During the brief ceremony, Lewis, the Rev. Myron Neal, Ed Coleman, President of the conducted by club president, Jane Wilkerson, the Club Collect was read, and after a description of Mrs. Lewis' service to the club and the hospital, Rev. Myron Neal gave the closing prayer.

Three Check Artists Are Nabbed By Dexter Merchants

DEXTER -- Alert Dexter merchants assisted with the speedy apprehension of three bad check artists operating here during the past few days.

James O. Payne, about 24 of Sikeston, was arrested by city policeman Clay Baker Friday after Payne passed a $13.15 check at Payne's Shoe Store here. James O. Payne is not related to E. P. Payne owner and operator of the Payne's Shoe Store here, it was pointed out.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Paul McGhee, Payne purchased a pair of cowboy boots at the shoe store and then went to Hamra's where he attempted to cash a $15 check. When the Hamra personnel refused to let him take the merchandise from the store Payne left, leaving the check and saying that "he would be back."

He was picked up by local policemen walking east of Dexter over the railroad viaduct. He was wearing the new boyboy boots, McGhee said. Payne was taken to the City jail and transferred to the County jail at Bloomfield late Friday afternoon where he awaits a hearing.

William Lee Rollins, 46, of Rialto Calif., is also in the County jail at Bloomfield after he was arrested Thursday for passing bad checks at Nichols Lumber Company and Hamra's Department Store.

A second Sikeston man, Cecil Beck, a carnival worker, age about 45, or 50 waived preliminary hearing Thursday in Bloomfield and will appear in Circuit Court on April 5 in connection with passing a check for $43.82 at Payne's Shoe Store here on March 10.

The manager, E. P. Payne, was suspicious of the man and copied his automobile license number. After policemen were alerted, the man was arrested later the same day and transported to the county jail where he awaits trial.

NINE BANDS, with a total of over 600 high school musicians, participated in the Annual Spring Festival at the Armory Building Wednesday, before a large audience. The guest conductor was Paul W. Shahan, director of bands, Murray State College. Bands present were, Oran, Kelly, Scott County Central, Charleston, Matthews, East Prairie, Sikeston Freshman Band, and two divisions of the Sikeston high school bands. The band pictured in the foreground is from Charleston.

Divorce Cases Take Up Most Of Docket In Madrid

NEW MADRID — Divorces took up most of the docket of the New Madrid County Circuit Court this week when seven such cases were heard; however, one person was sentenced on a felony count by Judge William L. Ragland of Caruthersville.

Ronnie McAbee, charged with burglary and larceny, plead guilty to the charges and was sentenced to the State Department of Corrections for periods of two years on each count with sentences to be served concurrently. McAbee was then granted probation.

Irene Carson faced Judge Ragland on a charge of common assault. She was fined $5 and court costs.

Divorce actions were as follows:

Eula Mae Gray versus D. W. Gray — decree of divorce to the plaintiff with care and custody of three minor children.

William Harvey Spencer versus Betty Jean Spencer — decree of divorce to the plaintiff. Defendent awarded care and custody of two minor children.

Margaret Hill versus Hubert Hill — decree of divorce to the plaintiff.

Alla Lorene Finley versus William Woodrow Finley — decree of divorce to the plaintiff with care and custody of three minor children.

Willie Eadie versus Melzina Eadie — decree of divorce to the plaintiff with care and custody of three minor children.

Patsy Ruth Eiceman versus Herman Eiceman — decree of divorce to the plaintiff.

Next Law Day in the court will be held April 13, according to Clerk Van H. Sharp, Jr.

Suffers Propaganda Defeat By Using Gas

WASHINGTON AP -- The United States has suffered a worldwide propaganda defeat on the use of nonlethal gas in the Vietnamese war, and U. S. officials doubt that their counteroffensive now under way can fully overcome the damage.

Communist propagandists are expected to try to keep the issue alive in spite of vehement denials by Secretary of State Dean Rusk that the United States has engaged or ever intended to engage in gas warfare in Viet Nam.

A more serious problem, officials here believe, is that in allied and neutral countries some residue of suspicion is likely to remain in the minds of many people because denials and explanations seldom catch up with an initial blunder.

One result of all this may be a strong reluctance on the part of military commanders in Viet Nam to use nauseous gases hereafter against guerrilla-infested villages in South Viet Nam.

The use of tear gas in such cases is officially considered more humane than bombings and gunfire, but the cost in worldwide public opinion now has to be considered.

That there was a bad blunder in the way the news initially was disclosed last Monday is generally agreed among Johnson administration leaders. An Army spokesman in Saigon said that there had been some experimental use of nonlethal gas against Red guerrillas. The gas was described as temporarily disabling. It was not sharply defined as the kind of gas sometimes used by police forces over the world against rioters.

The announcement touched off a worldwide furor which brought criticism and denunciation of the United States. Questions were raised as to whether the United States was violating a 1925 Geneva agreement outlawing gas warfare. Communist radios in Moscow and the Far East accused this country of barbarity and brutality.

The storm hit official Washington with stunning surprise. Apparently no one in high position had foreseen such an uproar or given any serious thought to the danger of raising the specter of gas warfare when various types of riot - control gas were sent to the South Vietnamese forces in mid-1962.

An initial explanation from the Pentagon began to develop the idea that riot-control gases were those actually involved, but it took more than 24 hours to mount the U. S. counteroffensive.

On Tuesday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara held a news conference to say that the gases used were essentially police-type tear gas and that they had been employed to save the lives of civilians among whom guerrilla fighters had taken refuge. He emphasized that the gases had been used only on two or three occasions.

McNamara said the British had used such gases on Cyprus in 1955.

It was not until Wednesday, however, that Rusk held a news conference to come to grips with the main issue as it was finally defined here - the question whether the United States was in fact launching gas warfare against the Viet Cong.

"The shadow of gas warfare has been raised in connection with these incidents," Rusk said. "That is not involved. We are not embarking upon gas warfare in Viet Nam."

As to future use of tear gas, Rusk said, "no new directive has been issued" to countermand authority to use it.

But he added: "The anticipation is, of course, that these weapons will be used only in those situations involving riot control or situations analagous to riot control."

Even as Rusk spoke, the U. S. effort to explain its position was beginning to show some effect. In London, three leading news-

This is one time Governor Wallace outsmarted the President. He is letting us taxpayers from all over the United States instead of just Alabama pay the bill for the marchers protection.

REAL SELF-HELP LESSON:
BLIND WORK IN ALL FIELDS

Whether the job calls for sandblasting, woodworking, printing, cosmetic treatments or dress making, blind persons are there, ready, able and willing to make their mark felt in American industry.

Last year 65 large industrial shops throughout the nation operated by local agencies for the blind did a business of over $35 million. The shops provide manufacturing and technical services to government and industry as well as marketing products to the consumer.

The shops make up the National Industries For The Blind, a non-profit organization which coordinates their productive activities through research, government contracts and placement services.

MANY PRODUCTS

Through the NIB New Products Committee new items for manufacture are recommended to the blind industries. Workshops currently produce household goods under a national trademark. Among them are: aprons, bags, blankets, brooms, brushes, drapes, pillowcases, shoe and household kits. In addition, they manufacture a variety of textile, caning, machine, metal, weaving and woodwork goods for private industry and government.

Industrial contracts with private industry require the workshops to assemble, cut, package, drill, saw, clean and sew. The blind workers are able to meet the demands of highly skilled assembly line production as a result of specially designed tools and machines which have built-in safety devices.

Already aiding in employing thousands of blind persons, the NIB is primarily interested in developing new techniques which will add to the number of jobs created for the blind labor force. To this end, the NIB has recently undertaken three programs which are expected to increase jobs through improved sales and marketing approaches.

NEW PROGRAMS SET

The first program is an extension of the work of the New Products Committee which will go into operation within the next few months. It calls for a NIB Project Development Laboratory which will conduct largescale research on new products and manufacturing methods. The second involves sales approaches. Under the program, more attractive packaging is considered the first approach to better sales. A coordinated packaging plan which would display products to their best advantage is underway.

The third is a specialized plan which deals with both sales and marketing. Through the plan, a market research firm is currently surveying potential products and areas where blind-made products sell most successfully.

The Wall Street Journal looks at the Area Re-Development Administration: "The whole idea behind the AREA reflects the simple old pork barrel theory that just about any depressed area can be revived if you inject enough Federal dollars into it, which may be true in the short run. The fact is, however, that some areas simply cannot be restored to full economic self-sufficiency with any amount of Government funds. Some, for example, lack the manpower, material and natural resources on which a revival might be built. That, however, does not seem to bother the ARA. For in its zeal to spread dollars around as widely as possible, it has approved projects in which a large part of the manpower and materials have to be brought in from other areas -- hardly a technique designed to be of substantial aid to the local depressed economy."

NOT OBSOLETE -- YET!

Competition for shares of the advertising dollar gets tougher all the time. Television has seen to that.

Television people have, on occasion, attempted to sell the idea that their media is a far more effective way of interesting the potential consumer than any other -- including newspapers. So a survey made in Richmond, Va., is of unusual interest.

Editor & Publisher reports: "An independent research organization found that of more than 41,000 telephone calls only about one-fifth of them had the TV set turned on. Of that number 81% were able to identify the program turned on but 71% could not name any sponsor or product or type of product being advertised on that program. And even if the respondent said 'soap' instead of giving a brand name it was counted as sponsor identification, which seems to us like leaning over backward to be fair."

No -- the printed word isn't obsolete yet!

Lobbying is a big business today in Washington and State Capitals, but its origin dates back to Biblical times. John was engaged to Mary, but had decided to try to break it off as easily as possible. They were going to a dance together, and as they were dancing, John had a bright idea. "Mary," he said, "I should have told you this sooner, but I have a wooden leg." "Why, that is silly," said Mary, "but even so, I still love you." A little while later John tried again, "Mary I also have a wooden arm." "I can't believe that," said Mary, "but even if you did, I would still love you." Now John was getting desperate, "Mary, I also have a wooden head." Mary said, "John, I can't believe that, you will have to prove that to me." So, John said, "All right, I will prove it, but not in this crowd. Let's go out to the car and I will prove it." They had only been gone a short time when some friends missed them, and went out to look for them. Sure enough, there was John in the car screwing his head off!

MIRACLE IN WASHINGTON

Washington -- where "Let Uncle Do It" is the watchword --has just witnessed a miracle.

The capital city's Planning Commission killed a sweeping local urban renewal project strongly supported by the federal Urban Renewal Administration, as well as the local Redevelopment Land Agency and Housing Authority.

Despite this array of government power, private enterprise finally convinced the Planning Commission after nine years that "private development and rehabilitation" make federal bulldozing "not in the public interest."

The Redevelopment Land Agency denounces the action as "a serious blow to the whole urban renewal program . . . not only for Washington, but because what is done in Washington has a nationwide effect."

Hope so.

PROPERTY TAX
STILL MAINSTAY

Although constantly on the lookout for new revenue sources, local governments still depend on the property tax as a principal revenue source, says Tax Foundation.

Nineteen years ago, total state and local tax collections amounted to $10 billion; $5 billion represented collections from the property tax, according to the Foundation's new, 13th edition of "Facts and Figures on Government Finance, 1964-65".

In fiscal 1963, total tax collections were $44 billion, more than four times the 1946 figure. Of this amount, $20 billion came from property taxes.

It is estimated that TOTAL state and local government collections in fiscal 1964 will be between $47 billion and $48 billion, up 370 per cent since 1946!

In the years 1946 - 1963, property tax collections increased just over 300 per cent; collections from sales and gross recipts taxes increased nearly 400 per cent, said the Foundation. Figures for 1946 and for subsequent selected years:

NEW YORK - Ray Stark may become the first man in history to become a millionaire by investing in the memory of his mother-in-law.

"I can't think of anyone else who made money that way," said Stark, grateful son-in-law of the late comedienne, Fanny Brice.

A year ago he launched on Broadway "Funny Girl," the musical based on Miss Brice's career. Starring Barbara Streisand, it cost more than $650,000 -- the largest amount up to that time ever spent on a Broadway show.

In the 12 months since then it has turned the profit corner and grossed in the neighborhood of $5 million, not including the sale of recordings.

Two road companies and a London production are planned and, of course, a film.

As executive vice president of Seven Arts Productions, the 49-year-old, sandy-haired producer will supervise the shooting of 16 films here and abroad this year.

Ray entered Rutgers University at the age of 14 1/2 and three times was thrown out for inattention to his studies.

After toiling briefly as a copy boy and cub reporter here, he drove to Hollywood, sharing his battered auto with a 67-year-old woman to save expenses. There, he worked successively as cemetery florist, vacuum cleaner salesman, studio hand, and magazine editor.

Then he became a highly successful Hollywood agent.

"But the actors were getting 90 per cent, and I was making 10 per cent," Stark recalled. "So I decided to make a stab at the 90 per cent."

The idea of building a story around his mother-in-law, Miss Brice, the famed "Baby Snooks," came to him more than 10 years ago. He is married to the comedienne's daughter, Frances. They have two children.

"I adored Fanny," he said. "She was such a strong dame. We all still miss her terribly."

The romance and marriage of the strong-willed Miss Brice and her equally strong-willed husband, gambler Nicky Arnstein, which became a tabloid saga, is the basis of "Funny Girl."

The Casualty Count by Jerry Marcus

Speed killed 14,190 and injured 1,223,000 in 1963.

The plot to dynamite the Statue of Liberty, Washington Monument and Liberty Bell by at least four conspirators was so fantastic that it might well have succeeded. The nation has seen too often -- and too recently -- what just one madman can do with a weapon of destruction.

The damaging of these shrines could not, of course, compare with the assassination of a president, though there would undoubtedly have been loss of life had the bombs been planted and exploded. But even without the taking of human life, it would have been a crime of monstrous stupidity -- more monstrous and more stupid for having been committed in the very name of the ideals for which these objects stand.

All those who helped nip the plot in the bud are to be commended, particularly New York patrolman Raymond Wood, who infiltrated the conspiracy.

The edge between commitment to a cause and fanatical extremism, between sanity and insanity, is an exceedingly fine one. The world seems to be full of those who, despite the clear evidence of history, believe their particular ends justify any means, that they can accomplish by violence what they cannot with reason and persuasion.

Americans will take a newly appreciative look at these national shrines and, hopefully, ponder a little more deeply the reasons behind their veneration.

Anxious to cash in on his video fame, the star of a medical TV series recently opened in Las Vegas in a night-club act. There isn't too much this fellow can do on stage -- his singing voice is just fair -- but the opening night audience was pleasant and gave him a polite hand. As his act ended, however, two men in the audience jumped to their feet, started cheering and applauding wildly. First-nighters looked at each other in surprise. The act just wasn't that good. "What's the matter with those two guys?" One woman asked her husband. "Drunk?" The husband smiled. "No," he explained, "press agents."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Space Race Installations Choked by New Strikes.

Bay St. Louis, Miss.: -- There may be visitors from another planet before American astronauts get to the half-way station on the moon, if a handful of union leaders continue to call strikes all the way along the construction line in violation of their no-strike pledge.

There have been stoppages and inside demonstrations at key space centers, testing facilities, and at actual rocket production installations for "reasons" ranging from feuds with other unions to a demand for the removal of a ban on smoking.

U. S. construction workers were on strike at "moon bases" at the very moment when the Soviet cosmonaut danced in space.

Thousands of man days and millions of dollars have been lost at U. S. test sites during the past few critical weeks. There is no sense of urgency. There is no sense of purpose.

There is, for example, the untold story of the fuel system which needed to have its pipes cleaned. The system is at the nearby Mississippi Test Operations project close by here. It's handled by the General Electric Corp. which sent it out to a firm specializing in such work. The firm has union men belonging to the AFL - CIO Operating Engineers Union.

After the pipe cleaning, the AFL - CIO pipe - fitters union (part of the plumbers outfit) refused to work on re-installation. The pipefitters claimed they should have done the work instead of the operating engineers.

Result: -- a four - day walkout by over 800 men which in turn kept another 1200 off their jobs for the duration at one of the most vital sectors of the vast Apollo moon project.

The "beef" finally was settled after long conferences between the construction union leaders and a host of NASA specialists and Army Engineer Corps officials who came in from Washington, Huntsville and points east.

Not too far distant from here is the Michoud saturn installation. The Chrysler Corp. is constructing one stage of the vehicle which is expected to put three men in orbit by 1967 as part of the moon program. There, too, Boeing is building the first stage of a vehicle which will head for the moon.

On March 10 the United Auto Workers struck Chrysler there for a short period. The union called out some 200 members in protest against "job classification". One of its people said that the company was putting mechanics in the operators classification instead of the machinists rating. Union men said that "operators" pay is lower.

This triggered a chain reaction in another area of the Michoud rocket works. Chrysler shares the installation with the Boeing Co., which employs 2,100 members of the International Assn. of Machinists (IAM) there.

They became restless. They ran a demonstration, but did not strike. However, the fuse is lit. Some IAM men were suspended.

They claim 16 major grievances. Conversations indicate they are still angry at the suspension of some of the members. Why a demonstration in the first place? The hourly - rated union men complain they are denied the right to smoke, though the salaried, white collar people can.

The unionists say they are denied access to the vending machines for coffee or cigarettes, though the white collar people can go to the machines as they please.

The unionists say they are being abused by a company "Performance Analysis" report. Periodically the foremen file such a "PA" sheet on the workers. The union's shop stewards charge the foremen discriminate against them.

Other members of the IAM claim overtime is not equitably distributed; and that they have to wait weeks for the corrected sums to be paid them when an error is made in their pay checks.

The company retorts that there is no favoritism; and that it has the right to judge the work performances of its employes and certainly the right to set working rules which are not covered by the contracts.

Furthermore, the unionists have access to regular grievance machinery. Yet in this vital section of the nation's vast space mechanism such issues cause delays and irritations certainly unknown to that other space front runner, the Soviets.

Thus it goes all along the line. A few days ago while in the Cape Kennedy area I learned that a pipefitters local in Orlanda was considering placing a picket line at the Cape and Merritt Island Moon Port gates.

There are some non - union contractors there which NASA and the Army Corps of Engineers believe they need because of special skills. The union wants to organize the non - union contractor. It's the union's privilege to try.

But why use the nation's space network as a jousting ground. This would be going for the jugular.

The space complex needs easier breathing for a while -- not more choking up.

H. L. Hunt Says

DAY OF RECKONING

For a gull generation we were assured it would never happen here. A trusting people were told that the day of reckoning would never come.

We were told we could spend money we did not have, not only on ourselves but all over the world, with never a thought to what that kind of spending would do to the value of money itself. The size and growth of the national debt was dismissed with many a jolly quip about "owing it to ourselves."

The high priests of inflation and deficit spending had a ready answer in the famous crack of their mentor, Maynard Keynes: "In the long run we are all dead."

But nearly two hundred million Americans today are very much alive, and for us "the long run" has become the here and now.

From the firesides of home to the most distant lands, the flight from the dollar has begun. Foreign claim - holders are converting their holdings from paper dollars to real gold, draining our gold reserves out of the country. Our own people, barred by law from holding gold, hoard silver coins in ever - increasing quantities, so that now there is official talk of changing them to nickel or plastic.

No one is sure anymore that the American dollar is as "good as gold," or has any firm expectation of what it will be good for if the present course continues.

It would be better if this course were changed and again the dollar stand for real wealth, not paper promises.

What is dayligh saving time? Answer. Its starting an hour earlier which can be done without tempering with the clock and disrupting bus, train and plane timetables.

There is no way to change the time. Only the clock can be changed. For the sun comes up and the sun goes down and the hands on the clock goes round and round regardless of the city dads. Its peculiar strong how some wise men can kid themselves.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON-- Gov. George Wallace of Alabama has deviated somewhat from his anti-civil rights crusade to an anti-communist crusade. He blames the communists for the civil rights agitation of today.

When the energetic little Governor came to Washington for a showdown with President Johnson, and the President later led him into the White House corridor to meet the press, Wallace did not know that the correspondent for Pravda, Serguei Vichnevski, was right behind him.

In fact, Vichnevski was being pushed so hard by other newspapermen that he himself was forced against the Governor of Alabama.

In front of the Governor, about three bodies removed, was another Russian newspaperman, Alex Itchkov of Izvestia.

The crush of newsmen around Wallace was almost like the University of Alabama football team tackling ole Miss.

"Vichnevski," called out Itchkov of Izvestia to his comrade from Pravda, "Don't crush Wallace."

The Governor, who doesn't understand Russian, didn't realize that he was being protected by two communists.

---ALABAMA'S OTHER SIDE--

Not far from Selma, Ala., is Mobile, a city which, since the departure of Rep. Frank "all-is-made -for -love" Boykin, has not been much in the headlines. This is partly because smooth race relations do not make headlines.

However, in fairness to Mobile and other Alabama citizens who do not believe in racial understanding, it's important to report that Mobile's library, its golf course, its other public facilities have been peacefully integrated. Mobile theatres are also open to all.

When Negro students were first admitted to Mobile High Schools, the entire police force and auxiliary force stayed on duty day and night and successfully avoided serious incidents. Today Negro children are going unmolested to school with white students.

Mobile has a biracial committee which has established conditions where sympathy marches are not necessary. Its police force and sheriff's deputies are fully integrated. Its auditorium has been integrated ever since it was built, and the key to the city has on occasion been given to visiting Negro leaders.

This is the other side of the coin in Alabama.

NAZI PROPERTY REGAINED

On May 19, 1964, this column reported that Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy had completed a deal whereby General Aniline and Film, once owned by the famous Nazi Cartel I. G. Farben, would be turned back in part to a Swiss company which served as a dummy for I. G. Farben. It was reported that General Aniline & Film would be sold, with $60 million reverting to the Swiss dummy, Interhandel.

Following publication, the Justice Department issued vigorous denials. It was stated, among other things, that Interhandel was not a dummy for I. G. Farben; also that Interhandel would not get anywhere near $60 million.

The final chapter in this story occurred only recently. The Justice Department sold General Aniline & Film, which the United States government had seized at the start of World War II, to an investment syndicate headed by Blyth & Co. of San Francisco, the highest bidder.

The amount set aside for Interhandel was $121,905,000 not $60,000,000.

The fact that Interhandel is a dummy for I. G. Farben was officially ruled by three previous attorneys general--Tom Clark, James McGranery, and Howard McGrath, all Democrats. Two Republican attorneys general, Herbert Brownell and William Rogers, who served under Eisenhower, agreed with them.

A Senate committee headed by the late Harley Kilgore, D-W. Va., officially found that Interhandel was a cloaking operation; while the Nuremberg trials revealed that Nazis had planned to "cloak" their chemical operations in the United States.

Note--On May 25, 1964, this column reported that a memorandum had turned up in the Justice Department files signed by Dr. Alfred Schaefer of Interhandel, which read: "We want to keep on dealing through Radziwill." Prince Radziwill is married to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's sister.

-HAMMERMILL AND SELMA-

SNCC, the Students Nonviolent, Coordination Committee, has taken on one of the biggest paper companies in the United States. It has declared a boycott against Hammermill, following the announcement by Hammermill executives with Gov. Wallace in Montgomery that they were erecting a pulp mill in Selma. Their announcement came on the very day 800 Negroes were arrested in Selma for trying to vote.

Dr. Martin Luther King has dropped word he will join the boycott, and it will be interesting to see who wins out in this showdown.

Hammermill is not exactly a puny organization. It has plants in Erie, Pa.; Oswego, N. Y.; Hamilton, Ohio, Westfield, West Springfield, Turners Falls, and Woronoco, Mass.; Watervliet, Mich.; Hoquiam, Wash.; Richmond, Va.; Birmingham; Los Angeles; San Francisco; and Chicago.

Its subsidiaries include Robeson Process Co. of N. J.; Greys Harbor Pulp & Paper of Washington State; Old Colony Envelope, Strathmore Paper, and Papertronics.

Hammermill also operates a joint venture with Rayonier in Washington State, a company which was accused by U. S. Senators of trying to euchre the Quinault Indians out of several hundred thousand dollars of Indian reservation timber. The Interior Department, under the late Douglas McKay, bowed to Senatorial squawks and vetoed the idea.

--POVERTY IN THE SHADOW OF THE WHITE HOUSE--

My distinguished colleagues on the Washington Post have been crusading for the improvement of Toby Town, a pocket of Negro poverty in Maryland, 19 miles from the White House. It is a laudable crusade.

I happen to live next door to Toby Town and know something of its problems. There is nothing about Toby Town and its poverty which a church, less liquor, and the abolition of Sunday gambling will not cure.

There have been four murders in Toby Town in the last twenty years. This, in a population of seventy, is a high ratio of death by physical violence. All of the murders resulted from liquor, or quarrels over the gambling take, or both.

Not far from Toby Town, about two miles away on the Berryville Road, there is another Negro community. Unlike the squalor and poverty of Toby Town, this Negro community is clean, its fences neat, its vegetable gardens well kept, its front yards festooned with flowers. It has running water in most homes, and flush toilets. The privies which feature Toby Town are no more.

Perhaps most important of all, it has a church. It's a community church of no particular domination, but its citizens get leadership and inspiration from that church.

The mainstay of the community is Harry Clipper, a Negro Patriarch who doesn't squander his salary on liquor every weekend. Other members of the community follow his example.

--MURDER AND CRAPS----

I happen to employ one resident of Toby Town and have offered to employ others over a period of twenty years. I know these people well. I like them and trust them when they are sober. They could make admirable citizens if liquor and craps were not the order of every weekend.

I used to employ the chief bootlegger of Toby Town, the late Heck Martin, before he became a bootlegger. Heck had received an eleven-year sentence for murder, and after he got out of jail I gave him a job. He was the best corn cutter in the area. I used to be a fairly good corn cutter myself in the days before mechanical corn harvesters, but Heck could walk down a row of corn and leave me far behind.

Heck Martin, however, decided that Bootlegging was easier than farm work. Every Saturday and Sunday the community gathered at Heck's place to become roaring drunk and shoot craps. Heck is dead now. Before he died I used to argue with him over getting the community drunk. Eventually we came to the parting of the ways.

Montgomery County police raided Heck's place in a desultory sort of way, but never put enough real heart in it to convict anyone. A one-armed cop, blindfolded, could have picked up the evidence, but the police never did.

After one Sunday's crap game at which Vernon Martin won $150, Nelson Jeffress' barn, a mile or so away was burned down. Inside the barn was found Martin's body, his head cut off. Obviously he had won too much money at craps. The police never did find his murderers, and never will. They had burned the barn in order to try to hide the evidence.

On one occasion my niece, Mrs. Nicole Pearson, was taking care of her small daughters on our farm when a Negro knocked on the door and said, "I'm Darnell Martin. Will you please call the police and say that I am here?"

My niece called the police. She described the caller. They were alarmed.

"Mrs. Pearson, that man is wanted for murder," said the police. "Stay right where you are."

Darnell Martin sat quietly alongside my nephew's car outside until the police came. He had drunk too much and killed his girl friend.

PATRIARCH OF TOBY TOWN

Hense Davis, the Patriarch of Toby Town, has worked for me off and on for over twenty years. I offered Hense a job only one month ago. It was too cold and he didn't feel like working. Hense is a terrific worker when he works. Few farm hands are better. But after two weeks of work he has an insatiable habit of blowing his earnings. As a result, his house is tumble-down, his family poorly clad.

I would trust Hense Davis with my money, my property, my children when he's sober. I would trust him with any difficult farm job. But in Toby Town liquor is king.

Hense's oldest boy, Glasius, used to be a butler for Mrs. Nelson Jeffress. He too was a good worker. He was murdered in a drunken brawl, for which his murderer received an 18-month sentence.

Another old-time resident of Toby Town, Ernest "Girlie" Davis, has worked for me for a good many years and most of the time is a stable citizen. But on Mondays Girlie usually rests up from the weekend hangover.

It is true, as reported by the Washington Post, that the backyards of Toby Town are unkempt. But they are cleaner than some of the areas around the freedom houses in Mississippi where northern students live in squalor and untidiness which makes better- class Mississippi Negroes give them a wide berth.

It is also true that the younger generation of Toby Town has deteriorated to a state of perpetual unemployment.

Their trouble is the constant example of alcoholism and of weekly profits thrown in the dust of the Sunday's crap game. It's not an atmosphere conducive to rearing an energetic or community-minded younger generation.

I have long tried to figure out what could be the salvation of Toby Town. I have talked with some of its citizens and with the white and Negro neighbors around it.

I am not sure there will ever be a salvation for some of its citizens. But I do believe that if it had the example of church leadership, plus a crackdown on gambling and bootlegging, Toby Town would be able to lift itself out of poverty. Its white neighbors have offered to help.

Lt. and Mrs. Charles E. Laughlin

Carol Virginia Uboldi And Charles E. Laughlin Wed In January Ceremony

Rev. Francis Silva, S. J. officiated at the January nuptials at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Napa, California, when Miss Carol Virginia Uboldi became the bride of Lt. Charles Edgar Laughlin of the Air Force.

Assisting at the altar were Msgr. Alvin Wagner of Alameda, Rev. Francis Ralph of Napa, and Rev. Edward Allen of Palo Alto. Therese Miller was soloist, and Miss Carmela Fontana played the wedding music at the organ.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Uboldi, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal wedding gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with a scoop neckline, short sleeves, and a semi-full skirt which ended in a pleated chapel train. The natural waistline of the gown was accented with a crystal - beaded cummerbund.

A peau de soie Camelot headpiece embroidered with crystal beads held her veil of imported illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ernest Giovannoni of Napa, and bridesmaids were Miss Susan Nevin, also of Napa, and Miss Noreen Cavanaugh of Mountain View. They were floor-length gowns of viva pink taffeta with velvet sashes at the Empire waistlines.

The velvet ribbon was repeated in their head bows. Their flowers were old - fashioned bouquets of light pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Laughlin of Bertrand, was attended by Lt. Ross Brown of Mountain View, fellow officer and former roommate. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Thomas and John Uboldi.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed at the Napa Valley Country Club, Mrs. Uboldi wore a two piece ensemble of blue-green brocade with a matching tulle hat.

The mother of the groom attended in an aqua velvet sheath dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white orchids.

The newlyweds greeted 250 guests at the reception and buffet dinner at the country club, where they cut their tiered cake.

After a honeymoon in Southern California, they established their home at Vandenberg Air Force Base, where Lt. Laughlin is stationed.

The bride, member of a long time Napa family, is a graduate of Napa High School and The College of Holy Names in Oakland. Before her marriage, she lived in Palo Alto and taught the first and second grades in Redwood City.

Her husband is a graduate of Charleston High School, and of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He completed two years of graduate work in electronics at Stanford University last year, and is now with the Western Test Range at Vandenberg.

Rebekah Lodge Supper Is Success

MOREHOUSE — The Morehouse Rebekah Lodge reports that $245.00 has been deposited to the Cancer Fund Account. This represents the proceeds of the Chicken and Dumpling Supper held Saturday evening sponsored by the Rebekahs and also several donations.

The Rebekahs express their "thanks" to everyone donating food, those who helped with the supper and the splendid turnout.

Hordes of homeless orphans were left wandering about Europe by World War II. These have found refuge in Pestalozzi, a children's village in Switzerland. Named for Johann Heinrich Pestalozzi, an 18th century Swiss educator who dedicated his life to underpriviliged children, it follows his creed of "Give the children love and keep them occupied"

Gleaners Class Has Regular Meet

The Gleaners Class of the First Baptist Church met Monday evening, March 22, at the church for the regular monthly meeting with fourteen members present.

The business session was opened with prayer by Mrs. Carl Elam. The devotional entitled "Step Firmly" was given by Mrs. L. E. Ford.

Reports were heard from the various chairmen and the group leaders reported on their visits with absentee members. Several members reported on visits to prospective members.

The class decided to send an Easter gift to some child as the project for the month of April.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. O. V. Thornton.

The social hour was under the direction of Mrs. Mary King, the entertainment chairman.

The St. Patrick's theme was used in arranging the tables by the following hostesses: Mrs. Beryl Tidwell, Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, and Mrs. Jerome Taylor.

Two Honored At Birthday Supper

A surprise birthday supper was held Friday night, March 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jackson in honor of Mrs. William Armstrong and J. D. Jackson. Mrs. Armstrong's birthday was Friday and Mr. Jackson's was Saturday.

Those attending the fish and chicken fry were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jackson and children, Gail, Danny, Joe and Johnnie, Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong and Joyce, Nancy Hackney and children, Sandra and Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Carden and Gina. The honorees received many lovely gifts.

Miss Warf Is Honored With Bridal Shower

Miss Patricia Warf, bride-elect of James L. Lambert, was honored with a bridal shower Monday, March 15, at the Mid - Towner. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Cauthorn, Mrs. Larry Lambert and Mrs. Thomas Boardman.

The bride-to-be was presented with a corsage of white carnations set off by pink array. The gift table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with white wedding bells and pink ribbons streaming from the top.

Refreshments of cake squares decorated with pink icing and white wedding bells, coffee and soft drinks were served to the guests by the hostesses.

Games were played and the prizes were presented to the honoree. Those attending or sending gifts were Mrs. James Warf, Miss Pam Warf, Mrs. James Lambert, Mrs. Claude Deason, Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. Don Harper, Mrs. George Baker and Mrs. Sonny Johnson.

Mrs. Eldon Ziegenhorn, Mrs. Gene Jones, Mrs. Ray Lambert, Mrs. Buddy Lambert, Mrs. C. G. Ziegenhorn, Mrs. Charles Tetley, Mrs. Ralph Ayers, Mrs. Jack Taylor, and Mrs. Ray Bennett.

Miss Linda Johnson, Mrs. Wyman Pratt, Mrs. Donald Pratt, Mrs. Reno Lambert, Mrs. Melvin Miller, Mrs. Elzie Boardman, Mrs. James Meadows, Mrs. Bill Storey, Mrs. Regretta Johnson.

Mrs. Glen Hodges, Mrs. Earl Lambert, Mrs. Robert Hileman, Mrs. Bertha Cartwright, Miss Pearl Gurley and Mrs. Carol Taylor.

Two Members Given Recognition At Missionary Society Meeting

Honorable recognition was given to two members of the Ladies Missionary Society of the Tanner Street Church of God in its monthly meeting Tuesday night, March 16.

Mrs. Andy Hill, Membership Chairman, presented Honorary Life Membership Certificates to Mrs. Mac McGahey and Mrs. Ruby Hastings. The certificate signified that twenty-five dollars has been paid as a donation to the National Woman's Missionary Society in the recipient's name. The local society normally gives one certificate each year to a person it wishes to honor. It was pleased to be able to present two certificates this year.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Hill praised the faithfulness, devotion, and Christian character exemplified by Mrs. McGahey and Mrs. Hastings.

Mrs. O. C. Lewis, President, reminded the group in the business meeting that the local church will be host to the State Minister's Convention of the Church of God March 29, 30, and 31. She also announced that the local church has been chosen as one of eight cities to host the World Missions Convention of the Church of God. Between four and five hundred people from this section of the United States are expected to attend this gathering. The dates are September 16-18.

Mrs. Horace Byrd was leader for the regular monthly study which featured a "Roll Call of New Nations." Individuals gave reports on mission stations in some of these nations.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Oral Withrow. Mrs. Bob Hinton was co-hostess.

Mrs. Hasting's daughter, Mrs. Ruby Mae Vick of Kansas City, was special guest for the meeting. One new member, Mrs. Bedford Robinson was welcomed. Other members present not already named were: Mrs. Mary Klutts, Mrs. Harry Paul Cummings, Mrs. Imogene Treece, Mrs. Hubert Keasler, Mrs. Pauline Corlew, Mrs. Meri Keefer, Mrs. Kenneth Bailey, Mrs. Ivan Gimlin, Mrs. Avery Sample and Mrs. Joe Lopp.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pharris of Detroit, Mich., visited three days last week with his brother, S. O. Pharris, 405 Hunter; sister, Mrs. Carrie Stone of East Prairie; other relatives and friends. They left Friday for Arkansas to visit with relatives of Mrs. Pharris and left next day for home in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hinchey and daughters, Jill, Jo and Jackie, of Collinsville, Ill., were here Tuesday visiting the former's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Nall and the latter's father of East Prairie, who is a patient in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. L. B. Adams returned last week from Poplar Bluff where the former had been a patient in the Veterans Hospital.

William H. Myers left Wednesday afternoon for Detroit, Mich., after being here due to the death of his uncle, Clyde Myers of St. Louis, and funeral which was held at the Welsh Funeral chapel, Tuesday morning. While here, William was with his mother, Mrs. Marshall Myers, 808 South Kingshighway. Others attending the funeral were cousins: Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mullenour of Jolton, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mabrey of Scott City.

Admitted to the St. Francis Hospital: Mrs. Rosie Ruesskamp. Dismissed from the hospital-- Miss Dorothy Meunier. John W. Davis and Floye Terrell were dismissed from the Southeast Missouri Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Alcorn had the following visitors in their home over the week-end: Mr. and Mrs. Hulbert Price and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Price of Mr. Carmel, Ill. All attended the funeral of Lonnie Olds in Dexter Saturday. Mr. Olds was a brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Alcorn.

Art League Show To Begin May

Artists in Southeast Missouri who wish to exhibit in the Sikeston Art League Art Show are reminded to have their work ready by April 23. Anyone of high school age or above and is a resident of Southeast Missouri is eligible to exhibit. Mrs. Carl Popp will receive entries at her home, 916 Allen Blvd., Sikeston, April 19 through April 23.

This year's show is stressing originality. Original drawings and paintings of pen and ink, charcoal, pastels, water colors, and oils, and sculpture of any appropriate and durable materials will be accepted. Work entered in the show should not have been previously exhibited in Sikeston and must have been completed with in the past five years. Drawings and paintings must be framed and ready to hang. Mrs. Popp will have available a card to be filled out and attached to the entry. The number of entries made by an individual will be limited to three except by special invitation.

League members will take all necessary caution in handling, storing and transporting of work, however, the Art League does not assume responsibility of damage or loss of articles.

Three prizes will be awarded this year: $50.00, judges first choice; $35.00, judges second choice; $15.00, judges third choice, and five honorable mention ribbons. Judges will be Dr. Dana Johnson and Miss Helen Bedford of Southeast Missouri State Teacher College, Cape Girardeau. Judging will be done prior to the exhibit, and ribbons will be in place when the show opens, Saturday, May 1, at the Sikeston Holiday Inn.

Debra Kirtley Has Party On Birthday

Little Miss Debra Kirtley celebrated her second birthday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Kirley, Saturday, March 20.

Refreshments of cake and soft drinks were served. Suckers were given to the children attending. Attending were Debra's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hill and children, Paul, Kay, Brenda and Susie, her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Odie Hill of Memphis, Tennessee, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Hill and children, Sheila, Jimmy, Mike and Mary Beth, of Little Rock, Arkansas, and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. James. Unable to attend but sending gifts were Debra's paternal grandmother Mrs. Fern Johnson and children Bill and Randy of Marshfield, Missouri.

The driver who takes "one for the road" seldom realizes that it's often the road to the hospital.

Miss Belinda Bowen Plans To Marry James C. Eifert

Mr. and Mrs. William Bowen, former residents of Charleston who now live in California, announce the engagement of their daughter, Belinda Ann, to James Calvin Eifert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eifert of Bertrand.

Before moving to California, Miss Bowen attended Charleston High School.

Her fiance is a 1962 graduate of Charleston High, and is attending Draughon's Business College in Nashville, Tennessee.

The wedding date will be announced later.

Lottie Hogan Circle Meets With Mrs. Maloney For Program

The Lottie Hogan Circle of the Fellowship Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Ray Maloney on Thursday, March 18 at 9:30 a.m.

An interesting program was given with Mrs. Jim Fitch leading in prayer. A very interesting discussion on "Christian Principles" was the highlight of the program.

Final plans were made for a potluck supper to be held at the home of Betty Nall on April 1 for all ladies of the church. Plans were also made for the forthcoming Bible School which will be held in June with Mrs. Rose Baugus as principal.

The meeting was closed by the serving of cake and coffee by the hostess. The meeting place for next month will be announced later.

Ron White Makes First Team All-State Selections

ST. LOUIS AP -- State Class L champion Springfield Parkview placed two players - Gail Fredrick and John Weston - on the 10-man all-state high school basketball squad.

Class S winner South Iron duplicated the feat as John Jackson and Harold Savage were named to the 10-man team in that classification.

Merton Brancroft was the only member of Buffalo's Class M state champions who made the club in that division.

The Missouri State Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association picked the three teams, which were released today.

Class L runnerup Kansas City Center had one player, Mike Sloan. Third place finisher St. Louis Southwest placed Cal Edinger. Bill Deheer of Maplewood and Gary Odom from St. Louis Ritenour also were chosen from the St. Louis area.

Others on the team were Bruce Thomas, Herculaneum; Mike Thiessen, Kansas City Pembroke Country Day; John Simmons, Columbia Hickman; and Ron Dunning, Poplar Bluff.

Jo-Jo White of St. Louis McKinley, who was graduated at mid - year, received special mention.

California, the runner up in Class M, had Jerry Wells on the team.

Tomlinson is the only junior of the three teams. The rest are seniors.

Thomas was the only repeater as an all-state choice, although White, who averaged 25 points a game, was chosen last year. Thomas also averaged 25 points a game.

The leading scorer on the Class L squad was Bruce Sloan with a 27-point-a-game average. Mike Thiessen was close behind at 26.3 and 16.5 rebounds per contest.

Deheer, the No. 1 choice of coaches in the St. Louis area, averaged 22 points and 17 rebounds a game.

Sports Shavings

by DAN WHITTLE

Spring is here, but so is the weather of the cold winter time, and it is having it's effects on the spring sports being prepared for, or I should say, the ones trying to be prepared for.

Tomorrow the track team for the Bulldogs is scheduled to travel to Cape for their first meeting of the season, weather permitting. They are hurting from lack of practice and the coaches don't have any idea of what the boys can do. They have no time to judge the boys for comparison, so if they hold the meet tomorrow, it can be used in more ways than one.

The Baseball Bulldogs are a big question too and this weather can really hurt them. They have a young club and need all the spring practice that they can manage. Right now they are a big question mark, but the prospects are there for a good team. They should have a better balanced ball club this year and a lot more speed. Last year the power was in surplus, this year they will have to dig for their scores, which should make the season a lot more exciting for the fans.

Probably the teams that will have to be watched the closest this year are Oran and Jackson. Both have a lot of strength back from their good teams last year.

TURNOVER TIME

The disappearance of ice delights fish as well as fishermen.

Feeding sprees that result when the ice cover breaks up produce some of the best fishing of the year.

Why? Usually we dismiss this phenomenon simply: because the water gets warmer.

Actually, that's only part of the picture, state the authorities. They explain:

Water under the ice becomes warmer as the depth increases, rising in temperature until it reaches a point slightly over 39 degrees -- at which it is heaviest, and therefore rests on the bottom.

Though temperatures here may be the most favorable for fish, oxygen supplies may be inadequate. Lack of sunlight reaching the depths prevents photosynthesis -- a vital process by which plant organisms convert carbon dioxide to oxygen.

Thus, fish seek a compromise -- hibernating at a level too cold for normal body functions but where there's enough oxygen to sustain life.

As the ice melts, surface temperatures climb. This water becomes heavier and sinks. Gradually temperature and oxygen content becomes uniform from top to bottom, and fish may be evenly distributed. Until next winter, the coldest water is on bottom; thus, the temperature scheme has been reversed, and the lake has literally "turned over."

Continued warming, plus wind action, adds more oxygen to the surface which attracts fish. Until the temperature exceeds the individual tolerances of various species, each will seek the warmest water available.

For a brief period in spring even the deep water varieties roam the shallows, providing exciting action.

Keep tabs on your favorite lake to learn when the turnover occurs. Then take advantage of the fabulous fishing that follows.

Tony Oliva Has Suffered, But So Has Opposition

Memo to American League opposition of the Minnesota Twins:

If you thought Tony Oliva murdered you last year, wait until you see what he can do with 10 good fingers.

That apparently won't be until 1966, but the intervening season will give the other nine teams time to worry about the Cuban who won the league batting championship and Rookie of the Year honors.

The Twins are worrying right now. They discovered Wednesday that Oliva played all but the first month of last baseball season with a bone chip in the middle finger of his right hand.

X rays, the first taken since the right fielder injured the finger in Boston last May 15, revealed the bone chip. To alleviate the swelling and the pain that have plagued him the past 10 months, the Twins have given Oliva various shots.

The injury, however, hasn't slowed him down this spring any more than it affected him last season. The 23-year-old lefthanded hitter drilled a double and three singles in five times at bat Wednesday in the Twins' 6-4 loss to Philadelphia, raising his spring average to .384.

"My finger doesn't bother me when I make contact with the ball," Oliva said after the game. "Only when I swing and miss, then the finger hurts. But I wear a rubber cushion on it when I bat, and that helps some."

Surgery, team officials said, will have to be postponed until the end of the season because it would keep him out of the lineup for two months.

If you asked the other teams, they wouldn't miss him at all.

While Oliva was belting Phillie pitching, the Los Angeles Dodgers were mauling Whitey Ford for the second time in five days. In trouncing the New York Yankees 12-2, the Dodgers rocked Ford for 11 runs and 12 hits in five innings. That gave the Dodgers 15 runs and 20 hits against the veteran southpaw in nine innings.

Several other pitchers turned in notable performances. Veteran Robin Roberts gave up only one run and three hits in five innings as Baltimore nipped the Chicago White Sox 5-4 while young Sam McDowell limited the Los Angeles Angels to two hits in seven innings in Cleveland's 4-2 victory.

In other games, the New York Mets downed Milawukee 5-1, St. Louis edged Detroit 302, the Chicago Cubs overpowered another Angel squad 8-7, Pittsburgh stopped Houston 5-3, Boston outslugged San Francisco 11-7, Washington mauled Kansas City 12-2 and Cincinnati trampled Detroit's B team 19-2.

No Favorite In Azalea Golf Open

WILMINGTON, N. C. AP-- The $28,750 Azalea Open, a golf tournament without a solid favorite, opened today over the sandy stretches of the 6,700-yard, par 72 Cape Fear Country Club course.

The purse is a record by Azalea standards, but sill relatively modest enough to keep many of the major cash collectors along the tournament trail occupied elsewhere.

Labron Harris Jr., 1962 U. S. amateur golf champion, has his first money on the pro tour this year.

His six-under par 66 gave him first place and $250 in Wednesday's $2,500 pro - amateur warm-up. He picked up an additional $175 when he and his three amateur partners shot a best ball 57 to tie for the top in that division.

N. Y Commuters May Be Saved

WASHINGTON AP -- The smart money is saying that the Interstate Commerce Commission will approve a merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads- and wrap the bankrupt New Haven into the same package.

A ruling from an ICC examiner is expected in a week or two, but the commission probably won't act before summer.

While the ICC may save the New Haven, the 19,000 commuters who ride its travel-weary cars into New York City daily won't necessarily benefit.

Nor would the expected merger decision be any help to the five other New York-area railroads which also want to dump their losing commuter service. And it wouldn't point to a solution for other big cities across the country to whom New York's problems reflect their own in a larger scale.

For those 19,000 who work in New York and ride the New Haven to and from their homes in Westchester County and Connecticut, there's one glimmer of hope: That Washington will release modest grants of already authorized mass-transit funds to keep the trains running. No new legislation would be required.

No one is sure the grants would suffice, or if they merely would postpone inevitable disaster for a couple of years.

When it comes to helping the commuter, everybody points to somebody else. In the case of the New Haven's New York to Boston passenger service -- which is typical, only more so- it goes like this:

- The Johnson administration firmly notified Congress this month it will not approve federal subsidies for rail passenger service. This apparently has killed subsidy bills introduced by New England senators.

-Since Uncle Sam pays up to 90 per cent of the cost of new auto freeways, the states find it a better bargain to put their own money into the freeways instead of rail transit systems.

So what are the answers?

So far, they are fuzzy, complicated and incomplete.

Starting from the assumption that the New Haven will be saved from oblivion by hitching it onto the proposed Pennsy-N. Y. Central system, the proposed rescue measures involve:

First, persuading the Housing and Home Finance Agency that a mass-transit "demonstration project" can be made of the New Haven's commuter service. This would qualify it for a $3-million grant from already authorized funds. It would have to be matched by $1.5 million of state money.

Second, designating a public authority -- the state of New York, for instance, or a regional agency - with whom HHFA can legally make the contract.

Third, making the demonstration successful enough to justify a further $10 million grant to buy modern cars and equipment. New York and Connecticut would have to put up $5 million each to match.

Onions On The Double

Onions - to enhance, enliven and add enjoyment to many a meal -- are available in most Midwest food stores in ever-increasing numbers.

Onions have been listed among the better buys in fresh vegetables for several weeks, by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. And now shipments of new onions from south Texas are getting underway -- adding to the supply.

The result of this doubled-up crop should be especially attractive prices to consumers during the next few weeks-- on the Yellow Globe variety first, and soon the mild, sweet type from Texas.

The yellow Globe variety is easily recognized by its globular shape. Ranging from 3 to 10 in a pound, these onions measure up to about 2 1/2 inches in diameter. Yellow Globes are favored for general cooking.

Mild, sweet onions -- Spanish or Bermuda types -- are large and elongated or flat. These often are used raw in sandwiches and salads.

When selecting onions, choose those that are bright, clean, firm and well-shaped, advises USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Be sure they have dry skins and no sign of sprouting.

Although onions keep well at home in a cool, dry place, it is advisable to buy small amounts often. Home storage conditions tend to vary.

Son Writes To Mom, Says The Fight Is Worth It

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — Probably more than most mothers, Betty Wason Hall understands what prompted her soldier stepson to write from Viet Nam complaining about Americans who want the U.S. to pull out.

"I know what war is and I know how deeply you can get to feel about a cause when you are right there where the cause is being fought for," said Mrs. Hall. "I was a CBS war correspondent in Greece and Scandinavia in 1939 and 1940."

Mrs. Hall commented on the letter her stepson, Spec. 4 Lance R. Hall, 20, sent to her recently from Viet Nam in which he said:

"I wish all those people back home who think we ought to pull out, and are raising so much hell about it, would think twice."

Mrs. Hall sent the letter on to President Johnson with a note saying she thought the President would like to hear what one soldier is thinking about America's part in the Viet Nam crisis.

Johnson wrote Mrs. Hall, thanking her "for sharing with me the thoughts of your fine son, written thousands of miles away in Viet Nam."

Mrs. Hall said in an interview Wednesday that before she received the letters from her stepson, she had begun to wonder if the United States shouldn't pull out.

"Then I received Lance's letters and they told me that there was a good reason to be in Viet Nam," she said. "They told me that here was a boy right there who could see what was being accomplished and I knew then that we must stay there."

She said Lance showed her in letters how "we are at last making progress here with the South Vietnamese people."

"He showed me and told me how we were making friends with the people there and how they needed us and we had to help them," Mrs. Hall said.

She said Lance, the son of her former husband by an earlier marriage, had not lived with her for many years until he came to her at the age of 16.

"He was a very disinterested boy," she said. "He couldn't even get interested enough in school to finish high school. So he dropped out and went into the Army because there wasn't anything else to do.

"Now, at long last, he has found something to really interest him — the welfare of people he never saw before. He has a cause to fight for and I'm not going to let him down."

Never give up. For 50 years they said the horse was through. Now look at him — a status symbol. — Fletcher Knebel

Filing Incorrectly Will Draw Attention

ST. LOUIS, Missouri -- Filing a carelessly prepared or incorrect Federal income tax return is a sure way to get special attention from the Internal Revenue Service. However, this special attention has no benefits; just delay and additional cost of handling.

Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, District Director of the Internal Revenue office for Missouri points out 6 common items that delay the processing of returns. They are: (1) failure to attach W-2 forms, (2) no signatures, (3) tax information not legible, (4) failure to list dependents and exemptions, (5) failure to total deductions, and (6) failure to list Social Security number.

What happens when the taxpayer forgets one of the above? Mr. Bookwalter said the return must be specially handled and any refund will be delayed. If the taxpayer calls or writes about his refund, this inquiry takes clerical help away from the processing of correctly prepared returns. Thus, all returns are slowed up.

Review your return very carefully when it is completed, Mr. Bookwalter advised. After you are sure it is clear, complete, and correct, mail it to 1114 Market Street, 63101.

Football fever reaches astounding proportions in Columbus. The huge horseshoe stadium opens on a vista which includes the eleven-story Ohio State University Hospital. All the staff that can make it are found at the game every Saturday--even the doctors from the obstetrical floor. However, they have worked out a signaling system. Whenever the arrival of a new "fan" is imminent, a nurse hangs out a sheet from a hospital window. One hanging from the fourth window from the right calls Dr. Brown; one from the second window, Dr. Smith; and so on. It isn't unusual to see two or three sheets flapping in the autumn breeze as the docs make a hurried exit.

Portable Peaches

Home gardeners can ejoy a new dimension in plant pleasure by using Armstrong's amazing new Bonanza peach bush in containers and planter boxes. These tiny, toy-like trees normally produce fruit when they are only 2 to 3 feet tall, and they flower exquisitely in the early spring. In containers they can be moved around to highlight the patio, porch or any corner of the yard or garden.

Economy Pushing Upward

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The final days of the year's first quarter are seeing a spurt that is pushing the nation's economy to an unexpectedly high level. It is making this spectacular gain with the help of some unusual incentives, such as fear of a steel strike, but also in the face of some setbacks that normally would have dragged it down.

First estimates put the gain in the first three months of 1965 as perhaps the largest since World War II.

This was accomplished despite:

Blizzard that cut factory production, notably of autos, at times in the industrial Midwest and Northeast;

Dock strikes that for weeks paralyzed traffic in and out of Atlantic and Gulf ports and stymied production of export goods, and an up and down stock market that reflected investor — and business — concern over international developments and over the very age of the present business upswing, now into its fifth year.

The economy admittedly has been helped by nervousness over a steel strike deadline May 1 which has led users to try to build up inventories as a hedge and record auto production and sales with much of the demand, at least in the first weeks of the year, traceable to catching up after the auto strikes of last fall.

But steel's record production now is due to other things besides just strike hedging. Use of the steel has risen so high that purchasing agents haven't been able to build up the inventories they set as goals.

Auto sales are running far above a year ago, with last fall's strikes almost forgotten. Latest sales figures show some models running ahead of this time last year by from 19 to 36 per cent.

Spending for new construction, despite lagging housing demand, is now running well above the first year as well as far above year ago figures.

The economy's big upward surge thus seems tied to other things than just nervousness over labor troubles in the offing or effects of past strikes.

Armed Forces

BAD HERSFELD, GERMANY (AHTNC) -- Army PFC Donnie J. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dee E. Williams, Route 1, Box 68, Oran, Mo., was assigned to border patrol duty with the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment in West Germany, March 15.

Williams will be taking part in continuous surveillance missions designed to provide immediate notification of any aggressive activities along the northern sector of the East-West Germany border.

A tank crewman in Troop K of the regiment's 3rd Reconnaissance Squadron near Red Hersfeld, Williams entered the Army in April 1964 and arrived overseas the following November. He received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 19-year-old soldier attended Oran High School.

FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON, IND. (AHTNC) -- Pvt. Ira W. Blankinship, whose wife, Barbara, lives at 11707 E. 50th terr., Kansas City, Mo., completed a pay specialist course at the Army Adjutant General School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., March 23.

During the course Blankinship received instruction in the preparation of Army pay records.

The 19-year-old soldier entered the Army in October 1964 and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conliff C. Blankinship, live in Canalou.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman Dwight F. Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman F. Townsend of Rt. 1, Advance, Mo., has completed his Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Townsend is being assigned to an Air Defense Command (ADC) unit at Peterson Field, Colo., for training and duty as a transportation specialist. His unit supports the ADC mission of defending the continental U. S. against enemy air attack.

The airman is a 1964 graduate of Advance High School.

4th ARMORED DIV., GERMANY (AHTNC) — Army PFC Gary L. Hartlein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan E. Hartlein, Canalou, Mo., was assigned to the 4th Armored Division in Germany, March 12.

Hartlein, a member of Company D of the division's 24th Engineer Battalion near Furth, Germany, entered the Army in March 1964 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

U.S. ARMY, EUROPE (AHTNC) — James R. Wheatley, son of Mrs. Annie B. Hopper, Route 2, Box 41, Matthews, Mo., was promoted to specialist four, March 11, while serving with the 125th Transportation Battalion in Germany.

Specialist Wheatley, a mechanic in the battalion's 533d Transportation Company near Augsburg, entered the Army in September 1963 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 21-year-old soldier attended Anniston High School.

Long Receives Merit Award

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., receives today the National Editorial Association's annual award of merit.

The award, presented by Bordon B. Seavey, president of the organization, cites Long for his persistent sponsorship of legislation to provide increased access to government information. Long is sponsor of legislation to provide freedom of information.

In remarks prepared for the ceremony, Long said numerous instances of government agencies and bureaus "withholding information which the public has a right to have make it increasingly clear that something has to be done."

"If an informed electorate hopes to ride herd over the agencies, the mimeographed release of the agencies alone is not enough," Long said.

He added that since Congress passed the law under which the regulatory agencies are withholding needed information from the public, it is up to Congress to correct the problem.

"Unprecedented Demand"

Don M. Hayes, president of the Du Quoin State Fair, said this week in a special announcement, "The advance sale and requests for tickets to the Lawrence Welk Show on Labor Day night far exceeds anything we have ever seen here at Du Quoin for a night show."

The announcement of Fair stars, Hayes explained, is usually made in February, and, while the ticket office does not open until April, ticket orders are accepted. This year, however, there already has been a landslide of requests for Labor Day night, so order processing has already started, and the orders will be filled according to priority based on the date of their receipt.

"I am making this announcement," Hayes said, "simply because we do not want anyone, especially our patrons of many years, to be disappointed. Most people honestly believe they are ordering tickets early enough for good seats if they order two to three months before Fair time. But this picture has changed."

"For example," Hayes went on, "the orders for the Lawrence Welk Show are exceeding, week for week, those of the Red Skelton Show two years ago. And we thought that pace was terrific!"

Although this year's Fair dates are Aug. 29 through Labor Day, Hayes said the unprecedented demand for tickets has already forced order processing to begin.

Food Stamp Program

Almost any homemaker would like to have more money for purchasing food. Fortunately, though, most of us can get along -- keep our family fed at a healthful, non-hungry level --with what we have.

And well we should, for America's farmers grow more food than we can eat or export. Our nation is blessed with a variety and abundance of foods never before known by any country.

Yet, some Americans have poor diets and resulting from poor health -- because of low incomes. This situation prompted the federal government to seek a balance between this lack of buying power and a plentiful food supply.

The answer was the Food Stamp Program which increases the food purchasing power of those who need it most -- a dream come true for many low-income homemakers.

The Food Stamp Program operates through normal channels of trade. Families -- which first have been certified as needing this help -- exchange the amount of money they could normally be expected to spend for coupons which are worth more. The U.S. government, through the U.S. Department of Agriculture, pays the difference.

Coupons are issued to families in economic need of food buying assistance, though not necessarily those receiving public assistance of some type. This is determined by public welfare agencies in the designated area. The Consumer and Marketing Service of the Agriculture Department cooperates in the program with welfare departments.

Families use these coupons to buy food in regular retail stores at regular prices. If you live in a county where such a program operates, you may well be shopping along-side folks who are benefitting from this food buying assistance.

Pilot, or experimental, projects have been operating in a number of areas since 1961. In these locations, surveys indicated that food stamp recipients made significant increases in purchases of nutritious foods, such as meats, dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables. Even so, they still do not eat as well as higher income groups.

Last year Congress passed a Food Stamp Act which allows for gradual expansion of the program over a period of years. Expansion of the Food Stamp Program already has been approved for a number of areas in the Midwest.

Programs formerly on a pilot basis and continuing under the new program include: Franklin Co., Ill., Vanderburgh Co., Ind., Detroit, Mich. (expected to be expanded); Carlton, Itasca and St. Louis counties, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Cuyahoga and Lucas counties, Ohio; and Douglas and Iron counties, Wisconsin.

Already operating are new projects in Harrison, Perry and Spencer counties, Ind., and Price and Langlade counties, Wis.

On April 1, Food Stamp Programs are scheduled to begin operating in Cook County, Ill.; Posey Co., Ind.; Koochiching and Lake counties, Minn.; and Hamilton Co., Ohio.

Still other programs include: Gogebic and Houghton counties, Mich.; plus Minneapolis, Minn.

Druid was the name given to a priest among the Celts of ancient Gaul and Britain, according to Britannica Junior Encyclopaedia.

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION (Con't.)

55. Recommendation:

That certificates of nonuse be accepted only when vehicles are to be used exclusively on private property or when specifically authorized by the Director of Revenue.

The 1955 Commission found the possibility for rebates on license fees for periods when a vehicle was not in use; and the possibility for avoiding the penalty for late license renewal by submitting a certificate of nonuse.

The 1965 Commission has found no change in legislation that would prevent these same possibilities from materializing. Certificates of nonuse are still accepted by the Motor Vehicle Registration Unit. There is no apparent misuse of the certification privilege, however, the 1965 Commission is in agreement with its predecessor --opportunities for misuse of the certification should not exist. Legislation should be enacted to restrict the acceptance of certificates of nonuse.

56. Recommendation:

That the state prison industries receive an appropriation dedicated specifically for the manufacture of all license plates and tags used by the Motor Vehicle Registration Unit of the Department of Revenue.

This recommendation of the 1955 Commission is repeated, since conditions remain substantially the same as in 1955. During the past ten years the Department of Revenue has negotiated with the Department of Corrections for favorable license plate prices. This negotiation does not alter the definite possibility that one department may be subsidized from another department's appropriation. The Department of Corrections should justify the appropriation required for manufacturing license plates and tags to the satisfaction of the General Assembly.

DRIVER'S LICENSE

Recommendations:

57. That the drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses be issued as embossed plastic cards with the driver's license number encoded in binary decimal bar graph code.

58. That all traffic enforcement agencies be encouraged to adopt a uniform traffic violation report (ticket) that will accommodate the proposed plastic card driver's license and chauffeur's license, such a ticket to be a machine-readable card.

59. That the Driver's License Unit of the Department of Revenue replace key punch and verification machines with a single machine to read, punch, and verify the proposed traffic violation card.

The use of the plastic card driver's license is not only a more permanent license, but its use in preparing source documents will greatly improve the accuracy of permanent drivers' license records while simultaneously reducing the cost of record processing.

Traffic citation forms consisting of a card processable by standard machines together with the required onionskin copies should be adopted throughout the state. Such forms could then be processed by arresting officers, courts, and the Jefferson City office with speed and accuracy. The use of the embossed plastic card license together with imprinters would eliminate errors due to inaccurate copying or poor handwriting. These errors can now cause posting of traffic conviction points to the wrong driver's account.

Information recorded on the citation forms in binary bar graph code can be read, punched, and verified into the citation card itself. This same card can then enter the existing data processing system for drivers' license records. One machine is available that can replace eighteen machines now used in Jefferson City for converting handwritten drivers' license records into machine language -- replacing these eighteen machines can save the state as much as $36,500 annually.

Five states now use embossed plastic card drivers' licenses and eight states plan imminent conversion to such licenses. Missouri's use of this type license would improve the accuracy of drivers' license records, speed the processing of traffic convictions, and reduce the cost of the driver's license record keeping.

Eggs Still a Big Bargain

Eggs are still a big bargain at most of the nation's food markets, although prices are inching back up toward more normal levels.

Despite the increase, eggs are expected to continue low for several weeks. They make a good meat - substitute during lent.

Meat prices are holding steady in most sections. Some pork cuts, however, may carry bargain price tags in some markets. The wholesale prices for beef are up somewhat and those for pork are down just a fraction.

One national supermarket chain cut pork chops prices 20 cents to 79 a pound for weekend specials in its New York area outlets.

Pork loins and spareribs are lower on the West Coast.

Meat prices in the Midwest are reported to be slightly less attractive this week. Beef chuck, rib and rump roasts and picnic hams are said to be among the better buys.

Low temperatures and bad weather have cut into some of the fresh fruit and vegetable supplies. Cucumbers and green pappers are reported sharply higher, with lettuce, tomatoes, radishes, corn and potatoes also showing increases at the wholesale levels.

Green beans and yellow squash are in abundant supply, however.

To Your Health

Seed pods of roses, often called rose "hips," are one of the richest sources of Vitamin C, according to Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, Calif. For centuries, American Indians collected and dried them as a winter diet supplement.

BEGONIA?—First name of Begona Palacios translates as "begonia," but "tiger lily" might be more appropriate. The 20-year-old Mexican starlet makes her Hollywood debut in a Civil War-era film, "Major Dundee," soon to be released. Oldsters will find she recalls to mind the sultry Lupe Velez of an earlier picture era.

What Roosevelt And Johnson Have In Common

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Warren G. Harding said "God, what a job," but President Johnson has the same relish for it that President Franklin D. Roosevelt did. Roosevelt and Johnson have had more than that in common.

Historians put Roosevelt, who started out promising a "New Deal," among the great presidents. It seems clear, from the sweep of his programs and his promises of a "Great Society," that Johnson hopes to be in the same group.

Johnson, always impressed by Roosevelt, is operating in much the same manner: action, bold and broad proposals, and expressed concern for people.

The direction of the two men is the same even though Roosevelt took over in the depths of depression while Johnson began his four-year term last January when, to use his own description, the economy was "excellent."

Johnson even uses some of the words, goals, and ideas of his mentor.

"This generation of Americans has a rendezvous with destiny," Roosevelt said in accepting renomination in 1936. Johnson in his inaugural last January said, "For every generation there is a destiny."

In his first inaugural Roosevelt said, "This nation asks for action." Johnson promised "action" in his inaugural. Starting out in the presidency, Roosevelt said, "Our primary task is to put people to work."

Johnson in his economic report this year put employment first among this country's "unfinished tasks."

In his 1933 inaugural Roosevelt rattled off a list of programs he wanted Congress to approve. In his inaugural Johnson rattled off almost 50 proposals he wants action on.

Roosevelt created an American social revolution out of the necessity of depression, although actually he was only trying to bring the long tardy United States abreast of policies reached by European countries years before.

In doing so the wealthy and aristocratic Roosevelt antagonized business and was regarded as a radical and traitor to his class by the well-to-do but he was basically a conservative trying to catch up with the times.

Johnson learned from Roosevelt's mistakes in dealing with big business and is courting it as zealously as labor although his programs won't have the same wide and far-reaching effect on business and the rich as Roosevelt's.

But then Roosevelt was dealing with a crisis that Johnson doesn't face.

Johnson, who switched ground during his 23 years in Congress, so far has escaped any flat tags of left or right although, for his strong support of civil rights, segregationist Southerners may consider him a traitor to his Southern background.

But the programs Johnson has handed Congress are generally in the tradition of the New Deal: medical care for the aged, aid to education, antipoverty, housing, and others.

Johnson had far more experience in government and with Congress than Roosevelt and the experience is beginning to show.

For instance, where Roosevelt was able to get through some of his programs in a moment of national desperation, but did badly later, Johnson, under no such pressure, is making astonishing progress and hopes to continue it.

Only time will tell whether Johnson and Roosevelt had something else in common: much less concern about foreign problems than domestic ones.

If Roosevelt had shown more awareness of what was building up in Europe before Hitler went to war, and more leadership in trying to thwart it or get prepared for it, history might have been different.

Because of his long service in Congress, almost all of Johnson's experience has been in domestic affairs, not in foreign ones. And he has said very little about them after 16 months in office, compared with all he has said about the problems at home.

Plan Bath Carefully

Modern bathrooms require just as much or more careful planning as any other part of the house, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau reports.

Before buying a new home or modernizing an older one, families should take careful stock of their bathroom needs. How many people are there in the household? What ages? What sexes? How many prefer the tub baths and how many showers? What provisions should be made for guests or domestic help?

Family comfort and an agreeable home atmosphere depend to a surprising extent on how efficient the plumbing is. Inadequate facilities mean overcrowding, irritated tempers and impatient waiting in line.

Experience proves that families of three or more are being unrealistic if they imagine that one bathroom can adequately serve their needs. A survey of home buyers shows that six out of seven who bought single - bath dwellings now wish they had two or more baths. Most said they would be willing to pay for the additional facilities.

Bathroom planning should be based on a realistic appraisal of the amount and type of traffic they'll be called upon to handle. For instance, in a family with several male members, it's a good idea to have twin lavatories to speed rush-hour shaving. And twin lavatories in their own bathroom will delight teen-age girls.

Mother always appreciates a vanity-lavatory in her bedroom to enable her to wash her hair, primp or freshen up in privacy without tying up the bath to the exclusion of other family members.

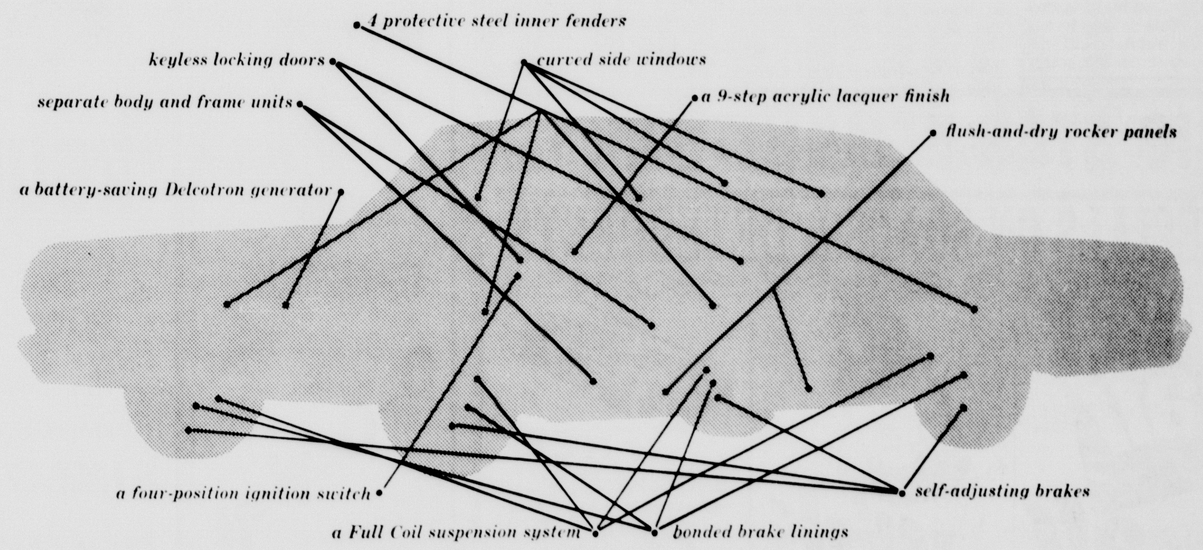
CHEVELLE by Chevrolet
No other car of its size offers more



Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

No matter how you look at it, this car makes a lot of sense.

If you're interested in value (and who isn't), the eleven features above give you a good idea why more intermediate-size car buyers are thinking Chevelle.

If you're looking for a wide power choice, Chevelle starts out with a standard 120-hp Six, an ideal city performer. After that you may order from a variety of engines that turn it into an even greater highway performer.

Room? Large door openings. Wide curved side windows for extra shoulder room. Great front and rear leg room. Those four, five or six passengers have it made. And so do you. Chevelle may seat like a big car but it handles like a smaller car.

Comfort? Thick wall-to-wall carpeting in Malibu models. Foam-cushioned seats. Easy-to-read instrument panel. The whole interior looks like those in cars costing far more.

Come on down to our showroom and take a drive soon. Chevelle begins to make even more sense after you've gone a couple of miles.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By
Howard F. Kershner, L.H.D.

Our country is new but exceedingly well developed because a vast amount of hard work has been done by those who preceded us and by many of our contemporaries. Other countries that were old before Columbus discovered America are underdeveloped because insufficient work has been done in them. If they wish to become developed, they must work. We might help them in some small degree by "foreign aid" but this is often of doubtful value as it may lead to less indigenous effort and it often has led to governmental policies which are not conducive to encouraging greater effort.

There are probably basic reasons why some countries are notoriously underdeveloped. Climate may be one factor. Ideology is most certainly another. The millions of sacred cows and monkeys in India which consume vast quantities of foodstuff while contributing nothing to the wealth of the country are undoubtedly a severe handicap to the Indians.

Without any doubt, governmental and economic policies, which discourage effort, are the main reason for underdevelopment in many lands. Men work hard when there is incentive, when there is hope of being able to enjoy the fruit of their labor. But when restrictive legislation, excessive taxation and socialism greatly reduce the reward for which one may hope as a result of his work, much of the incentive to exert oneself is gone.

In Europe and in North America men learned to limit their government and therefore to enjoy a far greater measure of freedom. This greatly increased their incentive as it made it possible for them to enjoy a far greater portion of what they produced. That is the secret of Western prosperity. The same system will work anywhere in the world. Development will take place anywhere when the minds and bodies of men and women are unshackled.

The development of a country requires individual moral character. It involves the understanding of economic law, the maintenance of sound, honest, non-inflatable money, limited government, low taxation, the encouragement of thrift, saving and free enterprise. The same [illegible] that brought development in some countries, if faithfully practiced, would also bring it to the underdeveloped countries. This is not to say that foreign capital will not help. And, if it is the policy of the underdeveloped countries to be fair with foreign capital -- that is, to refrain from excessive taxation and confiscation and to allow a fair portion of its earnings to be sent home, the needed capital will flow into the underdeveloped countries almost automatically.

Work, freedom, fair play for capital and no socialism! These are the ways of developing the underdeveloped countries.

Lightest Mexico

By John Abney

Mexico City - You wouldn't believe all the things we are getting in Mexico these days but the latest item to arrive is a tranquilizer for dogs. These curious little pellets are called something like "Dogquilizers" or "Tranquilpups."

And apparently any dog can walk right into a pet shop here and buy some without a prescription. Animal psychiatrists say the pill industry developed this special formula for canines who bark and romp excessively.

So far, no tranquilizers have been developed for cats. Possibly because cats seldom bark and romp.

But suppose a cat sits on your back fence some night after you drag home from a fiesta and he begins baying at the moon. It wakes up the baby, who also begins baying. You can throw the baby at the cat and there is no need for tranquilizers.

Dr. Eustace Talcumbaum, the eminent Mexican psychiatrist, says dogs DO need tranquilizers because they have lived too long around people. Dr. Talcumbaum says many neuroses are contageous and dogs, being man's best (and practically only), friend, are bound to catch something.

Today's canine is the victim of personality disorders, phobias, obsessions and even nervous tics. He is plagued by anxiety and doubt because he has read, or at least seen on television, where dogs are shot to the moon or end up being arrested by dog catchers just for being dogs.

Mexico's constitution prohibits dogs from making their own living and decrees that all canines must be owned by people; apparently a setup devised because people are more easily convinced to pay money for dog licenses the same as they must buy plates for automobiles.

I once had a dog with a district license, a city license, an anti-rabies license and countless others. He developed what is known as a license syndrome and thought he was a 1936 station wagon. We called him Ford.

In his puppyhood, Ford was free of psychic disturbances. He spent many happy hours fishing in Acapulco and attending the annual carnivals in Mazatlan and Veracruz.

Later, after fraternizing with people and having several pounds of license plates attached to his collar, he became moody and developed conflicts. Dr. Talcumbaum believes Ford's political phobia was projected to rabbits.

He (Ford) pursued them incessantly. Perhaps if we had renamed him Missile it would have given him a sense of security. He might even have learned to fly and hunted birds instead of tearing across stony fields, which proved to be his undoing.

One Spring day while chasing a rabbit across rough terrain and honking at the top of his voice, Ford had a blowout, lost control and turned over several times. He died in Dr. Talcumbaum's arms and his (Ford's) last word was a pathetic "Be-e-e-ep." If only there had been dogquilizers in those days we could have kept him asleep for years.

At any rate, I found out about these pooch de-energizers after the Lady from Puebla bought some in bulk for the neighbor's dog which is in love with a Water Spaniel next door. She put them in an empty bottle labeled Sodium Bicarbonate Tablets and I took six one night after reading the front page of a newspaper.

It was the best month's sleep I ever had and the Lady from Puebla says I didn't howl once.

"The lowest ebb is the turn of the tide."

VERTICAL ENVELOPMENT—Republic of Vietnam Airborne Infantry drop in to reinforce Government troops in a fight with the Viet Cong forces. A pathfinder team lands in advance of the troopers to guide and control them on the ground, and to insure link-up with ground forces.

Eggs and Eggs

Egos -- or personalities -- show when a person voices a preference for a style of cooked eggs . . . or so an unknown psychiatrist claims.

For example, hard-cooked eggs are supposedly preferred by one who is persistent, dynamic and sincere. Soft-cooked eggs are preferred by a gentle, patient, kind person. Medium-cooked selection indicates a calm, cool and collected composure.

Poached eggs supposedly are preferred by the speedy, peppy and intelligent. Scrambled -- first choice of most Americans -- suit the artistic, nervous and passionate.

Among fried egg styles, differences exist. Sunnyside up eggs are selected by the happy, healthy and wise, while the versatile, magnetic and dominant prefer turned - over eggs.

Shirred eggs suit the fancy of the fastidious, romantic and sensitive. A sturdy, reliable, conservative type is likely to choose an omelet.

Turning the tables, now, and "reading" the personality of eggs, one might label them sensitive (to heat), artistic (as in meringues), practical (in general use) and versatile (as shown by the many and varied uses).

All of which indicates -- if nothing more--that eggs can be fixed in many ways . . . and all are popular. Furthermore, they can be served economically, too, because of the attractively priced abundance currently reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Private Water Wells Rapidly Increasing

The water-finding divining rod may be a relic of the past, but private water wells are going stronger than ever. More and more people every year depend on them for their supply. According to the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, more than 10 million families are now using private water systems -- double the number 15 years ago.

There is good reason for this, of course. Water mains across the country have not kept pace with our exploding population and the accompanying development of suburban and rural areas. Nor is this a disadvantage, because the private well and water system can offer numerous benefits.

Families with individual water systems have no restrictions on usage -- they can sprinkle the lawn or wash the car any time they wish. They are not subject to reduced water pressure because of heavy use by others in the community. And when it comes to quality, individual water supply is better in most cases.

What about cost? There is, of course, an initial investment -- well drilling, pump, and storage facility. However, when measured over a period of years, the individual system often proves more economical than the monthly municipal water.

Should a family wish to build a new home, the individual water supply offers complete freedom in selecting a location. Choice of building sites can be made without concern for the existence of water mains.

Birds in Yellowstone National Park heat their nests by building them in the drift of warm vapors from geyser basins.

Plan Ahead, Save Money With "Stub In Piping

In building a new home, families like to provide as many conveniences as possible for comfortable, pleasant living. Not every prospective homeowner, though, can afford to have every convenience at the time his new home is built.

But by planning ahead, certain things can be added later at a greatly reduced cost, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out. For example, it is possible to save a good deal of money later by having the plumber contractor "stub-in" piping when the house is built -- to provide for future water needs as the family and finances increase.

Stubbing-in is easily accomplished by the plumbing contractor. In a family room, for instance, the homeowner may anticipate the need for hot and cold water outlets, but be unable to afford installing a sink or drinking fountain. In such a case, the contractor will install the proper piping at the location of future fixtures, and cap it. When the house is finished, these capped pipes will be concealed by the walls of the room, and the homeowner provided with plans indicating their exact location.

In the years that follow, when it is decided to have the added fixtures installed, the homeowner saves in two ways. First, remodeling costs are held down. Walls are opened at exactly the place where the sealed piping is located. This reduced the cost of plastering or new paneling. Second, because the piping is already there, the contractor can install and adjust fixtures quickly. This provides a savings in labor charges.

Such savings can make it economical to bring a host of conveniences to many rooms in the house. Pre-planning and stubbing-in for a laundry room, powder room, bedroom lavatory, or even a patio sink will mean added convenience at minimal cost.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—On what occasion did American colonists disguise themselves as Indians?

A—In 1773, a band of colonists disguised as Indians boarded the ship Dartmouth in Boston Harbor as others stood watch. They seized 342 chests of tea and tossed them into the sea. It was the climax of the colonists' fight against British taxation.

Q—Which president is referred to as the "Father of the Constitution"?

A—James Madison

Action, Not Worry, Solves Problems

by Helen Hennessy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Worry seems to be the young adult's constant companion. You can take a lot of premature weight off your teen-age shoulders, though, by acting rather than brooding.

What do you worry about?

You have plenty of company if you worry about your figure, your complexion, your popularity and your brains (i.e., school grades).

Whether you wallow in self-pity with others your age depends upon the steps you take to correct what you consider your shortcomings.

First, ask yourself if you haven't set impossible goals—for your appearance and accomplishments. Then, weigh your reaction to the criticism of others. Be sensible. When something bothers you, take action. Don't just stew.

● Do you worry about being too thin or too fat?

Before you stop eating or start stuffing yourself, find out what your weight should be for your height and bone structure. For example, your bone structure establishes the general shape of your figure. If it's large to begin with, you'll always weigh more than you may think fashionable but without looking heavy. Try this structure test as a guide:

Measure the width of your right wrist and note the total. Your waist should be 4¼ times the width of your wrist; hips 6 times wider; thigh, 3½; calf 2¼ and ankle 1¼ times the width. If you consistently are less or more than you should be in all these areas, do something about your weight.

● Do you worry about your skin? Perfect skins are rare. You can minimize skin problems and help prevent flare-up of skin eruptions through regular skin care.

For example, if your skin is oily and tends toward blackheads and other blemishes, wash it with a medicated cleansing jelly (Fresh-Start). This helps clear pores, stimulates your skin and combats excess oiliness.

● Do you worry about others liking you? Both boys and girls will like you if you (a) like them and (b) like yourself. You have to offer something — humor, enthusiasm, appreciation, sincere interest. When you learn the secret of this, you build your own confidence.

● Do you worry about your school grades? You should but are you aiming for straight As by cramming and not through true interest in your subjects?

Relax. Start working for a B, for example, and you may get those As once your own personal pressure is off.

Fine Failure

Susan B. Anthony, the suffragette, was arrested and fined $100 for voting in the presidential election of 1872, but she refused to pay the fine and was not forced to do so.

"No" Is Again The Answer For Abolishment

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House said "no" again Tuesday on a bill to abolish the job of county school superintendent where it is no longer needed.

The bill was killed 81-57, one vote shy of enough to pass. An effort to revive it is expected.

The measure would declare the office abolished in all 26 counties where it was vacant last Jan. 1.

In counties where there are less than four districts still not reorganized, voters would decide whether the office would be abolished.

Recent governors have been reluctant to fill vacancies in the job in reorganized counties because the superintendent then has only nominal duties.

Twenty - five members were absent or declined to vote on on the bill Tuesday.

On a vote of 128-11 the House passed a bill to ban job discrimination on account of age for those between 40 and 65.

Also sent to the Senate without discussion, 136-1, was a bill to extend the school retirement program to non - teaching employes of public schools.

Another bill passed would let judges release an accused person without bond on his first offense, except in the case of major crimes.

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee to endorse a bill to set up an administrative hearing officer for state licensing boards.

The committee deferred action pending a hearing for the opponents.

Eagleton said few if any of the boards are equipped to conduct judicial hearings and pass on license suspensions or revocations.

Under his proposal a commissioner appointed by the governor would hear such cases. His decisions would be subject to review in the courts.

A similar proposal was recommended by the "Little Hoover" Commission.

The committee also deferred action on bills to repeal the uniform commercial code enacted two years ago and to set up a Mo-Kan agency to help develop the Kansas City metropolitan area.

Sponsors of the Mo-Kan plan said a substitute would be presented to broaden bonding powers.

Postmen Find Repellent To Be Best Friend

WASHINGTON AP -- The postman's best friend, a dog repellant, has increased by 40 per cent the likelihood that he will swiftly complete his appointed rounds in one piece.

That's the progress report Asst. Postmaster General Richard J. Murphy recently gave the House Appropriations Committee.

Dogs sank their teeth into postmen 7,000 times last year, costing them more than $1 million in sick leave and doctor bills, Murphy said. But over the last five months -- since the carriers began carrying a repellant which keeps Fido at a distance - disabling dog bites were reduced 40 per cent, Murphy told the committee.

The sweet cassava is used as a substitute for potatoes.

Employment Comp. Fund Transferred

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Herman Julien, director of the Division of Employment Security, reported today the unemployment compensation account is being transferred from the Central Missouri Trust Co. here to the Suburban Bank of Kansas City.

Julien called it a relatively small account that has an average balance of around $2 million. He said unemployment benefit checks totaling between $1 and $1.5 million are drawn on the account each week.

Central Missouri Trust, which Gov. Warren E. Hearnes campaigned against last year as the center of the "Establishment," has had the account only about a year, Julien said. Before that it was in the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis for many years.

Since becoming governor, Hearnes has refused to approve Central Missouri Trust as one of three major state depositories. But it has retained its position because Treasurer M. E. Morris had declined to submit a new list of proposed depositories.

Today's Spanish Lesson

By William Archer
Lesson No. 27

Reading time 5 Min. Study time 5 Min.

Yesterday we showed you that the Spanish verb ending 'mos' means 'we' in English. 'Vamos' means 'we go,' 'we are going', 'we will go':

A) We are going to the hotel B) Vamos al hotel. C) VAH-mos/ahl/o-TELL

A) We are going to swim. B) Vamos a nadar. C) VAH-mos/ah/nah-DAHR

With this simple sound, 'VAH-mos' (vamos), you control the first person plural of the future tense. Isn't this a wonderful "key"? With it, you can add the infinitive of ANY verb in Spanish and control the entire future tense of the language.

We promised you control of Spanish with just twelve sounds and endings. Here are the first eight:

A) I want B) quiero C) key-AIR-o; A) We want B) queremos C) care-RAY-mos; A) I go, I am going, I will go B) voy a C) voy/ah; A) we go, we are going, we will go B) vamos a C) VAH-mos/ah; A) he wants B) quiere C) key-AIR-ray; A) they want B) quieren C) key-AIR-en; A) he goes, he is going, he will go B) va a C) vah-ah ; A) they go, they will go, they are going B) van a C) vahn/ah

It really is easy. Simply commit to memory these eight sounds and endings and you will be able to, by employing the infinitives of the verbs, use the Spanish language in the present and future tenses. (NOTE: In the third person singular and plural it is necessary to use the personal pronoun to indicate the person speaking -- he, she, you (s.) or they, you (p.).

Spanish is perhaps the easiest and most perfect language on earth (with the exception of its 'rregular verbs). Because rules of grammar in the language seldom vary, the pronunciation of Spanish words almost never varies. If it does, a written accent indicates the variance.

With the SPEED SPEECH SYSTEM, you avoid the tremendous task of verb conjugation and can move through the language with ease. Remember, English is 70 per cent Latin and another 15% is Latin 'kin' through synonyms. You already know 85% of Spanish by just knowing English. The movement of verbs is all that disturbed you. This never disturbs the child because, by instinct, he uses the SPEED SPEECH SYSTEM.

We know that you are anxious for more nouns because you now possess the verbs to use them with. So, here are more nouns:

A) pork B) puerco C) poo-AIR-co

A) tomato B) tomate C) toe-MAH-tay

A) spoon B) cuchara C) coo-CHAH-rah

A) ham B) jamon C) hah-MOAN

A) fruit B) fruta C) FROO-tah

A) knife B) cuchillo C) coo-CHEE-yo

A) Ice cream B) helado C) a-LAH-doe

A) onions B) cebollas C) say-BO-yahs

A) fork B) tenedor C) tay-nay-DOOR

Do not add nouns to your vocabulary without using them in a sentence, such as, 'I want a knife, please'. -- 'He wants ice cream'. -- 'I want fruit', etc.

Tomorrow we will give you the "keys" to the past tenses. Just four sounds and endings. That is all, and you will then be able to say and write anything you want to in Spanish.

Spanish Speed Speech appears in The Daily Sikeston Standard as a public service. The Speed Speech course consists of a textbook, a set of two 45 rpm. records and a dictionary of working words. You may purchase any one or all three items by sending check or money order for $3.04 per each in care "SPANISH" this newspaper. We are so sure that you will be pleased, that we offer a money-back guarantee.

WINGS OF SPRING—Horsehair wings, sprinkled with daisies, highlight this spring bonnet, created by London designer Reed Crawford.

A 19-year-old draftee from the hills of West Virginia was assigned to an Army school where a requisite for graduation was a security clearance. Weeks passed, and still his clearance didn't come through. His superiors were baffled, since the boy had never traveled, his family had been Americans for generations and he seemed far too innocent ever to have gotten into difficulty. He was on the verge of being transferred, when a letter from a relative back home resolved the mystery. "John, boy," it read, "you in trouble? A lot of federal men been around asking questions about you. Course we ain't told them nothing. . ."

John sent the folks a quick explanation — whereupon they cooperated with "the feds." Soon afterward his clearance arrived, and he graduated with honors. — G.C.

Convenient, Canned Pears

Pears -- canned pears -- specifically, canned Bartlett pears are in abundant supply right now.

The supply, in fact, is about 50 per cent larger than last year. This is a near record, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service which lists canned pears among the most plentiful foods for March and April.

The convenience of this canned fruit -- for both quick, ready use and home storage -- is a particularly good feature at this time of year while fresh fruits are seasonably more limited.

Bartlett pears boast the smooth texture and delicate flavor that years ago won pears the nickname, "Butterfruit." Grown largely in the rich, volcanic soil of the Pacific Coast orchards, this variety is consistently fine-falvored, uniform in shape and color and just-right sweet.

These are the qualities which make canned pears so companionable, too. Pears are easily teamed with other fruits, many vegetables, cheese, poultry, meats and seafood. Not only will they make tasty salad ingredients and refreshing desserts, but pears make fine accompaniments to protein items.

Take advantage of the abundant supplies of canned Bartlett pears by purchasing several cans . . keep some for future use, and try these USDA recommended palate - pleasing pear recipes.

PEAR - SEAFOAM SALAD
1 c. cottage cheese
1 pkg. lime-flavored gelatin
1-3/4 c. hot liquid, (pear syrup plus water)
2 tblsp. lemon juice
6 to 8 canned pear halves
2 tblsp. pimiento
1/2 c crushed pineapple, undrained.
2 tblsp. green pepper, chopped

Dissolve gelatin in liquid; add lemon juice. Cool. Pour a thin layer into round oiled 8-inch pan; allow to set. Cool remaining gelatin until syrupy. Drain pears. Place pimiento strip in tip of each pear cavity before placing pear cut-side down in gelatin. Combine pineapple, cottage cheese, green pepper and remaining pimiento and fold into remaining gelatin. Pour mixture over pears; chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate. Garnish with a ring of cottage cheese around edges and in the center, and parsley sprigs around edge. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

PEAR KABOBS(hors d'oeuvres)

Cube canned pears and hearty aged cheddar cheese. Insert a tiny wooded pick into pear cube, and then cheese cube (kabob fashion). Perch on miniature "hot" meat ball.

Other kabob ideas to be served hot or cold: Pears, cooked ham cube, pineapple; Pears, olives, cooked lamb cubes; Pears, Plumped prunes, turkey cubes.

PEARADISE SHORTCAKE
1 pkg. Chocolate Cake Mix
4 to 6 canned Bartlett pears, diced
Whipped cream

Bake cake in square or rectangular pan, according to package instructions. Cool. When ready to serve, cut cake into squares. Split pieces and fashion into individual shortcakes using diced pears for filling and whipped cream for topping. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Today's Kitchen Is "Star" of Home

Some of the most significant advancements in this year's new homes are in the kitchens.

Kitchen planning has, in fact, become an exact science, and no room in the home today has been so completely revolutionized in appearance and function, reports the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

Before some of the nation's best designing talent tackled the problem of making it more pleasant and useful, the kitchen of many homes was a sorry sight. All too often it had a cluttered look due to poor arrangement of appliances and equipment. It was poorly lighted and hard to work in. Keeping it clean was a major problem.

Contrast that with the modern kitchen where everything is well arranged and conveniently at hand -- a pleasure to work in and easy to keep spotless. The center of food preparation is, of course, the sink, with its flanking countertops. In the well-planned kitchen, the range, refrigerator, automatic dishwasher and storage areas are installed so that the housewife has the fewest possible steps to travel between them and the sink.

Modern sinks in single, double and even triple bowl styles come in a myriad of colors as well as stainless steel. Hose spray attachments and food waste disposers are coming to be "standard equipment."

To obtain professional help in planning your kitchen, consult an experienced plumbing contractor, the Bureau suggests. He is an expert who will help

Create just the kind of kitchen you want.

2 YEAR NAVY ROTC PROGRAM NOW AVAILABLE

The Navy has announced a new two year college program leading to a commission in addition to the 4 year program currently being offered under the Navy Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

The new two year program, to be taken in the junior and senior years, open NROTC opportunities to the men who did not participate in their freshman and sophomore years.

The program includes a six-week summer training period prior to the Junior year in addition to on-campus instruction during the junior and senior years. Successful applicants will receive $40 a month during Junior and senior year plus $78 a month during the summer session.

Students at colleges which do not have NROTC programs can enroll in the program at those schools sponsoring NROTC units.

Applications may be made at any U.S. Navy Recruiting Station.

papers defended the employment of tear gas. At the Capitol here, after getting an explanation from McNamara, several senators spoke out to defend what had happened.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said use of tear gas to rescue captured Americans from the Viet Cong, or to overcome guerrillas hiding among Vietnamese civilians was justified.

What caused the storm of protest?

Several forces seemed to be involved:

1. A general fear in many foreign countries that the United States is expanding the conflict in Viet Nam toward a major war with Red China.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, whose government supports U. S. defense of South Viet Nam, asked President Johnson Tuesday to explain a statement attributed to U. S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor in Saigon that there was no limit on escalation of the fighting. Johnson is said to have replied that U. S. actions would be measured, fitting and adequate to meet Communist aggression.

The U. S. position is that the Communists are forcing expansion of the war with their operations in South Viet Nam. But no one can give any guarantees how far the Communist operations and U. S. counter-attacks on North Viet Nam will go. Each new development on the U. S. side is likely to provide a focus for protests by those who would like to have the United States make peace quickly in order to avoid greater conflict.

2. The effort of Communist countries to discredit and undermine the whole U. S. policy in Viet Nam, as a means of swinging public opinion against it. Washington officials recall that during the Korean conflict Communists accused the United States falsely of waging germ warfare. They expect Communist officials, press and radio to try to turn any American action against this country, and especially to exploit any U.S. mistake of policy or propaganda.

3. A deep-rooted horror of gas warfare, dating back at least 50 years to the use of gas by the Germans in World War I.

The Germans first employed gas against French and British troops on April 22, 1915. They used chlorine gas, according to military records. Mustard gas, which was the type most commonly used in World War I, was largely responsible for one - third of the 272,000 casualties American troops suffered in the war.

In 1925 an international conference at Geneva wrote the international agreement which stands as the main document on this subject in international law today. The agreement was defined as a "protocol for the prohibition of the uses in war of asphyxiating, poisonous, or other gases, and of bacteriological methods of warfare." The agreement was signed by the United States among others but was never ratified here and is not legally binding on this country.

U. S. officials say, however, that the treaty's prohibition of gas warfare and its statement that use of gas weapons "has been jointly condemned by the general opinion of the civilized world" has been in line with American policy on the subject. The legal argument advanced by officials in the present situation is simply that tear gas is different.

The U. S. legal case rests on the contention that the kind of gases used in Viet Nam, generally classed as "tear gas," have become in modern times a common and customary police method of dealing with riots. What is common and customary in civilized countries, officials say, is generally accepted under international law as being legal. Rusk hit on this point in his news conference.

Rusk also touched briefly on another point which seems to baffle officials here. That is: Why is world public opinion so sensitive to what the United States does in Viet Nam but seemingly so indifferent to what the Communists do?

While insisting that gas had been used in a few instances essentially to save lives where explosives would have taken heavy casualties, Rusk also said that during 1964 the Communists killed more than 400 South Vietnames civilian officials and kidnapped more than 1,000. Among other civilians, he said, 1,300 were killed and more than 8,000 kidnaped.

"Those who are concerned about tear gas," he said, "I would hope would be concerned about those facts."

Checks To IRS Should Be Labeled

ST. LOUIS, Missouri --When you send a check to the Internal Revenue Service, be sure you indicate what it is for, District Director for Missouri, Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, cautions taxpayers.

"Often, we receive payments with no explanation of what they are for," Mr. Bookwalter said.

When this happens, the checks are placed in a special account. Every effort is made to identify the payments. But this takes time and additional clerical help -- help which could be used to process refunds. Internal Revenue has a large number of checks just waiting to be credited to some taxpayer's account.

Mr. Bookwalter asks taxpayers sending in checks or money orders in payment of taxes to attach Internal Revenue's bill or notice to their payments. If you do not have a bill or notice, attach a note stating what the payment is for, the year of tax, and the type of tax owed. Please be sure to include your name, address and taxpayer identifying number. For most, this is the Social Security number.

It's also a good idea to keep your money order stub or cancelled checks in case you ever have to verify your tax payments.

Moribund March

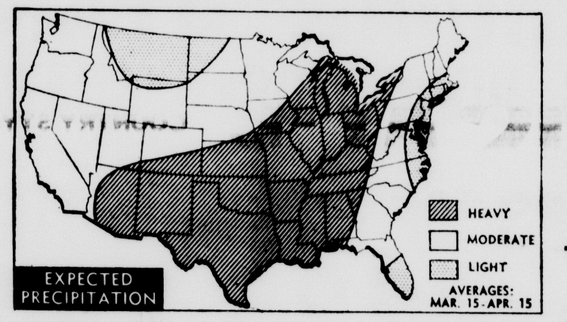
Below normal temperatures will chill most of the country. Above normal temperatures are expected along the east coast and in Florida.



Heavy precipitation will cover part of the nation's mid-region. Most of the remainder of the country will see moderate dampness.

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I need a grownup to stick up for me. Will you be the one? Our next door neighbors are moving out of town in a few weeks and they want to make me a present of their two hamsters.

My mother says I can't take the hamsters because they will smell up the whole house and also they hatch very often and we will have three dozen before we know it.

Our neighbors enjoyed the hamsters very much and they had them for almost a year. Also I don't think their house smelled any worse than anybody else's house.

I promised Mom I would take care of them and they would not get in anybody's way. She still says no. Please help me. --Pet-Less

Dear Pet: If your neighbors had the hamsters for almost a year and there are still only two, they are probably brothers.

I can't help you with the smell argument, because they sure do--but children learn a great deal from having pets. They also develop a sense of responsibility when they are given a chance to care for living creatures. I hope your Mom will reconsider and I also hope that she doesn't get mad at me for putting her in one heck of a spot.

Dear Ann Landers: My business (construction) took a turn for the worse. I found myself unable to finance my freshman daughter's education for the remaining two quarters of the year.

I asked my married daughter (whose education I paid for) to loan me the money to put her sister through. This married daughter now earns $5300 a year teaching. Her husband makes $8500 a year. They have no children and no debts.

Her answer shocked me. She said, "If you can't afford to keep Romona in school let her go to work."

When I was growing up we were taught to share and help each other out. I feel that my oldest daughter is selfish and short-sighted. Will you comment on family responsibility, please?--Disappointed

Dear Disappointed: In many families, where there is real warmth and love, older brothers and sisters do help the younger ones through college. Unfortunately your family is not so blessed.

Your older daughter is doubly selfish. Not only did she refuse to help educate her sister, but she refused her father a loan.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a newcomer to your country and have a few questions which may seem silly to girls who have grown up here.

When my date calls for me what should I do with him? If I am not ready do I shout, "Please sit down," or what? If I am ready, do I ask him to be seated? If so, for how long? Should I encourage him to speak with other members of my family the first time he comes to our home or would it be best to wait until the second or third date? Should I offer him a cup of coffee?

Customs vary according to the country and I don't want to frighten a young man away with too much, or too little, attention. Thank you. --San Fran

Dear San: A young man appreciates it if the young woman is ready when he arrives. If he shows up early, ask another member of the family to greet him and visit until you appear.

But speed it up, Toots. He did not come to your home to chat with your Aunt Tillie. Skip the coffee, and be on your way.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDER'S booklet "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go." enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

matter of fact

The game of bridge, a name applied to each of the three card games, bridge whist, auction bridge and contract bridge, derives from the game of whist. Bridge whist has been obsolete since 1910. Surveys have indicated there are about 5,000,000 auction bridge players in the United States today. Auction bridge once had 15,000,000 players in the United States before it became secondary to contract bridge in the 1930s.

Looking Back Over the Years

50 YEARS AGO
March 25, 1915

The Sikeston High School basketball team played Caruth at Senath Friday evening that resulted in a score of 25 to 18 in favor, of Sikeston. A second game was played on Saturday evening with a score of 25 to 20 in favor of Sikeston.

Saturday, March 13, was the birthday of Mrs. Laura Smith and her son, Dr. Handy Smith. In honor of the occasion Mrs. Handy Smith gave a dinner party.

March 25, 1925

The Sikeston High School players came second in the dramatic contest, which was held in the Charleston auditorium last Friday afternoon. The first prize went to the Charleston players, who presented a one-act play, "Rats."

The friends in Sikeston of Max Smith will be glad to hear that he is the father of a girl baby born Sunday at Monroe, La. The young lady has been named Maxine.

The Memorial Park Association is preparing for a big special close out sale of family burial lots. The association reports that the sale of family lots has been far above expectation and they hope to close out the remaining lots in this special sale.

Campaigns for funds for relief work in the tornado stricken districts of Southern Illinois and Indiana, got under way in Sikeston Tuesday, when the Chamber of Commerce started its personal soliciting among business men and when the local Red Cross organization arranged with the Malone Theatre for a benefit show next Thursday.

March 25, 1935

Five Sikeston Boy Scouts were named Friday evening as members of a Southeast Missouri area council group which will attend the national Scout jamboree in Washington, D. C., from August 21 to 30, Wilbur Ensor, a member of the area jamboree committee, announced Saturday. The Sikeston Scouts are: Melvin Taylor, Joe Dover and William Van Horne, all Eagles and members of Troop 41; Walter Swan, a Star scout and member of Troop 42; and Albert Canoy, Life, Troop 43.

As a result of Coach William E. Mahew's announcement that he would organize a high school baseball team, 40 men students reported for the first practice Friday.

Final tabulations of the census data shows that there were 10,879 bales of cotton ginned in Scott County from the 1934 crop as compared with 72,761 bales from the 1933 crop.

Calmness and fast, sane thinking and strong safety belts undoubtedly saved the lives of Leonard McMullin and Granvill J. Phillips Thursday afternoon when the two-seater plane in which they were riding stopped upside down in a gumbo clover field near Clarktown after striking the ground, jumping a drainage ditch, and scooting through mud.

20 YEARS AGO
March 25, 1945

Rationing was extended to baby shoes sized 0-4 in an announcement by the Office of Price Administration today. Hitherto, rationing has affected only those shoes from sizes 4 1/2 up.

Keasler Motor Co., is the name of the business for which a large, modern building is being erected on Highway 61 just north of Tanner street. Hubert Keasler, owner of the building, plans to operate a Pontiac sales and service agency.

Another new building for Highway 61 is the brick structure being erected a few blocks south of the new Keasler building. W. E. Reed of Union, Mo., is the owner of this building, which is being built of brick and is 20 by 40 feet in size. An apartment, consisting of three rooms and bath, will be on the second floor. The building is to be leased as a restaurant.

More building activity on the highway includes the work of restoring the Ethridge Recapp Tire Co., whose plant was nearly destroyed by fire several weeks ago.

The Lord said, . . . "Should not I pity Nineveh?" (Jonah 4:10 to 11, RSV)

PRAYER: Good Lord, give Thy servants to understand and fulfill their calling to be instruments of Thy mercy. Help us as we minister to the spiritual and other needs of persons. Help those whom we serve to accept salvation through Christ our Lord and give Thee the glory. Amen.

Arthur Pierce, Jr.

Arthur Pierce Added To Ten Most Wanted List

Arthur Pierce, Jr., reportedly armed with .45 and .38 caliber revolvers and charged with the strangulation - murders of and Indianapolis, Indiana, mother and daughter, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

The nude and molested bodies of Pierce's alleged girl friend and her 15-year-old daughter were discovered in their Indianapolis apartment on June 13, 1964. Both women had been strangled and sexually assaulted and Pierce was reported to have been in the victim's apartment the night before the bodies were found. Pierce, who had been paroled from the Indiana State Penitentiary at Michigan City, Indiana. On January 19, 1964, reportedly had been residing at the women's residence since his release from prison. When investigation indicated his apparent flight from Indiana to avoid prosecution for this crime, FBI assistance was requested to locate him.

A Federal warrant was issued at Indianapolis, Indiana, on June 15, 1964, charging Pierce with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

The criminal career of this fugitive began with his arrest and conviction for burglary in 1954 at the age of 18. He was sentenced to one year and confined to the Indiana State Farm in Greencastle, Indiana.

He was arrested again in January, 1960, for auto banditry, and after conviction was sentenced to ten years in the Indiana State Reformatory, Pendleton, Indiana, where he remained confined until his parole in January 1964.

Pierce is a white American who was born at Indianapolis, Indiana, on May 8, 1936. He is 5'7" tall, weighs 190 to 210 pounds, has a heavy build, medium complexion, brown hair and brown eyes. In addition to a burn scar on his left forearm, he bears scars on his left wrist, right wing finger and left thigh. He has been employed as a mechanic, painter, produce salesman, truck driver, used - car salesman and welder. He reportedly wears upper dentures and may have ulcers.

He has been described as polite, smooth - talking and well-mannered and is said to frequently drink beer and "screwdrivers," a mixture of vodka and orange juice. He reportedly dresses neatly in flashy but inexpensive sport clothes, smokes cigarettes and inexpensive cigars, enjoys poker and "crap games" and occasionally dances, swims, roller skates and attends movies.

Since Pierce is wanted in connection with two strangulation-murders and may be armed with .38 and .45 caliber revolvers, he should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Arthur Pierce, Jr., you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

An old-school Navy officer, a tough, rough and highly efficient disciplinarian, commanded a training station in Virginia. On the base were some 65,000 Seabees. When I was on a routine food-inspection tour of his post, the captain proudly showed me around. The high point of the tour was a huge dome-shaped cage at least 15 feet high and 30 feet in diameter, located near his quarters. In the cage was a large bird. The captain pointed out with justifiable pleasure that his boys had presented him with this eagle as an emblem of his rank and authority. I looked in astonishment at the specimen, but simply hadn't the guts to tell him that his bird was a buzzard — and an old one at that! — Maj. A. H. Bryan, USA (Ret.)

Round Steak Turns Regal In Roll-Ups

An easy-to-serve entree makes entertaining fun! When the main course can be whisked to the table either to be passed around or served by the host, it gives a casual mood to the dinner.

If the entree is handsome as well as interesting, then the meal is well on its way to being a success. Round steak, cut into individual servings and wrapped around carrot and dill pickle strips, is suggested by noted meat authority, Reba Staggs, as a good choice for such a main dish.

To prepare the roll-ups, the round steak servings are first pounded with a meat mallet or the edge of a sturdy saucer from the purchased thickness of one-half inch to one-fourth inch thickness. After rolling, the meat is dredged in seasoned flour and browned in lard or drippings. Bouillon is the braising liquid along with flavorful seasonings of chili and Worcestershire sauce plus a bit of savory.

Regal Beef Roll-Ups
1 beef round steak, cut ½ inch thick
1 large carrot
3 medium dill pickles
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
¼ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon savory
Four for gravy, if desired

Cut steak into 6 servings and pound to ¼ inch thickness. Cut carrot into thirds and each third into six strips. Cut dill pickles lengthwise into quarters. Place 2 dill pickle strips and 3 carrot strips on each piece of steak. Roll as a jelly roll and fasten with wooden picks or string. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water. Add chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce and savory and pour over beef roll-ups. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Thicken liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 servings.

Rainfall Record

Cherrapunji, in India, holds the world's records for most rainfall in a single month and a single year. The town was drenched with 1,042 inches during the 12 months following August of 1860 and its total monthly fall in July of 1861 exceeded 366 inches.

Today In U.S. History

Today is Thursday, March 25, the 84th day of 1965. There are 281 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1911, the Triangle Waist Company fire occurred in a 10-story loft building in New York City; 147 lives were lost.

On this date

In 1776, Gen. George Washington was awarded the first Congressional Medal.

In 1865, Confederate forces captured Ft. Stedman, Va.

In 1939, Adolf Hitler announced the German people would stand shoulder to shoulder with the battle-proved Italian nation.

In 1942, the U.S. 3rd Army crossed the Maine River 27 miles east of the Rhine Bridgehead.

Ten year ago—Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri said he would not enter any presidential primaries in his attempt to win the Democratic presidential nomination.

Five years ago—The Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice commission held Egypt responsible for a grenade attack on a gathering in Patish, Israel.

One year ago —The British set aside an acre at Runnymede, the site of the Magna Carta signing, as a memorial to President John F. Kennedy.

Simulated Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Far beneath the Nevada desert, the United States has developed means of simulating the altitude conditions a nuclear-tipped missile would encounter if detonated at nearly 100 miles above the earth.

This was learned today in an interview with Brig. Gen. Delmar L. Crowson, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Division of Military Application.

All indications are that such a manmade creation —deep within the earth — of the vacuum at the fringes of outer space is designed to:

—Help further improve America's defenses against enemy missiles.

—Enhance the power of U.S. missiles to penetrate an enemy's electronic and other defenses.

Crowson said further that deep drilling techniques developed for underground nuclear tests at Nevada and elsewhere have a rich potential pay-off for peacetime industry, especially the oil and construction industries.

The general discussed the novel nuclear weapons testing technique in amplifying somewhat the AEC's recent disclosures that "sifnificant progress" has been made in improving America's nuclear defensive and offensive capabilities through underground testing. The limited test-ban treaty excludes all but underground testing.

The AEC recently reported to Congress:

—Development and deployment of new, more powerful and versatile nuclear bombs and long-range missiles.

—Significant progress toward further increasing the "hardness and penetration capability" of the missile warheads — that is their powers to penetrate enemy defenses and to withstand countermeasures.

—Further advances in the art of developing relatively "clean" weapons — that is, those having less radioactive fallout.

—New progress toward improving capabilities for detecting underground tests by other nations.

Crowson said one of the major techniques developed for underground testing is the carving out of huge subterranean rooms, with tunnels radiating from them, much like spokes of a wheel. These rooms range up to 900 cubic yards in size.

Nearly all air can be pumped out of large-diameter pipes in the rooms to create vacuum conditions. Weapons devices can be detonated under conditions simulating an altitude of up to 400,000 or 500,000 feet, the general said.

House Finally Passes Sales Tax Bill On Gross

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House finally advanced a bill to put the sales tax on a gross receipts basis Wednesday after a long and bitter battle.

The bill was requested by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to plug a $6 million loophole in the present sales tax law. He sent word to House leaders the bill must be moved forward.

And it was—but only after a partisan squabble. Democrats finally pushed it into position for passage on the argument the revenue is needed desparately.

The Supreme Court ruled recently operators of vending machines do not have to pay the 3 per cent sales tax on sales under 25 cents. That knocked a $6 million hole in the administration's budget plans.

As advanced, the bill would require a merchant to pay the tax on his gross receipts whether he collected it from his customers or not.

The House also gave first round approval to a bill changing the sales tax bracket system. Sales under 15 cents would be exempt compared with the present law exempting sales under 25 cents.

Late in the day the House revived and passed a bill to abolish the job of county school superintendent in counties where reorganization of districts has left the official with only nominal duties.

The bill failed to pass Tuesday by one vote. But when revived Wednesday it cleared on a 95-56 roll call.

An emergency clause to make the bill effective as soon as by the governor failed to pass.

Two Important School Elections In Mississippi Co.

CHARLESTON-- Charleston's annual school election will be held Tuesday, April 6. Voters will elect two members of the county board of education.

Seeking re-election without opposition from the first county court district is Delmar Alcorn. Hunt Wellborn is running without opposition from the second district.

Voting places will be at the Bertrand School, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend Schools, Dorena, Pinhook, Wyatt, and Anniston Schools, at the Courthouse in Charleston and at the East Prairie High School. The polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

The R-1 District voters will vote on a tax levy of $3.19 per one hundred dollar assessed valuation for one year.

April 7, is the date set to enlarge the R-1 School District by the addition of the Bertrand, Texas Bend, and Thompson's Bend School Districts.

Passage of the reorganized proposal would eliminate the last three director districts in Mississippi County, and leave only Charleston R-1 and East Prairie R-2 Districts.

A simple majority of those voting in the entire district is required for passage of the re-organization proposal.

Voting places will be at the Anniston School Gymnasium, Bertrand School, Texas Bend White School, Wyatt Elementary School Thompson's Bend School, County Court Room, Court House at Charleston. The polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Three persons have filed for election to the Charleston R-1 Board of Education, according to Board Secretary Harry Sutherland.

The three are Woodrow Graham, incumbent president of the board, Mrs. W. Clifton Banta, incumbent Vice - president, and Ed C. Marshall Jr.

Filing deadline for the two vacancies on the board is Thursday, March 25, (today).

If the reorganization with Bertrand, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend is approved in the special election, the entire board, including the two members elected the previous day, will be vacated and a new election will be held for the six positions.

All Towns Must File Annual Audit

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A Senate committee Wednesday night approved a bill requiring all political subdivisions within the state to file annually with the state auditor a summary audit of their accounts.

The summaries would be due 120 days after the end of the fiscal year.

The committee also cleared a measure permitting counties to vote a 2-mill property tax to finance a property re-evaluation study.

Another bill okayed would permit cities or counties to contract with the U.S. Corps of Engineers in constructing recreation facilities along waterways.

A cooperating city or county would operate and maintain the facilities when completed.

Approved over opposition was a House bill to require school districts to advertise for bids on purchases in excess of $2,500.

Opponents representing school districts in St. Louis County and Kansas City said this would create an additional and often unjustifiable expense.

It would also raise a question of the legality of cooperative buying by two or more districts, a practice now used in some parts of the state, they said.

Approved by the House Ways and Means Committee was a measure exempting c il service annuities from state income taxes. It is sponsored by Rep. Donald Reed, D - Buchanan County.

One committee approved a bill giving newspapers access to birth and death records of the State Health Division. Under present law only limited inspection of the records is allowed.

Another committee rejected a bill that would have barred sales solicitation by telephone.

Other committees approved bills to:

Require vision tests of motorists when they renew their driver licenses—a measure already passed by the House.

Let cities license any business or occupation except those specifically exempted by law.

Allow police officers to arrest motorists for traffic violations even if they do not see the violation—for example on information relayed by a radar car or a spotter plane.

Libby Ragains

Libby Ragains To Give Piano Solo

Miss Libby Ragains, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ragains, will be featured as the piano soloist with the Sikeston High School Symphonic Band, Early Division, in its Annual Spring Concert on Friday evening.

Miss Ragains is a Senior member of the band and is quite versatile in her musical activities. She plays 1st chair French Horn in the band and is a member of the French Horn Quartet. She is also very active as an accompanist in the vocal department and is a member of the High School Concert Choir.

The featured piano concerto will be the famous Cornish Rhapsody by Sir Hubert Bath. This is a very popular number with concert audiences and will please those music lovers in attendance.

Other numbers to be included in the concert are:

First Suite in Eb - Gustav Holst

Minuteman, Concert March - Pearson

Dry Bones, Swing Version - Arr. Paul Yoder.

Thunderbird - Erickson

Carousel Selections - Rodgers and Hammerstein

The concert will be held at the Middle School Auditorium and will start promptly at 8 P.M. There will be no admission charge and no reserved seats.

Thompson Trial Set for April 22

BENTON — In circuit court this morning, Judge Marshall Craig called the defendant, Tommie Lee Thompson, charged with the murder of Mrs. W. R. Lewis, and his mother before the bench, and granted the defendant until Thursday, April 22, to obtain counsel.

Judge Craig asked the defendant's mother, "How long do you think it will take to obtain counsel for your son?" She replied, "about a month."

He then replied that he would extend the time until the april date, which is law day. The hearing ended at 11:30 a.m.

Bootheel Area Is Cradle Of Early Indian Civilization In America

A land leveling project on the farm on Edward C. Matthews, Jr., this week revealed the home sites of a Woodland Indian tribe that inhabited this area around 2,000 years ago. The farm is located one and one-half miles west of Sikeston, on the Salcedo road. The Gardner and Andrews Landleveling Company were at work leveling the land when the home sites were discovered.

On discovery of this Indian site, Mr. Matthews called the Missouri University Museum of Archaeology. Richard A. Marshall, director, came immediately to Sikeston with Rolland Pangburn, a research associate archaeologist, and the two have spent the past two days exploring the site.

It was learned by the archaeologists that the site found there were two levels of Indian occupation, the last of the two groups were Woodland people lived nearly 2,000 years ago, while an earlier group had settled there a thousand years before.

The historical knowledge was gained by the various type of Indian materials. The Woodland group made sand and clay tempered pottery, as well as stone projectile points. They also had houses on the site, with trash piles still intact.

The earliest level of occupation was one belonging to a late archaic people who did not have pottery, but did make clay balls similar to those made by archaic people at Poverty Point, La., as well as making dart points of stone, which proves their existence of around 3,000 years ago.

The find of these habitation sites in the Sikeston area is a most significant one according to the two Columbia men, and has uncovered a wealth of information on these two tribes.

A circular house pattern was found, believed to belong to these archaic people, and constructed of poles, four inches in diameter, and set deeply in the ground and bent over to meet in the center. The house was 20 feet in diameter. One refuse pit was found just outside of the house circle on the south side.

An adolescent human burial was found just within the house circle on the north side, and the burial was fully flexed with interment face down. These findings marks the first time that the university archaeologists have recorded a house of this age, and also marks the first such has been recorded for the upper Mississippi Valley. They consider it an outstanding field.

It was said by these two men that Indian remains in Southeast Missouri are fast being destroyed by the present agricultural land development and land leveling. The sites of the higher places are being pushed to the lower areas, and it is on these higher places that the Indians and their remains are found.

They feel that some information should be recorded for future study in the development of the Indians of the North American continent. This area is unique as it has played a very important part in the development of pre - historic agriculture in North America.

The University of Missouri does not have access to funds for extensive research in the area and federal funds are not available for salvage in this area. Every effort, however, is being made to record as much of the information as possible, and with the assistance with a few prominent local men, a wealth of information has been obtained.

It is the impression of the Columbia men that Sikeston could become a focal point for a state park for the concentration of a museum in restoring early agricultural civilization to the world, dating back to the time of the birth of Christ. What is so remarkable as has been discovered in recent years, there are at least 15 known Indian village sites within five miles of Sikeston, and many times this number in a 50-mile radius. Due to the lack of funds they are doing whatever is possible to record this ancient history, which is of great importance to the North American continent. It has also been determined that as many tribes have lived in this area, as in any section of the American continent.

A Tree Is Planted On Hospital Grounds In Memory of Mrs. Lewis

Members of the Rose Gate Garden Club met Wednesday afternoon at Delta Community Hospital where they planted a white dogwood tree in memory of the late Mrs. W. R. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis had served with distinction in various capacities, and the past several years had helped to plant flower boxes at the local nursing homes, as well as assisting with the flower boxes in down town Sikeston. In 1964, she was chairman of the Horticulture Committee and helped make the 1964 Flower Show a success. She was vitally interested in Delta Community Hospital and gave very generously of her time to it, serving as a Gray Lady. Because of her interest in the hospital, the Rose Gate Garden Club was prompted to give the tree in her memory.

Guests of the club at the planting ceremony included, W. R. Lewis, Mrs. Ralph Boyer, Bill Board of Directors of Delta Community Hospital, and Harold Jones, hospital administrator.

During the brief ceremony, Lewis, the Rev. Myron Neal, Ed Coleman, President of the conducted by club president, Jane Wilkerson, the Club Collect was read, and after a description of Mrs. Lewis' service to the club and the hospital, Rev. Myron Neal gave the closing prayer.

Approve $199,000 Loan For Kewanee Area Water System

NEW MADRID -- Tentative approval for a $199,000 loan has been given by J. E. Jose, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, to produce, filter, and distribute water for the Kewanee - LaForge - Farrenburg area in New Madrid County.

The proposal is to provide a deep well, a small tank, and a filtering plant at Kewanee and a larger storage tank at LaForge. This system would serve families and businesses in and around these rural communities.

Final approval will be based on certain provisions. Some of the more important of these include:

A water district with a legal board of directors organized under the circuit court.

Water - users agreements signed by 180 customers plus their $30.00 fees, which include a $5.00 meter deposit and a $25.00 service connection fee.

A revenue bond voted by the district in the amount of $199,000 to secure the loan and guaranteed 100% by the Federal government. The bond will not be a tax, on property, but will be repaid from monthly water bills by the users.

Alex Waters and Sons, consulting engineers, Sikeston, will handle the engineering work.

Charles Hatley, Attorney, New Madrid, will be the legal advisor.

An organizing committee composed of Paul Trout, chairman, Lester Merryman, Harold Farrenburg, Jim Spradling, and Jay Blankenship is now contacting prospective customers.

Those interested in setting up this public water supply district should contact the committee at once.

Special Election At Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE--Mayor David P. McCrate, in a special meeting of the city council, passed an ordinance calling for a special election, to fill the vacancy created by the sudden death of the city collector, Mrs. Edna Holman.

"The sudden death of our beloved City Collector, Mrs. Edna Holman, who has served the city for the past 22 years, and who had filed for re-election for this important position without opposition in the forthcoming election to be held Tuesday, April 6th, 1965 necessitated a special meeting called Saturday, March 20th., making it possible for those interested in the position to file anytime before midnight, March 31st."

The name or names of those seeking the position (if they qualify) will appear on the ballot.

Three Check Artists Are Nabbed By Dexter Merchants

DEXTER -- Alert Dexter merchants assisted with the speedy apprehension of three bad check artists operating here during the past few days.

James O. Payne, about 24 of Sikeston, was arrested by city policeman Clay Baker Friday after Payne passed a $13.15 check at Payne's Shoe Store here. James O. Payne is not related to E. P. Payne owner and operator of the Payne's Shoe Store here, it was pointed out.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Paul McGhee, Payne purchased a pair of cowboy boots at the shoe store and then went to Hamra's where he attempted to cash a $15 check. When the Hamra personnel refused to let him take the merchandise from the store Payne left, leaving the check and saying that "he would be back."

He was picked up by local policemen walking east of Dexter over the railroad viaduct. He was wearing the new boyboy boots, McGhee said. Payne was taken to the City jail and transferred to the County jail at Bloomfield late Friday afternoon where he awaits a hearing.

William Lee Rollins, 46, of Rialto Calif., is also in the County jail at Bloomfield after he was arrested Thursday for passing bad checks at Nichols Lumber Company and Hamra's Department Store.

A second Sikeston man, Cecil Beck, a carnival worker, age about 45, or 50 waived preliminary hearing Thursday in Bloomfield and will appear in Circuit Court on April 5 in connection with passing a check for $43.82 at Payne's Shoe Store here on March 10.

The manager, E. P. Payne, was suspicious of the man and copied his automobile license number. After policemen were alerted, the man was arrested later the same day and transported to the county jail where he awaits trial.

Divorce Cases Take Up Most Of Docket In Madrid

NEW MADRID — Divorces took up most of the docket of the New Madrid County Circuit Court this week when seven such cases were heard; however, one person was sentenced on a felony count by Judge William L. Ragland of Caruthersville.

Ronnie McAbee, charged with burglary and larceny, plead guilty to the charges and was sentenced to the State Department of Corrections for periods of two years on each count with sentences to be served concurrently. McAbee was then granted probation.

Irene Carson faced Judge Ragland on a charge of common assault. She was fined $5 and court costs.

Divorce actions were as follows:

Eula Mae Gray versus D. W. Gray — decree of divorce to the plaintiff with care and custody of three minor children.

William Harvey Spencer versus Betty Jean Spencer — decree of divorce to the plaintiff. Defendent awarded care and custody of two minor children.

Margaret Hill versus Hubert Hill — decree of divorce to the plaintiff.

Alla Lorene Finley versus William Woodrow Finley — decree of divorce to the plaintiff with care and custody of three minor children.

Willie Eadie versus Melzina Eadie — decree of divorce to the plaintiff with care and custody of three minor children.

Patsy Ruth Eiceman versus Herman Eiceman — decree of divorce to the plaintiff.

Next Law Day in the court will be held April 13, according to Clerk Van H. Sharp, Jr.

Suffers Propaganda Defeat By Using Gas

WASHINGTON AP -- The United States has suffered a worldwide propaganda defeat on the use of nonlethal gas in the Vietnamese war, and U. S. officials doubt that their counteroffensive now under way can fully overcome the damage.

Communist propagandists are expected to try to keep the issue alive in spite of vehement denials by Secretary of State Dean Rusk that the United States has engaged or ever intended to engage in gas warfare in Viet Nam.

A more serious problem, officials here believe, is that in allied and neutral countries some residue of suspicion is likely to remain in the minds of many people because denials and explanations seldom catch up with an initial blunder.

One result of all this may be a strong reluctance on the part of military commanders in Viet Nam to use nauseous gases hereafter against guerrilla-infested villages in South Viet Nam.

The use of tear gas in such cases is officially considered more humane than bombings and gunfire, but the cost in worldwide public opinion now has to be considered.

That there was a bad blunder in the way the news initially was disclosed last Monday is generally agreed among Johnson administration leaders. An Army spokesman in Saigon said that there had been some experimental use of nonlethal gas against Red guerrillas. The gas was described as temporarily disabling. It was not sharply defined as the kind of gas sometimes used by police forces over the world against rioters.

The announcement touched off a worldwide furor which brought criticism and denunciation of the United States. Questions were raised as to whether the United States was violating a 1925 Geneva agreement outlawing gas warfare. Communist radios in Moscow and the Far East accused this country of barbarity and brutality.

The storm hit official Washington with stunning surprise. Apparently no one in high position had foreseen such an uproar or given any serious thought to the danger of raising the specter of gas warfare when various types of riot - control gas were sent to the South Vietnamese forces in mid-1962.

An initial explanation from the Pentagon began to develop the idea that riot-control gases were those actually involved, but it took more than 24 hours to mount the U. S. counteroffensive.

On Tuesday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara held a news conference to say that the gases used were essentially police-type tear gas and that they had been employed to save the lives of civilians among whom guerrilla fighters had taken refuge. He emphasized that the gases had been used only on two or three occasions.

McNamara said the British had used such gases on Cyprus in 1955.

It was not until Wednesday, however, that Rusk held a news conference to come to grips with the main issue as it was finally defined here - the question whether the United States was in fact launching gas warfare against the Viet Cong.

"The shadow of gas warfare has been raised in connection with these incidents," Rusk said. "That is not involved. We are not embarking upon gas warfare in Viet Nam."

As to future use of tear gas, Rusk said, "no new directive has been issued" to countermand authority to use it.

But he added: "The anticipation is, of course, that these weapons will be used only in those situations involving riot control or situations analagous to riot control."

Even as Rusk spoke, the U. S. effort to explain its position was beginning to show some effect. In London, three leading news-

House Finally Passes Sales Tax Bill On Gross

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House finally advanced a bill to put the sales tax on a gross receipts basis Wednesday after a long and bitter battle.

The bill was requested by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to plug a $6 million loophole in the present sales tax law. He sent word to House leaders the bill must be moved forward.

And it was—but only after a partisan squabble. Democrats finally pushed it into position for passage on the argument the revenue is needed desparately.

The Supreme Court ruled recently operators of vending machines do not have to pay the 3 per cent sales tax on sales under 25 cents. That knocked a $6 million hole in the administration's budget plans.

As advanced, the bill would require a merchant to pay the tax on his gross receipts whether he collected it from his customers or not.

The House also gave first round approval to a bill changing the sales tax bracket system. Sales under 15 cents would be exempt compared with the present law exempting sales under 25 cents.

Late in the day the House revived and passed a bill to abolish the job of county school superintendent in counties where reorganization of districts has left the official with only nominal duties.

The bill failed to pass Tuesday by one vote. But when revived Wednesday it cleared on a 95-56 roll call.

An emergency clause to make the bill effective as soon as by the governor failed to pass.

Two Important School Elections In Mississippi Co.

CHARLESTON-- Charleston's annual school election will be held Tuesday, April 6. Voters will elect two members of the county board of education.

Seeking re-election without opposition from the first county court district is Delmar Alcorn. Hunt Wellborn is running without opposition from the second district.

Voting places will be at the Bertrand School, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend Schools, Dorena, Pinhook, Wyatt, and Anniston Schools, at the Courthouse in Charleston and at the East Prairie High School. The polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

The R-1 District voters will vote on a tax levy of $3.19 per one hundred dollar assessed valuation for one year.

April 7, is the date set to enlarge the R-1 School District by the addition of the Bertrand, Texas Bend, and Thompson's Bend School Districts.

Passage of the reorganized proposal would eliminate the last three director districts in Mississippi County, and leave only Charleston R-1 and East Prairie R-2 Districts.

A simple majority of those voting in the entire district is required for passage of the re-organization proposal.

Voting places will be at the Anniston School Gymnasium, Bertrand School, Texas Bend White School, Wyatt Elementary School Thompson's Bend School, County Court Room, Court House at Charleston. The polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Three persons have filed for election to the Charleston R-1 Board of Education, according to Board Secretary Harry Sutherland.

The three are Woodrow Graham, incumbent president of the board, Mrs. W. Clifton Banta, incumbent Vice - president, and Ed C. Marshall Jr.

Filing deadline for the two vacancies on the board is Thursday, March 25, (today).

If the reorganization with Bertrand, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend is approved in the special election, the entire board, including the two members elected the previous day, will be vacated and a new election will be held for the six positions.

All Towns Must File Annual Audit

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A Senate committee Wednesday night approved a bill requiring all political subdivisions within the state to file annually with the state auditor a summary audit of their accounts.

The summaries would be due 120 days after the end of the fiscal year.

The committee also cleared a measure permitting counties to vote a 2-mill property tax to finance a property re-evaluation study.

Another bill okayed would permit cities or counties to contract with the U.S. Corps of Engineers in constructing recreation facilities along waterways.

A cooperating city or county would operate and maintain the facilities when completed.

Approved over opposition was a House bill to require school districts to advertise for bids on purchases in excess of $2,500.

Opponents representing school districts in St. Louis County and Kansas City said this would create an additional and often unjustifiable expense.

It would also raise a question of the legality of cooperative buying by two or more districts, a practice now used in some parts of the state, they said.

Approved by the House Ways and Means Committee was a measure exempting c il service annuities from state income taxes. It is sponsored by Rep. Donald Reed, D - Buchanan County.

One committee approved a bill giving newspapers access to birth and death records of the State Health Division. Under present law only limited inspection of the records is allowed.

Another committee rejected a bill that would have barred sales solicitation by telephone.

Other committees approved bills to:

Require vision tests of motorists when they renew their driver licenses—a measure already passed by the House.

Let cities license any business or occupation except those specifically exempted by law.

Allow police officers to arrest motorists for traffic violations even if they do not see the violation—for example on information relayed by a radar car or a spotter plane.

Bootheel Area Is Cradle Of Early Indian Civilization In America

A land leveling project on the farm on Edward C. Matthews, Jr., this week revealed the home sites of a Woodland Indian tribe that inhabited this area around 2,000 years ago. The farm is located one and one-half miles west of Sikeston, on the Salcedo road. The Gardner and Andrews Landleveling Company were at work leveling the land when the home sites were discovered.

On discovery of this Indian site, Mr. Matthews called the Missouri University Museum of Archaeology. Richard A. Marshall, director, came immediately to Sikeston with Rolland Pangburn, a research associate archaeologist, and the two have spent the past two days exploring the site.

It was learned by the archaeologists that the site found there were two levels of Indian occupation, the last of the two groups were Woodland people lived nearly 2,000 years ago, while an earlier group had settled there a thousand years before.

The historical knowledge was gained by the various type of Indian materials. The Woodland group made sand and clay tempered pottery, as well as stone projectile points. They also had houses on the site, with trash piles still intact.

The earliest level of occupation was one belonging to a late archaic people who did not have pottery, but did make clay balls similar to those made by archaic people at Poverty Point, La., as well as making dart points of stone, which proves their existence of around 3,000 years ago.

The find of these habitation sites in the Sikeston area is a most significant one according to the two Columbia men, and has uncovered a wealth of information on these two tribes.

A circular house pattern was found, believed to belong to these archaic people, and constructed of poles, four inches in diameter, and set deeply in the ground and bent over to meet in the center. The house was 20 feet in diameter. One refuse pit was found just outside of the house circle on the south side.

An adolescent human burial was found just within the house circle on the north side, and the burial was fully flexed with interment face down. These findings marks the first time that the university archaeologists have recorded a house of this age, and also marks the first such has been recorded for the upper Mississippi Valley. They consider it an outstanding field.

It was said by these two men that Indian remains in Southeast Missouri are fast being destroyed by the present agricultural land development and land leveling. The sites of the higher places are being pushed to the lower areas, and it is on these higher places that the Indians and their remains are found.

They feel that some information should be recorded for future study in the development of the Indians of the North American continent. This area is unique as it has played a very important part in the development of pre - historic agriculture in North America.

The University of Missouri does not have access to funds for extensive research in the area and federal funds are not available for salvage in this area. Every effort, however, is being made to record as much of the information as possible, and with the assistance with a few prominent local men, a wealth of information has been obtained.

It is the impression of the Columbia men that Sikeston could become a focal point for a state park for the concentration of a museum in restoring early agricultural civilization to the world, dating back to the time of the birth of Christ. What is so remarkable as has been discovered in recent years, there are at least 15 known Indian village sites within five miles of Sikeston, and many times this number in a 50-mile radius. Due to the lack of funds they are doing whatever is possible to record this ancient history, which is of great importance to the North American continent. It has also been determined that as many tribes have lived in this area, as in any section of the American continent.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Thursday, March 25 is Big tycoon hits Texas. 1941.

We noticed that the "Black Moses" left the line of march to make a speech in Cleveland but he will be back in line to lead the last mile to the triumphant march into Montgomery.

We wonder just how few really marched the whole way.

It was nice of the Army to set up tents and prepare food for them. President Johnson likes that.

This is one time Governor Wallace outsmarted the President. He is letting us taxpayers from all over the United States instead of just Alabama pay the bill for the marchers protection.

REAL SELF-HELP LESSON:
BLIND WORK IN ALL FIELDS

Whether the job calls for sandblasting, woodworking, printing, cosmetic treatments or dress making, blind persons are there, ready, able and willing to make their mark felt in American industry.

Last year 65 large industrial shops throughout the nation operated by local agencies for the blind did a business of over $35 million. The shops provide manufacturing and technical services to government and industry as well as marketing products to the consumer.

The shops make up the National Industries For The Blind, a non-profit organization which coordinates their productive activities through research, government contracts and placement services.

MANY PRODUCTS

Through the NIB New Products Committee new items for manufacture are recommended to the blind industries. Workshops currently produce household goods under a national trademark. Among them are: aprons, bags, blankets, brooms, brushes, drapes, pillowcases, shoe and household kits. In addition, they manufacture a variety of textile, caning, machine, metal, weaving and woodwork goods for private industry and government.

Industrial contracts with private industry require the workshops to assemble, cut, package, drill, saw, clean and sew. The blind workers are able to meet the demands of highly skilled assembly line production as a result of specially designed tools and machines which have built-in safety devices.

Already aiding in employing thousands of blind persons, the NIB is primarily interested in developing new techniques which will add to the number of jobs created for the blind labor force. To this end, the NIB has recently undertaken three programs which are expected to increase jobs through improved sales and marketing approaches.

NEW PROGRAMS SET

The first program is an extension of the work of the New Products Committee which will go into operation within the next few months. It calls for a NIB Project Development Laboratory which will conduct largescale research on new products and manufacturing methods. The second involves sales approaches. Under the program, more attractive packaging is considered the first approach to better sales. A coordinated packaging plan which would display products to their best advantage is underway.

The third is a specialized plan which deals with both sales and marketing. Through the plan, a market research firm is currently surveying potential products and areas where blind-made products sell most successfully.

The Wall Street Journal looks at the Area Re-Development Administration: "The whole idea behind the AREA reflects the simple old pork barrel theory that just about any depressed area can be revived if you inject enough Federal dollars into it, which may be true in the short run. The fact is, however, that some areas simply cannot be restored to full economic self-sufficiency with any amount of Government funds. Some, for example, lack the manpower, material and natural resources on which a revival might be built. That, however, does not seem to bother the ARA. For in its zeal to spread dollars around as widely as possible, it has approved projects in which a large part of the manpower and materials have to be brought in from other areas -- hardly a technique designed to be of substantial aid to the local depressed economy."

NOT OBSOLETE -- YET!

Competition for shares of the advertising dollar gets tougher all the time. Television has seen to that.

Television people have, on occasion, attempted to sell the idea that their media is a far more effective way of interesting the potential consumer than any other -- including newspapers. So a survey made in Richmond, Va., is of unusual interest.

Editor & Publisher reports: "An independent research organization found that of more than 41,000 telephone calls only about one-fifth of them had the TV set turned on. Of that number 81% were able to identify the program turned on but 71% could not name any sponsor or product or type of product being advertised on that program. And even if the respondent said 'soap' instead of giving a brand name it was counted as sponsor identification, which seems to us like leaning over backward to be fair."

No -- the printed word isn't obsolete yet!

Because gasoline is cheaper than hay, cowboys in Dodge City, Kansas now ride motorcycles instead of horses, according to Oil Facts. The publication says the switch was made because each horse was eating as much as $12 worth of feed a week while motorcycles suitable for the cattle trails could be run on $1.50 worth of gasoline.

Lobbying is a big business today in Washington and State Capitals, but its origin dates back to Biblical times. The boy David of the Bible brought rich gifts to the young lawyers of that time, and these were not always valuable trinkets, but frequently were highly prized foods such as cheese. No doubt he would have given hi-fi record players and vicuna coats if he had 'em.

A small boy in school was told by his teacher to make a Christmas drawing of the Three Wise Men riding their camels across the desert. When the drawing was finished she pointed to a square box with a couple of wires sticking out of it, that was being carried by one of the men. "What's that?" she asked. "Oh, that" said the boy, "That's the portable TV set. I didn't want them to miss Gunsmoke!"

A CONVINCING CHAP

John was engaged to Mary, but had decided to try to break it off as easily as possible. They were going to a dance together, and as they were dancing, John had a bright idea. "Mary," he said, "I should have told you this sooner, but I have a wooden leg." "Why, that is silly," said Mary, "but even so, I still love you." A little while later John tried again, "Mary I also have a wooden arm." "I can't believe that," said Mary, "but even if you did, I would still love you." Now John was getting desperate, "Mary, I also have a wooden head." Mary said, "John, I can't believe that, you will have to prove that to me." So, John said, "All right, I will prove it, but not in this crowd. Let's go out to the car and I will prove it." They had only been gone a short time when some friends missed them, and went out to look for them. Sure enough, there was John in the car screwing his head off!

MIRACLE IN WASHINGTON

Washington -- where "Let Uncle Do It" is the watchword --has just witnessed a miracle.

The capital city's Planning Commission killed a sweeping local urban renewal project strongly supported by the federal Urban Renewal Administration, as well as the local Redevelopment Land Agency and Housing Authority.

Despite this array of government power, private enterprise finally convinced the Planning Commission after nine years that "private development and rehabilitation" make federal bulldozing "not in the public interest."

The Redevelopment Land Agency denounces the action as "a serious blow to the whole urban renewal program . . . not only for Washington, but because what is done in Washington has a nationwide effect."

Hope so.

PROPERTY TAX
STILL MAINSTAY

Although constantly on the lookout for new revenue sources, local governments still depend on the property tax as a principal revenue source, says Tax Foundation.

Nineteen years ago, total state and local tax collections amounted to $10 billion; $5 billion represented collections from the property tax, according to the Foundation's new, 13th edition of "Facts and Figures on Government Finance, 1964-65".

In fiscal 1963, total tax collections were $44 billion, more than four times the 1946 figure. Of this amount, $20 billion came from property taxes.

It is estimated that TOTAL state and local government collections in fiscal 1964 will be between $47 billion and $48 billion, up 370 per cent since 1946!

In the years 1946 - 1963, property tax collections increased just over 300 per cent; collections from sales and gross recipts taxes increased nearly 400 per cent, said the Foundation. Figures for 1946 and for subsequent selected years:

NEW YORK - Ray Stark may become the first man in history to become a millionaire by investing in the memory of his mother-in-law.

"I can't think of anyone else who made money that way," said Stark, grateful son-in-law of the late comedienne, Fanny Brice.

A year ago he launched on Broadway "Funny Girl," the musical based on Miss Brice's career. Starring Barbara Streisand, it cost more than $650,000 -- the largest amount up to that time ever spent on a Broadway show.

In the 12 months since then it has turned the profit corner and grossed in the neighborhood of $5 million, not including the sale of recordings.

Two road companies and a London production are planned and, of course, a film.

As executive vice president of Seven Arts Productions, the 49-year-old, sandy-haired producer will supervise the shooting of 16 films here and abroad this year.

Ray entered Rutgers University at the age of 14 1/2 and three times was thrown out for inattention to his studies.

After toiling briefly as a copy boy and cub reporter here, he drove to Hollywood, sharing his battered auto with a 67-year-old woman to save expenses. There, he worked successively as cemetery florist, vacuum cleaner salesman, studio hand, and magazine editor.

Then he became a highly successful Hollywood agent.

"But the actors were getting 90 per cent, and I was making 10 per cent," Stark recalled. "So I decided to make a stab at the 90 per cent."

The idea of building a story around his mother-in-law, Miss Brice, the famed "Baby Snooks," came to him more than 10 years ago. He is married to the comedienne's daughter, Frances. They have two children.

"I adored Fanny," he said. "She was such a strong dame. We all still miss her terribly."

The romance and marriage of the strong-willed Miss Brice and her equally strong-willed husband, gambler Nicky Arnstein, which became a tabloid saga, is the basis of "Funny Girl."

The Casualty Count by Jerry Marcus

Speed killed 14,190 and injured 1,233,000 in 1963.

The plot to dynamite the Statue of Liberty, Washington Monument and Liberty Bell by at least four conspirators was so fantastic that it might well have succeeded. The nation has seen too often -- and too recently -- what just one madman can do with a weapon of destruction.

The damaging of these shrines could not, of course, compare with the assasination of a president, though there would undoubtedly have been loss of life had the bombs been planted and exploded. But even without the taking of human life, it would have been a crime of monstrous stupidity -- more monstrous and more stupid for having been committed in the very name of the ideals for which these objects stand.

All those who helped nip the plot in the bud are to be commended, particularly New York patrolman Raymond Wood, who infiltrated the conspiracy.

The edge between commitment to a cause and fanatical extremism, between sanity and insanity, is an exceedingly fine one. The world seems to be full of those who, despite the clear evidence of history, believe their particular ends justify any means, that they can accomplish by violence what they cannot with reason and persuasion.

Americans will take a newly appreciative look at these national shrines and, hopefully, ponder a little more deeply the reasons behind their veneration.

Anxious to cash in on his video fame, the star of a medical TV series recently opened in Las Vegas in a night-club act. There isn't too much this fellow can do on stage -- his singing voice is just fair -- but the opening night audience was pleasant and gave him a polite hand. As his act ended, however, two men in the audience jumped to their feet, started cheering and applauding wildly. First-nighters looked at each other in surprise. The act just wasn't that good. "What's the matter with those two guys?" One woman asked her husband. "Drunk?" The husband smiled, "No," he explained, "press agents."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Space Race Installations Choked by New Strikes.

Bay St. Louis, Miss.: -- There may be visitors from another planet before American astronauts get to the half-way station on the moon, if a handful of union leaders continue to call strikes all the way along the construction line in violation of their no-strike pledge.

There have been stoppages and inside demonstrations at key space centers, testing facilities, and at actual rocket production installations for "reasons" ranging from feuds with other unions to a demand for the removal of a ban on smoking.

U. S. construction workers were on strike at "moon bases" at the very moment when the Soviet cosmonaut danced in space.

Thousands of man days and millions of dollars have been lost at U. S. test sites during the past few critical weeks. There is no sense of urgency. There is no sense of purpose.

There is, for example, the untold story of the fuel system which needed to have its pipes cleaned. The system is at the nearby Mississippi Test Operations project close by here. It's handled by the General Electric Corp. which sent it out to a firm specializing in such work. The firm has union men belonging to the AFL - CIO Operating Engineers Union.

After the pipe cleaning, the AFL - CIO pipe - fitters union (part of the plumbers outfit) refused to work on re-installation. The pipefitters claimed they should have done the work instead of the operating engineers.

Result: -- a four - day walkout by over 800 men which in turn kept another 1200 off their jobs for the duration at one of the most vital sectors of the vast Apollo moon project.

The "beef" finally was settled after long conferences between the construction union leaders and a host of NASA specialists and Army Engineer Corps officials who came in from Washington, Huntsville and points east.

Not too far distant from here is the Michoud saturn installation. The Chrysler Corp. is constructing one stage of the vehicle which is expected to put three men in orbit by 1967 as part of the moon program. There, too, Boeing is building the first stage of a vehicle which will head for the moon.

On March 10 the United Auto Workers struck Chrysler there for a short period. The union called out some 200 members in protest against "job classification". One of its people said that the company was putting mechanics in the operators classification instead of the machinists rating. Union men said that "operators" pay is lower.

This triggered a chain reaction in another area of the Michoud rocket works. Chrysler shares the installation with the Boeing Co., which employs 2,100 members of the International Assn. of Machinists (IAM) there.

They became restless. They ran a demonstration, but did not strike. However, the fuse is lit. Some IAM men were suspended.

They claim 16 major grievances. Conversations indicate they are still angry at the suspension of some of the members. Why a demonstration in the first place? The hourly - rated union men complain they are denied the right to smoke, though the salaried, white collar people can.

The unionists say they are denied access to the vending machines for coffee or cigarettes, though the white collar people can go to the machines as they please.

The unionists say they are being abused by a company "Performance Analysis" report. Periodically the foremen file such a "PA" sheet on the workers. The union's shop stewards charge the foremen discriminate against them.

Other members of the IAM claim overtime is not equitably distributed; and that they have to wait weeks for the corrected sums to be paid them when an error is made in their pay checks.

The company retorts that there is no favoritism; and that it has the right to judge the work performances of its employes and certainly the right to set working rules which are not covered by the contracts.

Furthermore, the unionists have access to regular grievance machinery. Yet in this vital section of the nation's vast space mechanism such issues cause delays and irritations certainly unknown to that other space front runner, the Soviets.

Thus it goes all along the line. A few days ago while in the Cape Kennedy area I learned that a pipefitters local in Orlanda was considering placing a picket line at the Cape and Merritt Island Moon Port gates.

There are some non - union contractors there which NASA and the Army Corps of Engineers believe they need because of special skills. The union wants to organize the non - union contractor. It's the union's privilege to try.

But why use the nation's space network as a jousting ground. This would be going for the jugular.

The space complex needs easier breathing for a while -- not more choking up.

DAY OF RECKONING

For a gull generation we were assured it would never happen here. A trusting people were told that the day of reckoning would never come.

We were told we could spend money we did not have, not only on ourselves but all over the world, with never a thought to what that kind of spending would do to the value of money itself. The size and growth of the national debt was dismissed with many a jolly quip about "owing it to ourselves."

The high priests of inflation and deficit spending had a ready answer in the famous crack of their mentor, Maynard Keynes: "In the long run we are all dead."

But nearly two hundred million Americans today are very much alive, and for us "the long run" has become the here and now.

From the firesides of home to the most distant lands, the flight from the dollar has begun. Foreign claim - holders are converting their holdings from paper dollars to real gold, draining our gold reserves out of the country. Our own people, barred by law from holding gold, hoard silver coins in ever - increasing quantities, so that now there is official talk of changing them to nickel or plastic.

No one is sure anymore that the American dollar is as "good as gold," or has any firm expectation of what it will be good for if the present course continues.

It would be better if this course were changed and again the dollar stand for real wealth, not paper promises.

There is no way to change the time. Only the clock can be changed. For the sun comes up and the sun goes down and the hands on the clock goes round and round regardless of the city dads. Its peculiar strong how some wise men can kid themselves.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON-- Gov. George Wallace of Alabama has deviated somewhat from his anti-civil rights crusade to an anti-communist crusade. He blames the communists for the civil rights agitation of today.

When the energetic little Governor came to Washington for a showdown with President Johnson, and the President later led him into the White House corridor to meet the press, Wallace did not know that the correspondent for Pravda, Serguei Vichnevski, was right behind him.

In fact, Vichnevski was being pushed so hard by other newspapermen that he himself was forced against the Governor of Alabama.

In front of the Governor, about three bodies removed, was another Russian newspaperman, Alex Itchkov of Izvestia.

The crush of newsmen around Wallace was almost like the University of Alabama football team tackling ole Miss.

"Vichnevski," called out Itchkov of Izvestia to his comrade from Pravda, "Don't crush Wallace."

The Governor, who doesn't understand Russian, didn't realize that he was being protected by two communists.

---ALABAMA'S OTHER SIDE-

Not far from Selma, Ala., is Mobile, a city which, since the departure of Rep. Frank "all-is-made -for -love" Boykin, has not been much in the headlines. This is partly because smooth race relations do not make headlines.

However, in fairness to Mobile and other Alabama citizens who do not believe in racial understanding, it's important to report that Mobile's library, its golf course, its other public facilities have been peacefully integrated. Mobile theatres are also open to all.

When Negro students were first admitted to Mobile High Schools, the entire police force and auxillary force stayed on duty day and night and successfully avoided serious incidents. Today Negro children are going unmolested to school with white students.

Mobile has a biracial committee which has established conditions where sympathy marches are not necessary. Its police force and sheriff's deputies are fully integrated. Its auditorium has been integrated ever since it was built, and the key to the city has on occasion been given to visiting Negro leaders.

This is the other side of the coin in Alabama.

NAZI PROPERTY REGAINED

On May 19, 1964, this column reported that Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy had completed a deal whereby General Aniline and Film, once owned by the famous Nazi Cartel I. G. Farben, would be turned back in part to a Swiss company which served as a dummy for I. G. Farben. It was reported that General Aniline & Film would be sold, with $60 million reverting to the Swiss dummy, Interhandel.

Following publication, the Justice Department issued vigorous denials. It was stated, among other things, that Interhandel was not a dummy for I. G. Farben; also that Interhandel would not get anywhere near $60 million.

The final chapter in this story occurred only recently. The Justice Department sold General Aniline & Film, which the United States government had seized at the start of World War II, to an investment syndicate headed by Blyth & Co. of San Francisco, the highest bidder.

The amount set aside for Interhandel was $121,905,000 not $60,000,000.

The fact that Interhandel is a dummy for I. G. Farben was officially ruled by three previous attorneys general--Tom Clark, James McGranery, and Howard McGrath, all Democrats. Two Republican attorneys general, Herbert Brownell and William Rogers, who served under Eisenhower, agreed with them.

A Senate committee headed by the late Harley Kilgore, D-W. Va., officially found that Interhandel was a cloaking operation; while the Nuremberg trials revealed that Nazis had planned to "cloak" their chemical operations in the United States.

Note--On May 25, 1964, this column reported that a memorandum had turned up in the Justice Department files signed by Dr. Alfred Schaefer of Interhandel, which read: "We want to keep on dealing through Radziwill." Prince Radziwill is married to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's sister.

-HAMMERMILL AND SELMA-

SNCC, the Students Nonviolent, Coordination Committee, has taken on one of the biggest paper companies in the United States. It has declared a boycott against Hammermill, following the announcement by Hammermill executives with Gov. Wallace in Montgomery that they were erecting a pulp mill in Selma. Their announcement came on the very day 800 Negroes were arrested in Selma for trying to vote.

Dr. Martin Luther King has dropped word he will join the boycott, and it will be interesting to see who wins out in this showdown.

Hammermill is not exactly a puny organization. It has plants in Erie, Pa.; Oswego, N. Y.; Hamilton, Ohio, Westfield, West Springfield, Turners Falls, and Woronoco, Mass.; Watervliet, Mich.; Hoquiam, Wash.; Richmond, Va.; Birmingham; Los Angeles; San Francisco; and Chicago.

Its subsidiaries include Robeson Process Co. of N. J.; Greys Harbor Pulp & Paper of Washington State; Old Colony Envelope, Strathmore Paper, and Papertronics.

Hammermill also operates a joint venture with Rayonier in Washington State, a company which was accused by U. S. Senators of trying to euchre the Quinault Indians out of several hundred thousand dollars of Indian reservation timber. The Interior Department, under the late Douglas McKay, bowed to Senatorial squawks and vetoed the idea.

This is the Mammoth Organization which student civil rights workers and Dr. Martin Luther King are taking on.

--POVERTY IN THE SHADOW OF THE WHITE HOUSE--

My distinguished colleagues on the Washington Post have been crusading for the improvement of Toby Town, a pocket of Negro poverty in Maryland, 19 miles from the White House. It is a laudable crusade.

I happen to live next door to Toby Town and know something of its problems. There is nothing about Toby Town and its poverty which a church, less liquor, and the abolition of Sunday gambling will not cure.

There have been four murders in Toby Town in the last twenty years. This, in a population of seventy, is a high ratio of death by physical violence. All of the murders resulted from liquor, or quarrels over the gambling take, or both.

Not far from Toby Town, about two miles away on the Berryville Road, there is another Negro community. Unlike the squalor and poverty of Toby Town, this Negro community is clean, its fences neat, its vegetable gardens well kept, its front yards festooned with flowers. It has running water in most homes, and flush toilets. The privies which feature Toby Town are no more.

Perhaps most important of all, it has a church. It's a community church of no particular domination, but its citizens get leadership and inspiration from that church.

The mainstay of the community is Harry Clipper, a Negro Patriarch who doesn't squander his salary on liquor every weekend. Other members of the community follow his example.

--MURDER AND CRAPS----

I happen to employ one resident of Toby Town and have offered to employ others over a period of twenty years. I know these people well. I like them and trust them when they are sober. They could make admirable citizens if liquor and craps were not the order of every weekend.

I used to employ the chief bootlegger of Toby Town, the late Heck Martin, before he became a bootlegger. Heck had received an eleven-year sentence for murder, and after he got out of jail I gave him a job. He was the best corn cutter in the area. I used to be a fairly good corn cutter myself in the days before mechanical corn harvesters, but Heck could walk down a row of corn and leave me far behind.

Heck Martin, however, decided that Bootlegging was easier than farm work. Every Saturday and Sunday the community gathered at Heck's place to become roaring drunk and shoot craps. Heck is dead now. Before he died I used to argue with him over getting the community drunk. Eventually we came to the parting of the ways.

Montgomery County police raided Heck's place in a desultory sort of way, but never put enough real heart in it to convict anyone. A one-armed cop, blindfolded, could have picked up the evidence, but the police never did.

After one Sunday's crap game at which Vernon Martin won $150, Nelson Jeffress' barn, a mile or so away was burned down. Inside the barn was found Martin's body, his head cut off. Obviously he had won too much money at craps. The police never did find his murderers, and never will. They had burned the barn in order to try to hide the evidence.

On one occasion my niece, Mrs. Nicole Pearson, was taking care of her small daughters on our farm when a Negro knocked on the door and said, "I'm Darnell Martin. Will you please call the police and say that I am here?"

My niece called the police. She described the caller. They were alarmed.

"Mrs. Pearson, that man is wanted for murder," said the police. "Stay right where you are."

Darnell Martin sat quietly alongside my nephew's car outside until the police came. He had drunk too much and killed his girl friend.

PATRIARCH OF TOBY TOWN

Hense Davis, the Patriarch of Toby Town, has worked for me off and on for over twenty years. I offered Hense a job only one month ago. It was too cold and he didn't feel like working. Hense is a terrific worker when he works. Few farm hands are better. But after two weeks of work he has an insatiable habit of blowing his earnings. As a result, his house is tumble-down, his family poorly clad.

I would trust Hense Davis with my money, my property, my children when he's sober. I would trust him with any difficult farm job. But in Toby Town liquor is king.

Hense's oldest boy, Glasius, used to be a butler for Mrs. Nelson Jeffress. He too was a good worker. He was murdered in a drunken brawl, for which his murderer received an 18-month sentence.

Another old-time resident of Toby Town, Ernest "Girlie" Davis, has worked for me for a good many years and most of the time is a stable citizen. But on Mondays Girlie usually rests up from the weekend hangover.

It is true, as reported by the Washington Post, that the backyards of Toby Town are unkempt. But they are cleaner than some of the areas around the freedom houses in Mississippi where northern students live in squalor and untidiness which makes better- class Mississippi Negroes give them a wide berth.

It is also true that the younger generation of Toby Town has deteriorated to a state of perpetual unemployment.

Their trouble is the constant example of alcoholism and of weekly profits thrown in the dust of the Sunday's crap game. It's not an atmosphere conducive to rearing an energetic or community-minded younger generation.

I have long tried to figure out what could be the salvation of Toby Town. I have talked with some of its citizens and with the white and Negro neighbors around it.

I am not sure there will ever be a salvation for some of its citizens. But I do believe that if it had the example of church leadership, plus a crackdown on gambling and bootlegging, Toby Town would be able to lift itself out of poverty. Its white neighbors have offered to help.

The shops make up the National Industries For The Blind, a non-profit organization which coordinates their productive activities through research, government contracts and placement services.

MANY PRODUCTS

Through the NIB New Products Committee new items for manufacture are recommended to the blind industries. Workshops currently produce household goods under a national trademark. Among them are: aprons, bags, blankets, brooms, brushes, drapes, pillowcases, shoe and household kits. In addition, they manufacture a variety of textile, caning, machine, metal, weaving and woodwork goods for private industry and government.

Industrial contracts with private industry require the workshops to assemble, cut, package, drill, saw, clean and sew. The blind workers are able to meet the demands of highly skilled assembly line production as a result of specially designed tools and machines which have built-in safety devices.

Already aiding in employing thousands of blind persons, the NIB is primarily interested in developing new techniques which will add to the number of jobs created for the blind labor force. To this end, the NIB has recently undertaken three programs which are expected to increase jobs through improved sales and marketing approaches.

NEW PROGRAMS SET

The first program is an extension of the work of the New Products Committee which will go into operation within the next few months. It calls for a NIB Project Development Laboratory which will conduct largescale research on new products and manufacturing methods. The second involves sales approaches. Under the program, more attractive packaging is considered the first approach to better sales. A coordinated packaging plan which would display products to their best advantage is underway.

The third is a specialized plan which deals with both sales and marketing. Through the plan, a market research firm is currently surveying potential products and areas where blind-made products sell most successfully.

The Wall Street Journal looks at the Area Re-Development Administration: "The whole idea behind the AREA reflects the simple old pork barrel theory that just about any depressed area can be revived if you inject enough Federal dollars into it, which may be true in the short run. The fact is, however, that some areas simply cannot be restored to full economic self-sufficiency with any amount of Government funds. Some, for example, lack the manpower, material and natural resources on which a revival might be built. That, however, does not seem to bother the ARA. For in its zeal to spread dollars around as widely as possible, it has approved projects in which a large part of the manpower and materials have to be brought in from other areas -- hardly a technique designed to be of substantial aid to the local depressed economy."

NOT OBSOLETE -- YET!

Competition for shares of the advertising dollar gets tougher all the time. Television has seen to that.

Television people have, on occasion, attempted to sell the idea that their media is a far more effective way of interesting the potential consumer than any other -- including newspapers. So a survey made in Richmond, Va., is of unusual interest.

Editor & Publisher reports: "An independent research organization found that of more than 41,000 telephone calls only about one-fifth of them had the TV set turned on. Of that number 81% were able to identify the program turned on but 71% could not name any sponsor or product or type of product being advertised on that program. And even if the respondent said 'soap' instead of giving a brand name it was counted as sponsor identification, which seems to us like leaning over backward to be fair."

No -- the printed word isn't obsolete yet!

Lobbying is a big business today in Washington and State Capitals, but its origin dates back to Biblical times. The boy David of the Bible brought rich gifts to the young lawyers of that time, and these were not always valuable trinkets, but frequently were highly prized foods such as cheese. No doubt he would have given hi-fi record players and vicuna coats if he had 'em.

John was engaged to Mary, but had decided to try to break it off as easily as possible. They were going to a dance together, and as they were dancing, John had a bright idea. "Mary," he said, "I should have told you this sooner, but I have a wooden leg." "Why, that is silly," said Mary, "but even so, I still love you." A little while later John tried again, "Mary I also have a wooden arm." "I can't believe that," said Mary, "but even if you did, I would still love you." Now John was getting desperate, "Mary, I also have a wooden head." Mary said, "John, I can't believe that, you will have to prove that to me." So, John said, "All right, I will prove it, but not in this crowd. Let's go out to the car and I will prove it." They had only been gone a short time when some friends missed them, and went out to look for them. Sure enough, there was John in the car screwing his head off!

MIRACLE IN WASHINGTON

Washington -- where "Let Uncle Do It" is the watchword --has just witnessed a miracle.

The capital city's Planning Commission killed a sweeping local urban renewal project strongly supported by the federal Urban Renewal Administration, as well as the local Redevelopment Land Agency and Housing Authority.

Despite this array of government power, private enterprise finally convinced the Planning Commission after nine years that "private development and rehabilitation" make federal bulldozing "not in the public interest."

The Redevelopment Land Agency denounces the action as "a serious blow to the whole urban renewal program . . . not only for Washington, but because what is done in Washington has a nationwide effect."

Hope so.

PROPERTY TAX
STILL MAINSTAY

Although constantly on the lookout for new revenue sources, local governments still depend on the property tax as a principal revenue source, says Tax Foundation.

Nineteen years ago, total state and local tax collections amounted to $10 billion; $5 billion represented collections from the property tax, according to the Foundation's new, 13th edition of "Facts and Figures on Government Finance, 1964-65".

In fiscal 1963, total tax collections were $44 billion, more than four times the 1946 figure. Of this amount, $20 billion came from property taxes.

It is estimated that TOTAL state and local government collections in fiscal 1964 will be between $47 billion and $48 billion, up 370 per cent since 1946!

In the years 1946 - 1963, property tax collections increased just over 300 per cent; collections from sales and gross recipts taxes increased nearly 400 per cent, said the Foundation. Figures for 1946 and for subsequent selected years:

Year	Tot. Taxes(b) (in millions)	Ind. Inc. Taxes	Inc. Taxes Corp.
1946	$10.094	$ 422	$ 447

NEW YORK - Ray Stark may become the first man in history to become a millionaire by investing in the memory of his mother-in-law.

"I can't think of anyone else who made money that way," said Stark, grateful son-in-law of the late comedienne, Fanny Brice.

A year ago he launched on Broadway "Funny Girl," the musical based on Miss Brice's career. Starring Barbara Streisand, it cost more than $650,000 -- the largest amount up to that time ever spent on a Broadway show.

In the 12 months since then it has turned the profit corner and grossed in the neighborhood of $5 million, not including the sale of recordings.

Two road companies and a London production are planned and, of course, a film.

As executive vice president of Seven Arts Productions, the 49-year-old, sandy-haired producer will supervise the shooting of 16 films here and abroad this year.

Ray entered Rutgers University at the age of 14 1/2 and three times was thrown out for inattention to his studies.

After toiling briefly as a copy boy and cub reporter here, he drove to Hollywood, sharing his battered auto with a 67-year-old woman to save expenses. There, he worked successively as cemetery florist, vacuum cleaner salesman, studio hand, and magazine editor.

Then he became a highly successful Hollywood agent.

"But the actors were getting 90 per cent, and I was making 10 per cent," Stark recalled. "So I decided to make a stab at the 90 per cent."

The idea of building a story around his mother-in-law, Miss Brice, the famed "Baby Snooks," came to him more than 10 years ago. He is married to the comedienne's daughter, Frances. They have two children.

"I adored Fanny," he said. "She was such a strong dame. We all still miss her terribly."

The romance and marriage of the strong-willed Miss Brice and her equally strong-willed husband, gambler Nicky Arnstein, which became a tabloid saga, is the basis of "Funny Girl."

The Casualty Count by Jerry Marcus

Speed killed 14,190 and injured 1,223,000 in 1962.

The plot to dynamite the Statue of Liberty, Washington Monument and Liberty Bell by at least four conspirators was so fantastic that it might well have succeeded. The nation has seen too often -- and too recently -- what just one madman can do with a weapon of destruction.

The damaging of these shrines could not, of course, compare with the assassination of a president, though there would undoubtedly have been loss of life had the bombs been planted and exploded. But even without the taking of human life, it would have been a crime of monstrous stupidity -- more monstrous and more stupid for having been committed in the very name of the ideals for which these objects stand.

All those who helped nip the plot in the bud are to be commended, particularly New York patrolman Raymond Wood, who infiltrated the conspiracy.

The edge between commitment to a cause and fanatical extremism, between sanity and insanity, is an exceedingly fine one. The world seems to be full of those who, despite the clear evidence of history, believe their particular ends justify any means, that they can accomplish by violence what they cannot with reason and persuasion.

Americans will take a newly appreciative look at these national shrines and, hopefully, ponder a little more deeply the reasons behind their veneration.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Space Race Installations Choked by New Strikes.

Bay St. Louis, Miss.: -- There may be visitors from another planet before American astronauts get to the half-way station on the moon, if a handful of union leaders continue to call strikes all the way along the construction line in violation of their no-strike pledge.

There have been stoppages and inside demonstrations at key space centers, testing facilities, and at actual rocket production installations for "reasons" ranging from feuds with other unions to a demand for the removal of a ban on smoking.

U. S. construction workers were on strike at "moon bases" at the very moment when the Soviet cosmonaut danced in space.

Thousands of man days and millions of dollars have been lost at U. S. test sites during the past few critical weeks. There is no sense of urgency. There is no sense of purpose.

There is, for example, the untold story of the fuel system which needed to have its pipes cleaned. The system is at the nearby Mississippi Test Operations project close by here. It's handled by the General Electric Corp. which sent it out to a firm specializing in such work. The firm has union men belonging to the AFL - CIO Operating Engineers Union.

After the pipe cleaning, the AFL - CIO pipe - fitters union (part of the plumbers outfit) refused to work on re-installation. The pipefitters claimed they should have done the work instead of the operating engineers.

Result: -- a four - day walkout by over 800 men which in turn kept another 1200 off their jobs for the duration at one of the most vital sectors of the vast Apollo moon project.

The "beef" finally was settled after long conferences between the construction union leaders and a host of NASA specialists and Army Engineer Corps officials who came in from Washington, Huntsville and points east.

Not too far distant from here is the Michoud saturn installation. The Chrysler Corp. is constructing one stage of the vehicle which is expected to put three men in orbit by 1967 as part of the moon program. There, too, Boeing is building the first stage of a vehicle which will head for the moon.

On March 10 the United Auto Workers struck Chrysler there for a short period. The union called out some 200 members in protest against "job classification". One of its people said that the company was putting mechanics in the operators classification instead of the machinists rating. Union men said that "operators" pay is lower.

This triggered a chain reaction in another area of the Michoud rocket works. Chrysler shares the installation with the Boeing Co., which employs 2,100 members of the International Assn. of Machinists (IAM) there.

They became restless. They ran a demonstration, but did not strike. However, the fuse is lit. Some IAM men were suspended.

They claim 16 major grievances. Conversations indicate they are still angry at the suspension of some of the members. Why a demonstration in the first place? The hourly - rated union men complain they are denied the right to smoke, though the salaried, white collar people can.

The unionists say they are denied access to the vending machines for coffee or cigarettes, though the white collar people can go to the machines as they please.

The unionists say they are being abused by a company "Performance Analysis" report. Periodically the foremen file such a "PA" sheet on the workers. The union's shop stewards charge the foremen discriminate against them.

Other members of the IAM claim overtime is not equitably distributed; and that they have to wait weeks for the corrected sums to be paid them when an error is made in their pay checks.

The company retorts that there is no favoritism; and that it has the right to judge the work performances of its employes and certainly the right to set working rules which are not covered by the contracts.

Furthermore, the unionists have access to regular grievance machinery. Yet in this vital section of the nation's vast space mechanism such issues cause delays and irritations certainly unknown to that other space front runner, the Soviets.

Thus it goes all along the line. A few days ago while in the Cape Kennedy area I learned that a pipefitters local in Orlanda was considering placing a picket line at the Cape and Merritt Island Moon Port gates.

There are some non - union contractors there which NASA and the Army Corps of Engineers believe they need because of special skills. The union wants to organize the non - union contractor. It's the union's privilege to try.

But why use the nation's space network as a jousting ground. This would be going for the jugular.

The space complex needs easier breathing for a while -- not more choking up.

DAY OF RECKONING

For a gull generation we were assured it would never happen here. A trusting people were told that the day of reckoning would never come.

We were told we could spend money we did not have, not only on ourselves but all over the world, with never a thought to what that kind of spending would do to the value of money itself. The size and growth of the national debt was dismissed with many a jolly quip about "owing it to ourselves."

The high priests of inflation and deficit spending had a ready answer in the famous crack of their mentor, Maynard Keynes: "In the long run we are all dead."

But nearly two hundred million Americans today are very much alive, and for us "the long run" has become the here and now.

From the firesides of home to the most distant lands, the flight from the dollar has begun. Foreign claim - holders are converting their holdings from paper dollars to real gold, draining our gold reserves out of the country. Our own people, barred by law from holding gold, hoard silver coins in ever - increasing quantities, so that now there is official talk of changing them to nickel or plastic.

No one is sure anymore that the American dollar is as "good as gold," or has any firm expectation of what it will be good for if the present course continues.

It would be better if this course were changed and again the dollar stand for real wealth, not paper promises.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON-- Gov. George Wallace of Alabama has deviated somewhat from his anti-civil rights crusade to an anti-communist crusade. He blames the communists for the civil rights agitation of today.

When the energetic little Governor came to Washington for a showdown with President Johnson, and the President later led him into the White House corridor to meet the press, Wallace did not know that the correspondent for Pravda, Serguei Vichnevski, was right behind him.

In fact, Vichnevski was being pushed so hard by other newspapermen that he himself was forced against the Governor of Alabama.

In front of the Governor, about three bodies removed, was another Russian newspaperman, Alex Itchkov of Izvestia.

The crush of newsmen around Wallace was almost like the University of Alabama football team tackling ole Miss.

"Vichnevski," called out Itchkov of Izvestia to his comrade from Pravda, "Don't crush Wallace."

The Governor, who doesn't understand Russian, didn't realize that he was being protected by two communists.

---ALABAMA'S OTHER SIDE-

Not far from Selma, Ala., is Mobile, a city which, since the departure of Rep. Frank "all-is-made -for -love" Boykin, has not been much in the headlines. This is partly because smooth race relations do not make headlines.

However, in fairness to Mobile and other Alabama citizens who do not believe in racial understanding, it's important to report that Mobile's library, its golf course, its other public facilities have been peacefully integrated. Mobile theatres are also open to all.

When Negro students were first admitted to Mobile High Schools, the entire police force and auxiliary force stayed on duty day and night and successfully avoided serious incidents. Today Negro children are going unmolested to school with white students.

Mobile has a biracial committee which has established conditions where sympathy marches are not necessary. Its police force and sheriff's deputies are fully integrated. Its auditorium has been integrated ever since it was built, and the key to the city has on occasion been given to visiting Negro leaders.

This is the other side of the coin in Alabama.

NAZI PROPERTY REGAINED

On May 19, 1964, this column reported that Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy had completed a deal whereby General Aniline and Film, once owned by the famous Nazi Cartel I. G. Farben, would be turned back in part to a Swiss company which served as a dummy for I. G. Farben. It was reported that General Aniline & Film would be sold, with $60 million reverting to the Swiss dummy, Interhandel.

Following publication, the Justice Department issued vigorous denials. It was stated, among other things, that Interhandel was not a dummy for I. G. Farben; also that Interhandel would not get anywhere near $60 million.

The final chapter in this story occurred only recently. The Justice Department sold General Aniline & Film, which the United States government had seized at the start of World War II, to an investment syndicate headed by Blyth & Co. of San Francisco, the highest bidder.

The amount set aside for Interhandel was $121,905,000 not $60,000,000.

The fact that Interhandel is a dummy for I. G. Farben was officially ruled by three previous attorneys general--Tom Clark, James McGranery, and Howard McGrath, all Democrats. Two Republican attorneys general, Herbert Brownell and William Rogers, who served under Eisenhower, agreed with them.

A Senate committee headed by the late Harley Kilgore, D-W. Va., officially found that Interhandel was a cloaking operation; while the Nuremberg trials revealed that Nazis had planned to "cloak" their chemical operations in the United States.

Note--On May 25, 1964, this column reported that a memorandum had turned up in the Justice Department files signed by Dr. Alfred Schaefer of Interhandel, which read: "We want to keep on dealing through Radziwill." Prince Radziwill is married to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's sister.

-HAMMERMILL AND SELMA-

SNCC, the Students Nonviolent, Coordination Committee, has taken on one of the biggest paper companies in the United States. It has declared a boycott against Hammermill, following the announcement by Hammermill executives with Gov. Wallace in Montgomery that they were erecting a pulp mill in Selma. Their announcement came on the very day 800 Negroes were arrested in Selma for trying to vote.

Dr. Martin Luther King has dropped word he will join the boycott, and it will be interesting to see who wins out in this showdown.

Hammermill is not exactly a puny organization. It has plants in Erie, Pa.; Oswego, N. Y.; Hamilton, Ohio, Westfield, West Springfield, Turners Falls, and Woronoco, Mass.; Watervliet, Mich.; Hoquiam, Wash.; Richmond, Va.; Birmingham; Los Angeles; San Francisco; and Chicago.

Its subsidiaries include Robeson Process Co. of N. J.; Greys Harbor Pulp & Paper of Washington State; Old Colony Envelope, Strathmore Paper, and Papertronics.

Hammermill also operates a joint venture with Rayonier in Washington State, a company which was accused by U. S. Senators of trying to euchre the Quinault Indians out of several hundred thousand dollars of Indian reservation timber. The Interior Department, under the late Douglas McKay, bowed to Senatorial squawks and vetoed the idea.

This is the Mammoth Organization which student civil rights workers and Dr. Martin Luther King are taking on.

--POVERTY IN THE SHADOW OF THE WHITE HOUSE--

My distinguished colleagues on the Washington Post have been crusading for the improvement of Toby Town, a pocket of Negro poverty in Maryland, 19 miles from the White House. It is a laudable crusade.

I happen to live next door to Toby Town and know something of its problems. There is nothing about Toby Town and its poverty which a church, less liquor, and the abolition of Sunday gambling will not cure.

There have been four murders in Toby Town in the last twenty years. This, in a population of seventy, is a high ratio of death by physical violence. All of the murders resulted from liquor, or quarrels over the gambling take, or both.

Not far from Toby Town, about two miles away on the Berryville Road, there is another Negro community. Unlike the squalor and poverty of Toby Town, this Negro community is clean, its fences neat, its vegetable gardens well kept, its front yards festooned with flowers. It has running water in most homes, and flush toilets. The privies which feature Toby Town are no more.

Perhaps most important of all, it has a church. It's a community church of no particular domination, but its citizens get leadership and inspiration from that church.

The mainstay of the community is Harry Clipper, a Negro Patriarch who doesn't squander his salary on liquor every weekend. Other members of the community follow his example.

--MURDER AND CRAPS----

I happen to employ one resident of Toby Town and have offered to employ others over a period of twenty years. I know these people well. I like them and trust them when they are sober. They could make admirable citizens if liquor and craps were not the order of every weekend.

I used to employ the chief bootlegger of Toby Town, the late Heck Martin, before he became a bootlegger. Heck had received an eleven-year sentence for murder, and after he got out of jail I gave him a job. He was the best corn cutter in the area. I used to be a fairly good corn cutter myself in the days before mechanical corn harvesters, but Heck could walk down a row of corn and leave me far behind.

Heck Martin, however, decided that Bootlegging was easier than farm work. Every Saturday and Sunday the community gathered at Heck's place to become roaring drunk and shoot craps. Heck is dead now. Before he died I used to argue with him over getting the community drunk. Eventually we came to the parting of the ways.

Montgomery County police raided Heck's place in a desultory sort of way, but never put enough real heart in it to convict anyone. A one-armed cop, blindfolded, could have picked up the evidence, but the police never did.

After one Sunday's crap game at which Vernon Martin won $150, Nelson Jeffress' barn, a mile or so away was burned down. Inside the barn was found Martin's body, his head cut off. Obviously he had won too much money at craps. The police never did find his murderers, and never will. They had burned the barn in order to try to hide the evidence.

On one occasion my niece, Mrs. Nicole Pearson, was taking care of her small daughters on our farm when a Negro knocked on the door and said, "I'm Darnell Martin. Will you please call the police and say that I am here?"

My niece called the police. She described the caller. They were alarmed.

"Mrs. Pearson, that man is wanted for murder," said the police. "Stay right where you are."

Darnell Martin sat quietly alongside my nephew's car outside until the police came. He had drunk too much and killed his girl friend.

PATRIARCH OF TOBY TOWN

Hense Davis, the Patriarch of Toby Town, has worked for me off and on for over twenty years. I offered Hense a job only one month ago. It was too cold and he didn't feel like working. Hense is a terrific worker when he works. Few farm hands are better. But after two weeks of work he has an insatiable habit of blowing his earnings. As a result, his house is tumble-down, his family poorly clad.

I would trust Hense Davis with my money, my property, my children when he's sober. I would trust him with any difficult farm job. But in Toby Town liquor is king.

Hense's oldest boy, Glasius, used to be a butler for Mrs. Nelson Jeffress. He too was a good worker. He was murdered in a drunken brawl, for which his murderer received an 18-month sentence.

Another old-time resident of Toby Town, Ernest "Girlie" Davis, has worked for me for a good many years and most of the time is a stable citizen. But on Mondays Girlie usually rests up from the weekend hangover.

It is true, as reported by the Washington Post, that the backyards of Toby Town are unkempt. But they are cleaner than some of the areas around the freedom houses in Mississippi where northern students live in squalor and untidiness which makes better- class Mississippi Negroes give them a wide berth.

It is also true that the younger generation of Toby Town has deteriorated to a state of perpetual unemployment.

Their trouble is the constant example of alcoholism and of weekly profits thrown in the dust of the Sunday's crap game. It's not an atmosphere conducive to rearing an energetic or community-minded younger generation.

I have long tried to figure out what could be the salvation of Toby Town. I have talked with some of its citizens and with the white and Negro neighbors around it.

I am not sure there will ever be a salvation for some of its citizens. But I do believe that if it had the example of church leadership, plus a crackdown on gambling and bootlegging, Toby Town would be able to lift itself out of poverty. Its white neighbors have offered to help.

Lt. and Mrs. Charles E. Laughlin

Carol Virginia Uboldi And Charles E. Laughlin Wed In January Ceremony

Rev. Francis Silva, S. J. officiated at the January nuptials at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Napa, California, when Miss Carol Virginia Uboldi became the bride of Lt. Charles Edgar Laughlin of the Air Force.

Assisting at the altar were Msgr. Alvin Wagner of Alameda, Rev. Francis Ralph of Napa, and Rev. Edward Allen of Palo Alto. Therese Miller was soloist, and Miss Carmela Fontana played the wedding music at the organ.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Uboldi, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal wedding gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with a scoop neckline, short sleeves, and a semi-full skirt which ended in a pleated chapel train. The natural waistline of the gown was accented with a crystal - beaded cummberbund.

A peau de soie Camelot headpiece embroidered with crystal beads held her veil of imported illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ernest Giovannoni of Napa, and bridesmaids were Miss Susan Nevin, also of Napa, and Miss Noreen Cavanaugh of Mountain View. They were floor-length gowns of viva pink taffeta with velvet sashes at the Empire waistlines.

The velvet ribbon was repeated in their head bows. Their flowers were old - fashioned bouquets of light pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Laughlin of Bertrand, was attended by Lt. Ross Brown of Mountain View, fellow officer and former roommate. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Thomas and John Uboldi.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed at the Napa Valley Country Club, Mrs. Uboldi wore a two piece ensemble of blue-green brocade with a matching tulle hat.

The mother of the groom attended in an aqua velvet sheath dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white orchids.

The newlyweds greeted 250 guests at the reception and buffet dinner at the country club, where they cut their tiered cake.

After a honeymoon in Southern California, they established their home at Vandenberg Air Force Base, where Lt. Laughlin is stationed.

The bride, member of a long time Napa family, is a graduate of Napa High School and The College of Holy Names in Oakland. Before her marriage, she lived in Palo Alto and taught the first and second grades in Redwood City.

Her husband is a graduate of Charleston High School, and of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He completed two years of graduate work in electronics at Stanford University last year, and is now with the Western Test Range at Vandenberg.

Rebekah Lodge Supper Is Success

MOREHOUSE — The Morehouse Rebekah Lodge reports that $245.00 has been deposited to the Cancer Fund Account. This represents the proceeds of the Chicken and Dumpling Supper held Saturday evening sponsored by the Rebekahs and also several donations.

The Rebekahs express their "thanks" to everyone donating food, those who helped with the supper and the splendid turnout.

Hordes of homeless orphans were left wandering about Europe by World War II. These have found refuge in Pestalozzi, a children's village in Switzerland. Named for Johann Heinrich Pestalozzi, an 18th century Swiss educator who dedicated his life to underpriviliged children, it follows his creed of "Give the children love and keep them occupied"

Lt. and Mrs. Charles E. Laughlin

Carol Virginia Uboldi And Charles E. Laughlin Wed In January Ceremony

Rev. Francis Silva, S. J. officiated at the January nuptials at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Napa, California, when Miss Carol Virginia Uboldi became the bride of Lt. Charles Edgar Laughlin of the Air Force.

Assisting at the altar were Msgr. Alvin Wagner of Alameda, Rev. Francis Ralph of Napa, and Rev. Edward Allen of Palo Alto. Therese Miller was soloist, and Miss Carmela Fontana played the wedding music at the organ.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Uboldi, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal wedding gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with a scoop neckline, short sleeves, and a semi-full skirt which ended in a pleated chapel train. The natural waistline of the gown was accented with a crystal - beaded cummberbund.

A peau de soie Camelot headpiece embroidered with crystal beads held her veil of imported illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ernest Giovannoni of Napa, and bridesmaids were Miss Susan Nevin, also of Napa, and Miss Noreen Cavanaugh of Mountain View. They were floor-length gowns of viva pink taffeta with velvet sashes at the Empire waistlines.

The velvet ribbon was repeated in their head bows. Their flowers were old - fashioned bouquets of light pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Laughlin of Bertrand, was attended by Lt. Ross Brown of Mountain View, fellow officer and former roommate. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Thomas and John Uboldi.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed at the Napa Valley Country Club, Mrs. Uboldi wore a two piece ensemble of blue-green brocade with a matching tulle hat.

The mother of the groom attended in an aqua velvet sheath dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white orchids.

The newlyweds greeted 250 guests at the reception and buffet dinner at the country club, where they cut their tiered cake.

After a honeymoon in Southern California, they established their home at Vandenberg Air Force Base, where Lt. Laughlin is stationed.

The bride, member of a long time Napa family, is a graduate of Napa High School and The College of Holy Names in Oakland. Before her marriage, she lived in Palo Alto and taught the first and second grades in Redwood City.

Her husband is a graduate of Charleston High School, and of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He completed two years of graduate work in electronics at Stanford University last year, and is now with the Western Test Range at Vandenberg.

Miss Belinda Bowen Plans To Marry James C. Eifert

Mr. and Mrs. William Bowen, former residents of Charleston who now live in California, announce the engagement of their daughter, Belinda Ann, to James Calvin Eifert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eifert of Bertrand.

Before moving to California, Miss Bowen attended Charleston High School.

Her fiance is a 1962 graduate of Charleston High, and is attending Draughon's Business College in Nashville, Tennessee.

The wedding date will be announced later.

Lottie Hogan Circle Meets With Mrs. Maloney For Program

The Lottie Hogan Circle of the Fellowship Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Ray Maloney on Thursday, March 18 at 9:30 a.m.

An interesting program was given with Mrs. Jim Fitch leading in prayer. A very interesting discussion on "Christian Principles" was the highlight of the program.

Final plans were made for a potluck supper to be held at the home of Betty Nall on April 1 for all ladies of the church. Plans were also made for the forthcoming Bible School which will be held in June with Mrs. Rose Baugus as principal.

The meeting was closed by the serving of cake and coffee by the hostess. The meeting place for next month will be announced later.

Stone Statues

Easter Island, in the Pacific Ocean, contains many large stone statues of faces, many 50 tons in weight, built by primitive peoples in prehistoric times.

Ron White Makes First Team All-State Selections

ST. LOUIS AP -- State Class L champion Springfield Parkview placed two players - Gail Fredrick and John Weston - on the 10-man all-state high school basketball squad.

Class S winner South Iron duplicated the feat as John Jackson and Harold Savage were named to the 10-man team in that classification.

Merton Brancroft was the only member of Buffalo's Class M state champions who made the club in that division.

The Missouri State Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association picked the three teams, which were released today.

Class L runnerup Kansas City Center had one player, Mike Sloan. Third place finisher St. Louis Southwest placed Cal Edinger. Bill Deheer of Maplewood and Gary Odom from St. Louis Ritenour also were chosen from the St. Louis area.

Others on the team were Bruce Thomas, Herculaneum; Mike Thiessen, Kansas City Pembroke Country Day; John Simmons, Columbia Hickman; and Ron Dunning, Poplar Bluff.

Jo-Jo White of St. Louis McKinley, who was graduated at mid - year, received special mention.

California, the runner up in Class M, had Jerry Wells on the team.

Tomlinson is the only junior of the three teams. The rest are seniors.

Thomas was the only repeater as an all-state choice, although White, who averaged 25 points a game, was chosen last year. Thomas also averaged 25 points a game.

The leading scorer on the Class L squad was Bruce Sloan with a 27-point-a-game average. Mike Thiessen was close behind at 26.3 and 16.5 rebounds per contest.

Deheer, the No. 1 choice of coaches in the St. Louis area, averaged 22 points and 17 rebounds a game.

Spring is here, but so is the weather of the cold winter time, and it is having it's effects on the spring sports being prepared for, or I should say, the ones trying to be prepared for.

Tomorrow the track team for the Bulldogs is scheduled to travel to Cape for their first meeting of the season, weather permitting. They are hurting from lack of practice and the coaches don't have any idea of what the boys can do. They have no time to judge the boys for comparison, so if they hold the meet tomorrow, it can be used in more ways than one.

The Baseball Bulldogs are a big question too and this weather can really hurt them. They have a young club and need all the spring practice that they can manage. Right now they are a big question mark, but the prospects are there for a good team. They should have a better balanced ball club this year and a lot more speed. Last year the power was in surplus, this year they will have to dig for their scores, which should make the season a lot more exciting for the fans.

Probably the teams that will have to be watched the closest this year are Oran and Jackson. Both have a lot of strength back from their good teams last year.

TURNOVER TIME

The disappearance of ice delights fish as well as fishermen.

Feeding sprees that result when the ice cover breaks up produce some of the best fishing of the year.

Why? Usually we dismiss this phenomenon simply: because the water gets warmer.

Actually, that's only part of the picture, state the authorities. They explain:

Water under the ice becomes warmer as the depth increases, rising in temperature until it reaches a point slightly over 39 degrees -- at which it is heaviest, and therefore rests on the bottom.

Though temperatures here may be the most favorable for fish, oxygen supplies may be inadequate. Lack of sunlight reaching the depths prevents photosynthesis -- a vital process by which plant organisms convert carbon dioxide to oxygen.

Thus, fish seek a compromise -- hibernating at a level too cold for normal body functions but where there's enough oxygen to sustain life.

As the ice melts, surface temperatures climb. This water becomes heavier and sinks. Gradually temperature and oxygen content becomes uniform from top to bottom, and fish may be evenly distributed. Until next winter, the coldest water is on bottom; thus, the temperature scheme has been reversed, and the lake has literally "turned over."

Continued warming, plus wind action, adds more oxygen to the surface which attracts fish. Until the temperature exceeds the individual tolerances of various species, each will seek the warmest water available.

For a brief period in spring even the deep water varieties roam the shallows, providing exciting action.

Keep tabs on your favorite lake to learn when the turnover occurs. Then take advantage of the fabulous fishing that follows.

Tony Oliva Has Suffered, But So Has Opposition

Memo to American League opposition of the Minnesota Twins:

If you thought Tony Oliva murdered you last year, wait until you see what he can do with 10 good fingers.

That apparently won't be until 1966, but the intervening season will give the other nine teams time to worry about the Cuban who won the league batting championship and Rookie of the Year honors.

The Twins are worrying right now. They discovered Wednesday that Oliva played all but the first month of last baseball season with a bone chip in the middle finger of his right hand.

X rays, the first taken since the right fielder injured the finger in Boston last May 15, revealed the bone chip. To alleviate the swelling and the pain that have plagued him the past 10 months, the Twins have given Oliva various shots.

The injury, however, hasn't slowed him down this spring any more than it affected him last season. The 23-year-old lefthanded hitter drilled a double and three singles in five times at bat Wednesday in the Twins' 6-4 loss to Philadelphia, raising his spring average to .384.

"My finger doesn't bother me when I make contact with the ball," Oliva said after the game. "Only when I swing and miss, then the finger hurts. But I wear a rubber cushion on it when I bat, and that helps some."

Surgery, team officials said, will have to be postponed until the end of the season because it would keep him out of the lineup for two months.

If you asked the other teams, they wouldn't miss him at all.

While Oliva was belting Phillie pitching, the Los Angeles Dodgers were mauling Whitey Ford for the second time in five days. In trouncing the New York Yankees 12-2, the Dodgers rocked Ford for 11 runs and 12 hits in five innings. That gave the Dodgers 15 runs and 20 hits against the veteran southpaw in nine innings.

Several other pitchers turned in notable performances. Veteran Robin Roberts gave up only one run and three hits in five innings as Baltimore nipped the Chicago White Sox 5-4 while young Sam McDowell limited the Los Angeles Angels to two hits in seven innings in Cleveland's 4-2 victory.

In other games, the New York Mets downed Milawukee 5-1, St. Louis edged Detroit 302, the Chicago Cubs overpowered another Angel squad 8-7, Pittsburgh stopped Houston 5-3, Boston outslugged San Francisco 11-7, Washington mauled Kansas City 12-2 and Cincinnati trampled Detroit's B team 19-2.

No Favorite In Azalea Golf Open

WILMINGTON, N. C. AP-- The $28,750 Azalea Open, a golf tournament without a solid favorite, opened today over the sandy stretches of the 6,700-yard, par 72 Cape Fear Country Club course.

The purse is a record by Azalea standards, but sill relatively modest enough to keep many of the major cash collectors along the tournament trail occupied elsewhere.

Labron Harris Jr., 1962 U. S. amateur golf champion, has his first money on the pro tour this year.

His six-under par 66 gave him first place and $250 in Wednesday's $2,500 pro - amateur warm-up. He picked up an additional $175 when he and his three amateur partners shot a best ball 57 to tie for the top in that division.

N. Y Commuters May Be Saved

WASHINGTON AP -- The smart money is saying that the Interstate Commerce Commission will approve a merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads- and wrap the bankrupt New Haven into the same package.

A ruling from an ICC examiner is expected in a week or two, but the commission probably won't act before summer.

While the ICC may save the New Haven, the 19,000 commuters who ride its travel-weary cars into New York City daily won't necessarily benefit.

Nor would the expected merger decision be any help to the five other New York-area railroads which also want to dump their losing commuter service. And it wouldn't point to a solution for other big cities across the country to whom New York's problems reflect their own in a larger scale.

For those 19,000 who work in New York and ride the New Haven to and from their homes in Westchester County and Connecticut, there's one glimmer of hope: That Washington will release modest grants of already authorized mass-transit funds to keep the trains running. No new legislation would be required.

No one is sure the grants would suffice, or if they merely would postpone inevitable disaster for a couple of years.

When it comes to helping the commuter, everybody points to somebody else. In the case of the New Haven's New York to Boston passenger service -- which is typical, only more so- it goes like this:

- The Johnson administration firmly notified Congress this month it will not approve federal subsidies for rail passenger service. This apparently has killed subsidy bills introduced by New England senators.

-Since Uncle Sam pays up to 90 per cent of the cost of new auto freeways, the states find it a better bargain to put their own money into the freeways instead of rail transit systems.

So what are the answers?

So far, they are fuzzy, complicated and incomplete.

Starting from the assumption that the New Haven will be saved from oblivion by hitching it onto the proposed Pennsy-N. Y. Central system, the proposed rescue measures involve:

First, persuading the Housing and Home Finance Agency that a mass-transit "demonstration project" can be made of the New Haven's commuter service. This would qualify it for a $3-million grant from already authorized funds. It would have to be matched by $1.5 million of state money.

Second, designating a public authority -- the state of New York, for instance, or a regional agency - with whom HHFA can legally make the contract.

Third, making the demonstration successful enough to justify a further $10 million grant to buy modern cars and equipment. New York and Connecticut would have to put up $5 million each to match.

Onions On The Double

Onions - to enhance, enliven and add enjoyment to many a meal -- are available in most Midwest food stores in ever-increasing numbers.

Onions have been listed among the better buys in fresh vegetables for several weeks, by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. And now shipments of new onions from south Texas are getting underway -- adding to the supply.

The result of this doubled-up crop should be especially attractive prices to consumers during the next few weeks-- on the Yellow Globe variety first, and soon the mild, sweet type from Texas.

The yellow Globe variety is easily recognized by its globular shape. Ranging from 3 to 10 in a pound, these onions measure up to about 2 1/2 inches in diameter. Yellow Globes are favored for general cooking.

Mild, sweet onions -- Spanish or Bermuda types -- are large and elongated or flat. These often are used raw in sandwiches and salads.

When selecting onions, choose those that are bright, clean, firm and well-shaped, advises USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Be sure they have dry skins and no sign of sprouting.

Although onions keep well at home in a cool, dry place, it is advisable to buy small amounts often. Home storage conditions tend to vary.

Son Writes To Mom, Says The Fight Is Worth It

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — Probably more than most mothers, Betty Wason Hall understands what prompted her soldier stepson to write from Viet Nam complaining about Americans who want the U.S. to pull out.

"I know what war is and I know how deeply you can get to feel about a cause when you are right there where the cause is being fought for," said Mrs. Hall. "I was a CBS war correspondent in Greece and Scandinavia in 1939 and 1940."

Mrs. Hall commented on the letter her stepson, Spec. 4 Lance R. Hall, 20, sent to her recently from Viet Nam in which he said:

"I wish all those people back home who think we ought to pull out, and are raising so much hell about it, would think twice."

Mrs. Hall sent the letter on to President Johnson with a note saying she thought the President would like to hear what one soldier is thinking about America's part in the Viet Nam crisis.

Johnson wrote Mrs. Hall, thanking her "for sharing with me the thoughts of your fine son, written thousands of miles away in Viet Nam."

Mrs. Hall said in an interview Wednesday that before she received the letters from her stepson, she had begun to wonder if the United States shouldn't pull out.

"Then I received Lance's letters and they told me that there was a good reason to be in Viet Nam," she said. "They told me that here was a boy right there who could see what was being accomplished and I knew then that we must stay there."

She said Lance showed her in letters how "we are at last making progress here with the South Vietnamese people."

"He showed me and told me how we were making friends with the people there and how they needed us and we had to help them," Mrs. Hall said.

She said Lance, the son of her former husband by an earlier marriage, had not lived with her for many years until he came to her at the age of 16.

"He was a very disinterested boy," she said. "He couldn't even get interested enough in school to finish high school. So he dropped out and went into the Army because there wasn't anything else to do.

"Now, at long last, he has found something to really interest him — the welfare of people he never saw before. He has a cause to fight for and I'm not going to let him down."

Filing Incorrectly Will Draw Attention

ST. LOUIS, Missouri -- Filing a carelessly prepared or incorrect Federal income tax return is a sure way to get special attention from the Internal Revenue Service. However, this special attention has no benefits: just delay and additional cost of handling.

Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, District Director of the Internal Revenue office for Missouri points out 6 common items that delay the processing of returns. They are: (1) failure to attach W-2 forms, (2) no signatures, (3) tax information not legible, (4) failure to list dependents and exemptions, (5) failure to total deductions, and (6) failure to list Social Security number.

What happens when the taxpayer forgets one of the above? Mr. Bookwalter said the return must be specially handled and any refund will be delayed. If the taxpayer calls or writes about his refund, this inquiry takes clerical help away from the processing of correctly prepared returns. Thus, all returns are slowed up.

Review your return very carefully when it is completed, Mr. Bookwalter advised. After you are sure it is clear, complete, and correct, mail it to 1114 Market Street, 63101.

Football fever reaches astounding proportions in Columbus. The huge horseshoe stadium opens on a vista which includes the eleven-story Ohio State University Hospital. All the staff that can make it are found at the game every Saturday--even the doctors from the obstetrical floor. However, they have worked out a signaling system. Whenever the arrival of a new "fan" is imminent, a nurse hangs out a sheet from a hospital window. One hanging from the fourth window from the right calls Dr. Brown; one from the second window, Dr. Smith; and so on. It isn't unusual to see two or three sheets flapping in the autumn breeze as the docs make a hurried exit.

Portable Peaches

Home gardeners can ejoy a new dimension in plant pleasure by using Armstrong's amazing new Bonanza peach bush in containers and planter boxes. These tiny, toy-like trees normally produce fruit when they are only 2 to 3 feet tall, and they flower exquisitely in the early spring. In containers they can be moved around to highlight the patio, porch or any corner of the yard or garden.

Economy Pushing Upward

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The final days of the year's first quarter are seeing a spurt that is pushing the nation's economy to an unexpectedly high level. It is making this spectacular gain with the help of some unusual incentives, such as fear of a steel strike, but also in the face of some setbacks that normally would have dragged it down.

First estimates put the gain in the first three months of 1965 as perhaps the largest since World War II.

This was accomplished despite:

Blizzard that cut factory production, notably of autos, at times in the industrial Midwest and Northeast;

Dock strikes that for weeks paralyzed traffic in and out of Atlantic and Gulf ports and stymied production of export goods, and an up and down stock market that reflected investor — and business — concern over international developments and over the very age of the present business upswing, now into its fifth year.

The economy admittedly has been helped by nervousness over a steel strike deadline May 1 which has led users to try to build up inventories as a hedge and record auto production and sales with much of the demand, at least in the first weeks of the year, traceable to catching up after the auto strikes of last fall.

But steel's record production now is due to other things besides just strike hedging. Use of the steel has risen so high that purchasing agents haven't been able to build up the inventories they set as goals.

Auto sales are running far above a year ago, with last fall's strikes almost forgotten. Latest sales figures show some models running ahead of this time last year by from 19 to 36 per cent.

Spending for new construction, despite lagging housing demand, is now running well above the first year as well as far above year ago figures.

The economy's big upward surge thus seems tied to other things than just nervousness over labor troubles in the offing or effects of past strikes.

BAD HERSFELD, GERMANY (AHTNC) -- Army PFC Donnie J. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dee E. Williams, Route 1, Box 68, Oran, Mo., was assigned to border patrol duty with the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment in West Germany, March 15.

Williams will be taking part in continuous surveillance missions designed to provide immediate notification of any aggressive activities along the northern sector of the East-West Germany border.

A tank crewman in Troop K of the regiment's 3rd Reconnaissance Squadron near Red Hersfeld, Williams entered the Army in April 1964 and arrived overseas the following November. He received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 19-year-old soldier attended Oran High School.

FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON, IND. (AHTNC) -- Pvt. Ira W. Blankinship, whose wife, Barbara, lives at 11707 E. 50th terr., Kansas City, Mo., completed a pay specialist course at the Army Adjutant General School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., March 23.

During the course Blankinship received instruction in the preparation of Army pay records.

The 19-year-old soldier entered the Army in October 1964 and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coniff C. Blankinship, live in Canalou.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman Dwight F. Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman F. Townsend of Rt. 1, Advance, Mo., has completed his Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Townsend is being assigned to an Air Defense Command (ADC) unit at Peterson Field, Colo., for training and duty as a transportation specialist. His unit supports the ADC mission of defending the continental U. S. against enemy air attack.

The airman is a 1964 graduate of Advance High School.

4th ARMORED DIV., GERMANY (AHTNC) — Army PFC Gary L. Hartlein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan E. Hartlein, Canalou, Mo., was assigned to the 4th Armored Division in Germany, March 12.

Hartlein, a member of Company D of the division's 24th Engineer Battalion near Furth, Germany, entered the Army in March 1964 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Specialist Wheatley, a mechanic in the battalion's 533d Transportation Company near Augsburg, entered the Army in September 1963 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 21-year-old soldier attended Anniston High School.

Long Receives Merit Award

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., receives today the National Editorial Association's annual award of merit.

The award, presented by Bordon B. Seavey, president of the organization, cites Long for his persistent sponsorship of legislation to provide increased access to government information. Long is sponsor of legislation to provide freedom of information.

In remarks prepared for the ceremony, Long said numerous instances of government agencies and bureaus "withholding information which the public has a right to have make it increasingly clear that something has to be done."

"If an informed electorate hopes to ride herd over the agencies, the mimeographed release of the agencies alone is not enough," Long said.

He added that since Congress passed the law under which the regulatory agencies are withholding needed information from the public, it is up to Congress to correct the problem.

"Unprecedented Demand"

Don M. Hayes, president of the Du Quoin State Fair, said this week in a special announcement, "The advance sale and requests for tickets to the Lawrence Welk Show on Labor Day night far exceeds anything we have ever seen here at Du Quoin for a night show."

The announcement of Fair stars, Hayes explained, is usually made in February, and, while the ticket office does not open until April, ticket orders are accepted. This year, however, there already has been a landslide of requests for Labor Day night, so order processing has already started, and the orders will be filled according to priority based on the date of their receipt.

"I am making this announcement," Hayes said, "simply because we do not want anyone, especially our patrons of many years, to be disappointed. Most people honestly believe they are ordering tickets early enough for good seats if they order two to three months before Fair time. But this picture has changed."

"For example," Hayes went on, "the orders for the Lawrence Welk Show are exceeding, week for week, those of the Red Skelton Show two years ago. And we thought that pace was terrific!"

Although this year's Fair dates are Aug. 29 through Labor Day, Hayes said the unprecedented demand for tickets has already forced order processing to begin.

Food Stamp Program

Almost any homemaker would like to have more money for purchasing food. Fortunately, though, most of us can get along -- keep our family fed at a healthful, non-hungry level --with what we have.

And well we should, for America's farmers grow more food than we can eat or export. Our nation is blessed with a variety and abundance of foods never before known by any country.

Yet, some Americans have poor diets and resulting from poor health -- because of low incomes. This situation prompted the federal government to seek a balance between this lack of buying power and a plentiful food supply.

The answer was the Food Stamp Program which increases the food purchasing power of those who need it most -- a dream come true for many low-income homemakers.

The Food Stamp Program operates through normal channels of trade. Families -- which first have been certified as needing this help -- exchange the amount of money they could normally be expected to spend for coupons which are worth more. The U.S. government, through the U.S. Department of Agriculture, pays the difference.

Coupons are issued to families in economic need of food buying assistance, though not necessarily those receiving public assistance of some type. This is determined by public welfare agencies in the designated area. The Consumer and Marketing Service of the Agriculture Department cooperates in the program with welfare departments.

Families use these coupons to buy food in regular retail stores at regular prices. If you live in a county where such a program operates, you may well be shopping along-side folks who are benefitting from this food buying assistance.

Pilot, or experimental, projects have been operating in a number of areas since 1961. In these locations, surveys indicated that food stamp recipients made significant increases in purchases of nutritious foods, such as meats, dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables. Even so, they still do not eat as well as higher income groups.

Last year Congress passed a Food Stamp Act which allows for gradual expansion of the program over a period of years. Expansion of the Food Stamp Program already has been approved for a number of areas in the Midwest.

Programs formerly on a pilot basis and continuing under the new program include: Franklin Co., Ill., Vanderburgh Co., Ind., Detroit, Mich. (expected to be expanded); Carlton, Itasca and St. Louis counties, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Cuyahoga and Lucas counties, Ohio; and Douglas and Iron counties, Wisconsin.

Already operating are new projects in Harrison, Perry and Spencer counties, Ind., and Price and Langlade counties, Wis.

On April 1, Food Stamp Programs are scheduled to begin operating in Cook County, Ill.; Posey Co., Ind.; Koochiching and Lake counties, Minn.; and Hamilton Co., Ohio.

Still other programs include: Gogebic and Houghton counties, Mich.; plus Minneapolis, Minn.

Economy Pushing Upward

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The final days of the year's first quarter are seeing a spurt that is pushing the nation's economy to an unexpectedly high level. It is making this spectacular gain with the help of some unusual incentives, such as fear of a steel strike, but also in the face of some setbacks that normally would have dragged it down.

First estimates put the gain in the first three months of 1965 as perhaps the largest since World War II.

This was accomplished despite:

Blizzard that cut factory production, notably of autos, at times in the industrial Midwest and Northeast;

Dock strikes that for weeks paralyzed traffic in and out of Atlantic and Gulf ports and stymied production of export goods, and an up and down stock market that reflected investor — and business — concern over international developments and over the very age of the present business upswing, now into its fifth year.

The economy admittedly has been helped by nervousness over a steel strike deadline May 1 which has led users to try to build up inventories as a hedge and record auto production and sales with much of the demand, at least in the first weeks of the year, traceable to catching up after the auto strikes of last fall.

But steel's record production now is due to other things besides just strike hedging. Use of the steel has risen so high that purchasing agents haven't been able to build up the inventories they set as goals.

Auto sales are running far above a year ago, with last fall's strikes almost forgotten. Latest sales figures show some models running ahead of this time last year by from 19 to 36 per cent.

Spending for new construction, despite lagging housing demand, is now running well above the first year as well as far above year ago figures.

The economy's big upward surge thus seems tied to other things than just nervousness over labor troubles in the offing or effects of past strikes.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION (Con't.)

55. Recommendation:

That certificates of nonuse be accepted only when vehicles are to be used exclusively on private property or when specifically authorized by the Director of Revenue.

The 1955 Commission found the possibility for rebates on license fees for periods when a vehicle was not in use; and the possibility for avoiding the penalty for late license renewal by submitting a certificate of nonuse.

The 1965 Commission has found no change in legislation that would prevent these same possibilities from materializing. Certificates of nonuse are still accepted by the Motor Vehicle Registration Unit. There is no apparent misuse of the certification privilege, however, the 1965 Commission is in agreement with its predecessor --opportunities for misuse of the certification should not exist. Legislation should be enacted to restrict the acceptance of certificates of nonuse.

56. Recommendation:

That the state prison industries receive an appropriation dedicated specifically for the manufacture of all license plates and tags used by the Motor Vehicle Registration Unit of the Department of Revenue.

This recommendation of the 1955 Commission is repeated, since conditions remain substantially the same as in 1955. During the past ten years the Department of Revenue has negotiated with the Department of Corrections for favorable license plate prices. This negotiation does not alter the definite possibility that one department may be subsidized from another department's appropriation. The Department of Corrections should justify the appropriation required for manufacturing license plates and tags to the satisfaction of the General Assembly.

DRIVER'S LICENSE

Recommendations:

57. That the drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses be issued as embossed plastic cards with the driver's license number encoded in binary decimal bar graph code.

58. That all traffic enforcement agencies be encouraged to adopt a uniform traffic violation report (ticket) that will accommodate the proposed plastic card driver's license and chauffeur's license, such a ticket to be a machine-readable card.

59. That the Driver's License Unit of the Department of Revenue replace key punch and verification machines with a single machine to read, punch, and verify the proposed traffic violation card.

The use of the plastic card driver's license is not only a more permanent license, but its use in preparing source documents will greatly improve the accuracy of permanent drivers' license records while simultaneously reducing the cost of record processing.

Traffic citation forms consisting of a card processable by standard machines together with the required onionskin copies should be adopted throughout the state. Such forms could then be processed by arresting officers, courts, and the Jefferson City office with speed and accuracy. The use of the embossed plastic card license together with imprinters would eliminate errors due to inaccurate copying or poor handwriting. These errors can now cause posting of traffic conviction points to the wrong driver's account.

Information recorded on the citation forms in binary bar graph code can be read, punched, and verified into the citation card itself. This same card can then enter the existing data processing system for drivers' license records. One machine is available that can replace eighteen machines now used in Jefferson City for converting handwritten drivers' license records into machine language -- replacing these eighteen machines can save the state as much as $36,500 annually.

Five states now use embossed plastic card drivers' licenses and eight states plan imminent conversion to such licenses. Missouri's use of this type license would improve the accuracy of drivers' license records, speed the processing of traffic convictions, and reduce the cost of the driver's license record keeping.

Eggs Still a Big Bargain

Eggs are still a big bargain at most of the nation's food markets, although prices are inching back up toward more normal levels.

Despite the increase, eggs are expected to continue low for several weeks. They make a good meat - substitute during lent.

Meat prices are holding steady in most sections. Some pork cuts, however, may carry bargain price tags in some markets. The wholesale prices for beef are up somewhat and those for pork are down just a fraction.

One national supermarket chain cut pork chops prices 20 cents to 79 a pound for weekend specials in its New York area outlets.

Pork loins and spareribs are lower on the West Coast.

Meat prices in the Midwest are reported to be slightly less attractive this week. Beef chuck, rib and rump roasts and picnic hams are said to be among the better buys.

Low temperatures and bad weather have cut into some of the fresh fruit and vegetable supplies. Cucumbers and green pappers are reported sharply higher, with lettuce, tomatoes, radishes, corn and potatoes also showing increases at the wholesale levels.

Green beans and yellow squash are in abundant supply, however.

To Your Health

Seed pods of roses, often called rose "hips," are one of the richest sources of Vitamin C, according to Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, Calif. For centuries, American Indians collected and dried them as a winter diet supplement.

BEGONIA?—First name of Begona Palacios translates as "begonia," but "tiger lily" might be more appropriate. The 20-year-old Mexican starlet makes her Hollywood debut in a Civil War-era film, "Major Dundee," soon to be released. Oldsters will find she recalls to mind the sultry Lupe Velez of an earlier picture era.

What Roosevelt And Johnson Have In Common

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Warren G. Harding said "God, what a job," but President Johnson has the same relish for it that President Franklin D. Roosevelt did. Roosevelt and Johnson have had more than that in common.

Historians put Roosevelt, who started out promising a "New Deal," among the great presidents. It seems clear, from the sweep of his programs and his promises of a "Great Society," that Johnson hopes to be in the same group.

Johnson, always impressed by Roosevelt, is operating in much the same manner: action, bold and broad proposals, and expressed concern for people.

The direction of the two men is the same even though Roosevelt took over in the depths of depression while Johnson began his four-year term last January when, to use his own description, the economy was "excellent."

Johnson even uses some of the words, goals, and ideas of his mentor.

"This generation of Americans has a rendezvous with destiny," Roosevelt said in accepting renomination in 1936. Johnson in his inaugural last January said, "For every generation there is a destiny."

In his first inaugural Roosevelt said, "This nation asks for action." Johnson promised "action" in his inaugural. Starting out in the presidency, Roosevelt said, "Our primary task is to put people to work."

Johnson in his economic report this year put employment first among this country's "unfinished tasks."

In his 1933 inaugural Roosevelt rattled off a list of programs he wanted Congress to approve. In his inaugural Johnson rattled off almost 50 proposals he wants action on.

Roosevelt created an American social revolution out of the necessity of depression, although actually he was only trying to bring the long tardy United States abreast of policies reached by European countries years before.

In doing so the wealthy and aristocratic Roosevelt antagonized business and was regarded as a radical and traitor to his class by the well-to-do but he was basically a conservative trying to catch up with the times.

Johnson learned from Roosevelt's mistakes in dealing with big business and is courting it as zealously as labor although his programs won't have the same wide and far-reaching effect on business and the rich as Roosevelt's.

But then Roosevelt was dealing with a crisis that Johnson doesn't face.

Johnson, who switched ground during his 23 years in Congress, so far has escaped any flat tags of left or right although, for his strong support of civil rights, segregationist Southerners may consider him a traitor to his Southern background.

But the programs Johnson has handed Congress are generally in the tradition of the New Deal: medical care for the aged, aid to education, antipoverty, housing, and others.

Johnson had far more experience in government and with Congress than Roosevelt and the experience is beginning to show.

For instance, where Roosevelt was able to get through some of his programs in a moment of national desperation, but did badly later, Johnson, under no such pressure, is making astonishing progress and hopes to continue it.

Only time will tell whether Johnson and Roosevelt had something else in common: much less concern about foreign problems than domestic ones.

If Roosevelt had shown more awareness of what was building up in Europe before Hitler went to war, and more leadership in trying to thwart it or get prepared for it, history might have been different.

Because of his long service in Congress, almost all of Johnson's experience has been in domestic affairs, not in foreign ones. And he has said very little about them after 16 months in office, compared with all he has said about the problems at home.

Plan Bath Carefully

Modern bathrooms require just as much or more careful planning as any other part of the house, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau reports.

Before buying a new home or modernizing an older one, families should take careful stock of their bathroom needs. How many people are there in the household? What ages? What sexes? How many prefer the tub baths and how many showers? What provisions should be made for guests or domestic help?

Family comfort and an agreeable home atmosphere depend to a surprising extent on how efficient the plumbing is. Inadequate facilities mean overcrowding, irritated tempers and impatient waiting in line.

Experience proves that families of three or more are being unrealistic if they imagine that one bathroom can adequately serve their needs. A survey of home buyers shows that six out of seven who bought single - bath dwellings now wish they had two or more baths. Most said they would be willing to pay for the additional facilities.

Bathroom planning should be based on a realistic appraisal of the amount and type of traffic they'll be called upon to handle. For instance, in a family with several male members, it's a good idea to have twin lavatories to speed rush-hour shaving. And twin lavatories in their own bathroom will delight teen-age girls.

Mother always appreciates a vanity-lavatory in her bedroom to enable her to wash her hair, primp or freshen up in privacy without tying up the bath to the exclusion of other family members.

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

No matter how you look at it, this car makes a lot of sense.

If you're interested in value (and who isn't), the eleven features above give you a good idea why more intermediate-size car buyers are thinking Chevelle.

If you're looking for a wide power choice, Chevelle starts out with a standard 120-hp Six, an ideal city performer. After that you may order from a variety of engines that turn it into an even greater highway performer.

Room? Large door openings. Wide curved side windows for extra shoulder room. Great front and rear leg room. Those four, five or six passengers have it made. And so do you. Chevelle may seat like a big car but it handles like a smaller car.

Comfort? Thick wall-to-wall carpeting in Malibu models. Foam-cushioned seats. Easy-to-read instrument panel. The whole interior looks like those in cars costing far more.

Come on down to our showroom and take a drive soon. Chevelle begins to make even more sense after you've gone a couple of miles.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION (Con't.)

55. Recommendation:

That certificates of nonuse be accepted only when vehicles are to be used exclusively on private property or when specifically authorized by the Director of Revenue.

The 1955 Commission found the possibility for rebates on license fees for periods when a vehicle was not in use; and the possibility for avoiding the penalty for late license renewal by submitting a certificate of nonuse.

The 1965 Commission has found no change in legislation that would prevent these same possibilities from materializing. Certificates of nonuse are still accepted by the Motor Vehicle Registration Unit. There is no apparent misuse of the certification privilege, however, the 1965 Commission is in agreement with its predecessor --opportunities for misuse of the certification should not exist. Legislation should be enacted to restrict the acceptance of certificates of nonuse.

56. Recommendation:

That the state prison industries receive an appropriation dedicated specifically for the manufacture of all license plates and tags used by the Motor Vehicle Registration Unit of the Department of Revenue.

This recommendation of the 1955 Commission is repeated, since conditions remain substantially the same as in 1955. During the past ten years the Department of Revenue has negotiated with the Department of Corrections for favorable license plate prices. This negotiation does not alter the definite possibility that one department may be subsidized from another department's appropriation. The Department of Corrections should justify the appropriation required for manufacturing license plates and tags to the satisfaction of the General Assembly.

DRIVER'S LICENSE

Recommendations:

57. That the drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses be issued as embossed plastic cards with the driver's license number encoded in binary decimal bar graph code.

58. That all traffic enforcement agencies be encouraged to adopt a uniform traffic violation report (ticket) that will accommodate the proposed plastic card driver's license and chauffeur's license, such a ticket to be a machine-readable card.

59. That the Driver's License Unit of the Department of Revenue replace key punch and verification machines with a single machine to read, punch, and verify the proposed traffic violation card.

The use of the plastic card driver's license is not only a more permanent license, but its use in preparing source documents will greatly improve the accuracy of permanent drivers' license records while simultaneously reducing the cost of record processing.

Traffic citation forms consisting of a card processable by standard machines together with the required onionskin copies should be adopted throughout the state. Such forms could then be processed by arresting officers, courts, and the Jefferson City office with speed and accuracy. The use of the embossed plastic card license together with imprinters would eliminate errors due to inaccurate copying or poor handwriting. These errors can now cause posting of traffic conviction points to the wrong driver's account.

Information recorded on the citation forms in binary bar graph code can be read, punched, and verified into the citation card itself. This same card can then enter the existing data processing system for drivers' license records. One machine is available that can replace eighteen machines now used in Jefferson City for converting handwritten drivers' license records into machine language -- replacing these eighteen machines can save the state as much as $36,500 annually.

Five states now use embossed plastic card drivers' licenses and eight states plan imminent conversion to such licenses. Missouri's use of this type license would improve the accuracy of drivers' license records, speed the processing of traffic convictions, and reduce the cost of the driver's license record keeping.

Eggs Still a Big Bargain

Eggs are still a big bargain at most of the nation's food markets, although prices are inching back up toward more normal levels.

Despite the increase, eggs are expected to continue low for several weeks. They make a good meat - substitute during lent.

Meat prices are holding steady in most sections. Some pork cuts, however, may carry bargain price tags in some markets. The wholesale prices for beef are up somewhat and those for pork are down just a fraction.

One national supermarket chain cut pork chops prices 20 cents to 79 a pound for weekend specials in its New York area outlets.

Pork loins and spareribs are lower on the West Coast.

Meat prices in the Midwest are reported to be slightly less attractive this week. Beef chuck, rib and rump roasts and picnic hams are said to be among the better buys.

Low temperatures and bad weather have cut into some of the fresh fruit and vegetable supplies. Cucumbers and green pappers are reported sharply higher, with lettuce, tomatoes, radishes, corn and potatoes also showing increases at the wholesale levels.

Green beans and yellow squash are in abundant supply, however.

To Your Health

Seed pods of roses, often called rose "hips," are one of the richest sources of Vitamin C, according to Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, Calif. For centuries, American Indians collected and dried them as a winter diet supplement.

BEGONIA?—First name of Begona Palacios translates as "begonia," but "tiger lily" might be more appropriate. The 20-year-old Mexican starlet makes her Hollywood debut in a Civil War-era film, "Major Dundee," soon to be released. Oldsters will find she recalls to mind the sultry Lupe Velez of an earlier picture era.

What Roosevelt And Johnson Have In Common

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Warren G. Harding said "God, what a job," but President Johnson has the same relish for it that President Franklin D. Roosevelt did. Roosevelt and Johnson have had more than that in common.

Historians put Roosevelt, who started out promising a "New Deal," among the great presidents. It seems clear, from the sweep of his programs and his promises of a "Great Society," that Johnson hopes to be in the same group.

Johnson, always impressed by Roosevelt, is operating in much the same manner: action, bold and broad proposals, and expressed concern for people.

The direction of the two men is the same even though Roosevelt took over in the depths of depression while Johnson began his four-year term last January when, to use his own description, the economy was "excellent."

Johnson even uses some of the words, goals, and ideas of his mentor.

"This generation of Americans has a rendezvous with destiny," Roosevelt said in accepting renomination in 1936. Johnson in his inaugural last January said, "For every generation there is a destiny."

In his first inaugural Roosevelt said, "This nation asks for action." Johnson promised "action" in his inaugural. Starting out in the presidency, Roosevelt said, "Our primary task is to put people to work."

Johnson in his economic report this year put employment first among this country's "unfinished tasks."

In his 1933 inaugural Roosevelt rattled off a list of programs he wanted Congress to approve. In his inaugural Johnson rattled off almost 50 proposals he wants action on.

Roosevelt created an American social revolution out of the necessity of depression, although actually he was only trying to bring the long tardy United States abreast of policies reached by European countries years before.

In doing so the wealthy and aristocratic Roosevelt antagonized business and was regarded as a radical and traitor to his class by the well-to-do but he was basically a conservative trying to catch up with the times.

Johnson learned from Roosevelt's mistakes in dealing with big business and is courting it as zealously as labor although his programs won't have the same wide and far-reaching effect on business and the rich as Roosevelt's.

But then Roosevelt was dealing with a crisis that Johnson doesn't face.

Johnson, who switched ground during his 23 years in Congress, so far has escaped any flat tags of left or right although, for his strong support of civil rights, segregationist Southerners may consider him a traitor to his Southern background.

But the programs Johnson has handed Congress are generally in the tradition of the New Deal: medical care for the aged, aid to education, antipoverty, housing, and others.

Johnson had far more experience in government and with Congress than Roosevelt and the experience is beginning to show.

For instance, where Roosevelt was able to get through some of his programs in a moment of national desperation, but did badly later, Johnson, under no such pressure, is making astonishing progress and hopes to continue it.

Only time will tell whether Johnson and Roosevelt had something else in common: much less concern about foreign problems than domestic ones.

If Roosevelt had shown more awareness of what was building up in Europe before Hitler went to war, and more leadership in trying to thwart it or get prepared for it, history might have been different.

Because of his long service in Congress, almost all of Johnson's experience has been in domestic affairs, not in foreign ones. And he has said very little about them after 16 months in office, compared with all he has said about the problems at home.

Plan Bath Carefully

Modern bathrooms require just as much or more careful planning as any other part of the house, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau reports.

Before buying a new home or modernizing an older one, families should take careful stock of their bathroom needs. How many people are there in the household? What ages? What sexes? How many prefer the tub baths and how many showers? What provisions should be made for guests or domestic help?

Family comfort and an agreeable home atmosphere depend to a surprising extent on how efficient the plumbing is. Inadequate facilities mean overcrowding, irritated tempers and impatient waiting in line.

Experience proves that families of three or more are being unrealistic if they imagine that one bathroom can adequately serve their needs. A survey of home buyers shows that six out of seven who bought single - bath dwellings now wish they had two or more baths. Most said they would be willing to pay for the additional facilities.

Bathroom planning should be based on a realistic appraisal of the amount and type of traffic they'll be called upon to handle. For instance, in a family with several male members, it's a good idea to have twin lavatories to speed rush-hour shaving. And twin lavatories in their own bathroom will delight teen-age girls.

Mother always appreciates a vanity-lavatory in her bedroom to enable her to wash her hair, primp or freshen up in privacy without tying up the bath to the exclusion of other family members.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By
Howard F. Kershner, L.H.D.

Our country is new but exceedingly well developed because a vast amount of hard work has been done by those who preceded us and by many of our contemporaries. Other countries that were old before Columbus discovered America are underdeveloped because insufficient work has been done in them. If they wish to become developed, they must work. We might help them in some small degree by "foreign aid" but this is often of doubtful value as it may lead to less indigenous effort and it often has led to governmental policies which are not conducive to encouraging greater effort.

There are probably basic reasons why some countries are notoriously underdeveloped. Climate may be one factor. Ideology is most certainly another. The millions of sacred cows and monkeys in India which consume vast quantities of foodstuff while contributing nothing to the wealth of the country are undoubtedly a severe handicap to the Indians.

Without any doubt, governmental and economic policies, which discourage effort, are the main reason for underdevelopment in many lands. Men work hard when there is incentive, when there is hope of being able to enjoy the fruit of their labor. But when restrictive legislation, excessive taxation and socialism greatly reduce the reward for which one may hope as a result of his work, much of the incentive to exert oneself is gone.

In Europe and in North America men learned to limit their government and therefore to enjoy a far greater measure of freedom. This greatly increased their incentive as it made it possible for them to enjoy a far greater portion of what they produced. That is the secret of Western prosperity. The same system will work anywhere in the world. Development will take place anywhere when the minds and bodies of men and women are unshackled.

The development of a country requires individual moral character. It involves the understanding of economic law, the maintenance of sound, honest, non-inflatable money, limited government, low taxation, the encouragement of thrift, saving and free enterprise. The same basics that brought development in some countries, if faithfully practiced, would also bring it to the underdeveloped countries. This is not to say that foreign capital will not help. And, if it is the policy of the underdeveloped countries to be fair with foreign capital -- that is, to refrain from excessive taxation and confiscation and to allow a fair portion of its earnings to be sent home, the needed capital will flow into the underdeveloped countries almost automatically.

Work, freedom, fair play for capital and no socialism! These are the ways of developing the underdeveloped countries.

Lightest Mexico

By John Abney

Mexico City - You wouldn't believe all the things we are getting in Mexico these days but the latest item to arrive is a tranquilizer for dogs. These curious little pellets are called something like "Dogquilizers" or "Tranquilpups."

And apparently any dog can walk right into a pet shop here and buy some without a prescription. Animal psychiatrists say the pill industry developed this special formula for canines who bark and romp excessively.

So far, no tranquilizers have been developed for cats. Possibly because cats seldom bark and romp.

But suppose a cat sits on your back fence some night after you drag home from a fiesta and he begins baying at the moon. It wakes up the baby, who also begins baying. You can throw the baby at the cat and there is no need for tranquilizers.

Dr. Eustace Talcumbaum, the eminent Mexican psychiatrist, says dogs DO need tranquilizers because they have lived too long around people. Dr. Talcumbaum says many neuroses are contageous and dogs, being man's best (and practically only), friend, are bound to catch something.

Today's canine is the victim of personality disorders, phobias, obsessions and even nervous tics. He is plagued by anxiety and doubt because he has read, or at least seen on television, where dogs are shot to the moon or end up being arrested by dog catchers just for being dogs.

Mexico's constitution prohibits dogs from making their own living and decrees that all canines must be owned by people; apparently a setup devised because people are more easily convinced to pay money for dog licenses the same as they must buy plates for automobiles.

I once had a dog with a district license, a city license, an anti-rabies license and countless others. He developed what is known as a license syndrome and thought he was a 1936 station wagon. We called him Ford.

In his puppyhood, Ford was free of psychic disturbances. He spent many happy hours fishing in Acapulco and attending the annual carnivals in Mazatlan and Veracruz.

Later, after fraternizing with people and having several pounds of license plates attached to his collar, he became moody and developed conflicts. Dr. Talcumbaum believes Ford's political phobia was projected to rabbits.

He (Ford) pursued them incessantly. Perhaps if we had renamed him Missile it would have given him a sense of security. He might even have learned to fly and hunted birds instead of tearing across stony fields, which proved to be his undoing.

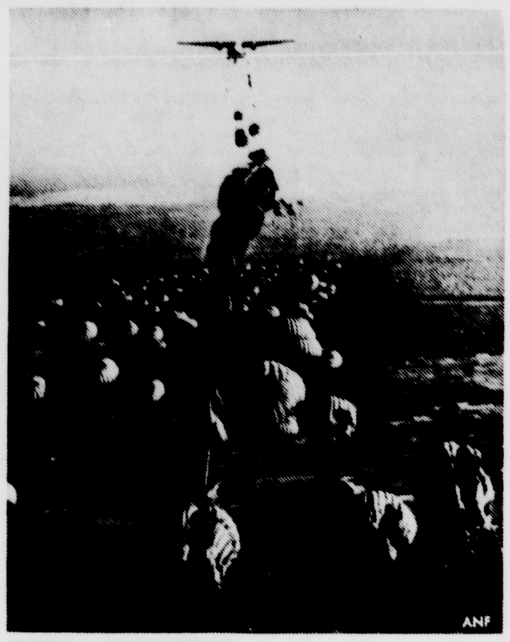
One Spring day while chasing a rabbit across rough terrain and honking at the top of his voice, Ford had a blowout, lost control and turned over several times. He died in Dr. Talcumbaum's arms and his (Ford's) last word was a pathetic "Be-e-e-ep." If only there had been dogquilizers in those days we could have kept him asleep for years.

At any rate, I found out about these pooch de-energizers after the Lady from Puebla bought some in bulk for the neighbor's dog which is in love with a Water Spaniel next door. She put them in an empty bottle labeled Sodium Bicarbonate Tablets and I took six one night after reading the frong page of a newspaper.

It was the best month's sleep I ever had and the Lady from Puebla says I didn't howl once.

"The lowest ebb is the turn of the tide."

Fred W. Grown



VERTICAL ENVELOPMENT—Republic of Vietnam Airborne Infantry drop in to reinforce Government troops in a fight with the Viet Cong forces. A pathfinder team lands in advance of the troopers to guide and control them on the ground, and to insure link-up with ground forces.

Eggs and Eggs

Egos -- or personalities -- show when a person voices a preference for a style of cooked eggs . . . or so an unknown psychiatrist claims.

For example, hard-cooked eggs are supposedly preferred by one who is persistent, dynamic and sincere. Soft-cooked eggs are preferred by a gentle, patient, kind person. Medium-cooked selection indicates a calm, cool and collected composure.

Poached eggs supposedly are preferred by the speedy, peppy and intelligent. Scrambled -- first choice of most Americans -- suit the artistic, nervous and passionate.

Among fried egg styles, differences exist. Sunnyside up eggs are selected by the happy, healthy and wise, while the versatile, magnetic and dominant prefer turned - over eggs.

Shirred eggs suit the fancy of the fastidious, romantic and sensitive. A sturdy, reliable, conservative type is likely to choose an omelet.

Turning the tables, now, and "reading" the personality of eggs, one might label them sensitive (to heat), artistic (as in meringues), practical (in general use) and versatile (as shown by the many and varied uses).

All of which indicates -- if nothing more--that eggs can be fixed in many ways . . . and all are popular. Furthermore, they can be served economically, too, because of the attractively priced abundance currently reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Private Water Wells Rapidly Increasing

The water-finding divining rod may be a relic of the past, but private water wells are going stronger than ever. More and more people every year depend on them for their supply. According to the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, more than 10 million families are now using private water systems -- double the number 15 years ago.

There is good reason for this, of course. Water mains across the country have not kept pace with our exploding population and the accompanying development of suburban and rural areas. Nor is this a disadvantage, because the private well and water system can offer numerous benefits.

Families with individual water systems have no restrictions on usage -- they can sprinkle the lawn or wash the car any time they wish. They are not subject to reduced water pressure because of heavy use by others in the community. And when it comes to quality, individual water supply is better in most cases.

What about cost? There is, of course, an initial investment -- well drilling, pump, and storage facility. However, when measured over a period of years, the individual system often proves more economical than the monthly municipal water.

Should a family wish to build a new home, the individual water supply offers complete freedom in selecting a location. Choice of building sites can be made without concern for the existence of water mains.

Birds in Yellowstone National Park heat their nests by building them in the drift of warm vapors from geyser basins.

Plan Ahead, Save Money With "Stub In Piping

In building a new home, families like to provide as many conveniences as possible for comfortable, pleasant living. Not every prospective homeowner, though, can afford to have every convenience at the time his new home is built.

But by planning ahead, certain things can be added later at a greatly reduced cost, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out. For example, it is possible to save a good deal of money later by having the plumber contractor "stub-in" piping when the house is built -- to provide for future water needs as the family and finances increase.

Stubbing-in is easily accomplished by the plumbing contractor. In a family room, for instance, the homeowner may anticipate the need for hot and cold water outlets, but be unable to afford installing a sink or drinking fountain. In such a case, the contractor will install the proper piping at the location of future fixtures, and cap it. When the house is finished, these capped pipes will be concealed by the walls of the room, and the homeowner provided with plans indicating their exact location.

In the years that follow, when it is decided to have the added fixtures installed, the homeowner saves in two ways. First, remodeling costs are held down. Walls are opened at exactly the place where the sealed piping is located. This reduced the cost of plastering or new paneling. Second, because the piping is already there, the contractor can install and adjust fixtures quickly. This provides a savings in labor charges.

Such savings can make it economical to bring a host of conveniences to many rooms in the house. Pre-planning and stubbing-in for a laundry room, powder room, bedroom lavatory, or even a patio sink will mean added convenience at minimal cost.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By
Howard E. Kershner, LL.D.

Our country is new but exceedingly well developed because a vast amount of hard work has been done by those who preceded us and by many of our contemporaries. Other countries that were old before Columbus discovered America are underdeveloped because insufficient work has been done in them. If they wish to become developed, they must work. We might help them in some small degree by "foreign aid" but this is often of doubtful value as it may lead to less indigenous effort and it often has led to governmental policies which are not conducive to encouraging greater effort.

There are probably basic reasons why some countries are notoriously underdeveloped. Climate may be one factor. Ideology is most certainly another. The millions of sacred cows and monkeys in India which consume vast quantities of foodstuff while contributing nothing to the wealth of the country are undoubtedly a severe handicap to the Indians.

Without any doubt, governmental and economic policies, which discourage effort, are the main reason for underdevelopment in many lands. Men work hard when there is incentive, when there is hope of being able to enjoy the fruit of their labor. But when restrictive legislation, excessive taxation and socialism greatly reduce the reward for which one may hope as a result of his work, much of the incentive to exert oneself is gone.

In Europe and in North America men learned to limit their government and therefore to enjoy a far greater measure of freedom. This greatly increased their incentive as it made it possible for them to enjoy a far greater portion of what they produced. That is the secret of Western prosperity. The same system will work anywhere in the world. Development will take place anywhere when the minds and bodies of men and women are unshackled.

The development of a country requires individual moral character. It involves the understanding of economic law, the maintenance of sound, honest, non-inflatable money, limited government, low taxation, the encouragement of thrift, saving and free enterprise. The same laws that brought development in some countries, if faithfully practiced, would also bring it to the underdeveloped countries. This is not to say that foreign capital will not help. And, if it is the policy of the underdeveloped countries to be fair with foreign capital -- that is, to refrain from excessive taxation and confiscation and to allow a fair portion of its earnings to be sent home, the needed capital will flow into the underdeveloped countries almost automatically.

Work, freedom, fair play for capital and no socialism! These are the ways of developing the underdeveloped countries.

Lightest Mexico

By John Abney

Mexico City - You wouldn't believe all the things we are getting in Mexico these days but the latest item to arrive is a tranquilizer for dogs. These curious little pellets are called something like "Dogquilizers" or "Tranquilpups."

And apparently any dog can walk right into a pet shop here and buy some without a prescription. Animal psychiatrists say the pill industry developed this special formula for canines who bark and romp excessively.

So far, no tranquilizers have been developed for cats. Possibly because cats seldom bark and romp.

But suppose a cat sits on your back fence some night after you drag home from a fiesta and he begins baying at the moon. It wakes up the baby, who also begins baying. You can throw the baby at the cat and there is no need for tranquilizers.

Dr. Eustace Talcumbaum, the eminent Mexican psychiatrist, says dogs DO need tranquilizers because they have lived too long around people. Dr. Talcumbaum says many neuroses are contageous and dogs, being man's best (and practically only), friend, are bound to catch something.

Today's canine is the victim of personality disorders, phobias, obsessions and even nervous tics. He is plagued by anxiety and doubt because he has read, or at least seen on television, where dogs are shot to the moon or end up being arrested by dog catchers just for being dogs.

Mexico's constitution prohibits dogs from making their own living and decrees that all canines must be owned by people; apparently a setup devised because people are more easily convinced to pay money for dog licenses the same as they must buy plates for automobiles.

I once had a dog with a district license, a city license, an anti-rabies license and countless others. He developed what is known as a license syndrome and thought he was a 1936 station wagon. We called him Ford.

In his puppyhood, Ford was free of psychic disturbances. He spent many happy hours fishing in Acapulco and attending the annual carnivals in Mazatlan and Veracruz.

Later, after fraternizing with people and having several pounds of license plates attached to his collar, he became moody and developed conflicts. Dr. Talcumbaum believes Ford's political phobia was projected to rabbits.

He (Ford) pursued them incessantly. Perhaps if we had renamed him Missile it would have given him a sense of security. He might even have learned to fly and hunted birds instead of tearing across stony fields, which proved to be his undoing.

One Spring day while chasing a rabbit across rough terrain and honking at the top of his voice, Ford had a blowout, lost control and turned over several times. He died in Dr. Talcumbaum's arms and his (Ford's) last word was a pathetic "Be-e-e-ep." If only there had been dogquilizers in those days we could have kept him asleep for years.

At any rate, I found out about these pooch de-energizers after the Lady from Puebla bought some in bulk for the neighbor's dog which is in love with a Water Spaniel next door. She put them in an empty bottle labeled Sodium Bicarbonate Tablets and I took six one night after reading the front page of a newspaper.

It was the best month's sleep I ever had and the Lady from Puebla says I didn't howl once.

"The lowest ebb is the turn of the tide."

VERTICAL ENVELOPMENT—Republic of Vietnam Airborne Infantry drop in to reinforce Government troops in a fight with the Viet Cong forces. A pathfinder team lands in advance of the troopers to guide and control them on the ground, and to insure link-up with ground forces.

Eggs and Eggs

Egos -- or personalities -- show when a person voices a preference for a style of cooked eggs . . . or so an unknown psychiatrist claims.

For example, hard-cooked eggs are supposedly preferred by one who is persistent, dynamic and sincere. Soft-cooked eggs are preferred by a gentle, patient, kind person. Medium-cooked selection indicates a calm, cool and collected composure.

Poached eggs supposedly are preferred by the speedy, peppy and intelligent. Scrambled -- first choice of most Americans --suit the artistic, nervous and passionate.

Among fried egg styles, differences exist. Sunnyside up eggs are selected by the happy, healthy and wise, while the versatile, magnetic and dominant prefer turned - over eggs.

Shirred eggs suit the fancy of the fastidious, romantic and sensitive. A sturdy, reliable, conservative type is likely to choose an omelet.

Turning the tables, now, and "reading" the personality of eggs, one might label them sensitive (to heat), artistic (as in meringues), practical (in general use) and versatile (as shown by the many and varied uses).

All of which indicates -- if nothing more--that eggs can be fixed in many ways . . . and all are popular. Furthermore, they can be served economically, too, because of the attractively priced abundance currently reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Private Water Wells Rapidly Increasing

The water-finding divining rod may be a relic of the past, but private water wells are going stronger than ever. More and more people every year depend on them for their supply. According to the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, more than 10 million families are now using private water systems -- double the number 15 years ago.

There is good reason for this, of course. Water mains across the country have not kept pace with our exploding population and the accompanying development of suburban and rural areas. Nor is this a disadvantage, because the private well and water system can offer numerous benefits.

Families with individual water systems have no restrictions on usage -- they can sprinkle the lawn or wash the car any time they wish. They are not subject to reduced water pressure because of heavy use by others in the community. And when it comes to quality, individual water supply is better in most cases.

What about cost? There is, of course, an initial investment -- well drilling, pump, and storage facility. However, when measured over a period of years, the individual system often proves more economical than the monthly municipal water.

Should a family wish to build a new home, the individual water supply offers complete freedom in selecting a location. Choice of building sites can be made without concern for the existence of water mains.

Birds in Yellowstone National Park heat their nests by building them in the drift of warm vapors from geyser basins.

Plan Ahead, Save Money With "Stub In Piping

In building a new home, families like to provide as many conveniences as possible for comfortable, pleasant living. Not every prospective homeowner, though, can afford to have every convenience at the time his new home is built.

But by planning ahead, certain things can be added later at a greatly reduced cost, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out. For example, it is possible to save a good deal of money later by having the plumber contractor "stub-in" piping when the house is built -- to provide for future water needs as the family and finances increase.

Stubbing-in is easily accomplished by the plumbing contractor. In a family room, for instance, the homeowner may anticipate the need for hot and cold water outlets, but be unable to afford installing a sink or drinking fountain. In such a case, the contractor will install the proper piping at the location of future fixtures, and cap it. When the house is finished, these capped pipes will be concealed by the walls of the room, and the homeowner provided with plans indicating their exact location.

In the years that follow, when it is decided to have the added fixtures installed, the homeowner saves in two ways. First, remodeling costs are held down. Walls are opened at exactly the place where the sealed piping is located. This reduced the cost of plastering or new paneling. Second, because the piping is already there, the contractor can install and adjust fixtures quickly. This provides a savings in labor charges.

Such savings can make it economical to bring a host of conveniences to many rooms in the house. Pre-planning and stubbing-in for a laundry roo powder room, bedroom lav tory, or even a patio sink w mean added convenience minimal cost.

Action, Not Worry, Solves Problems

by Helen Hennessy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Worry seems to be the young adult's constant companion. You can take a lot of premature weight off your teen-age shoulders, though, by acting rather than brooding.

What do you worry about?

You have plenty of company if you worry about: Your figure, your complexion, your popularity and your brains (i.e., school grades).

Whether you wallow in self-pity with others your age depends upon the steps you take to correct what you consider your shortcomings.

First, ask yourself if you haven't set impossible goals—for your appearance and accomplishments. Then, weigh your reaction to the criticism of others. Be sensible. When something bothers you, take action. Don't just stew.

● Do you worry about being too thin or too fat?

Before you stop eating or start stuffing yourself, find out what your weight should be for your height and bone structure. For example, your bone structure establishes the general shape of your figure. If it's large to begin with, you'll always weigh more than you may think fashionable but without looking heavy. Try this structure test as a guide:

Measure the width of your right wrist and note the total. Your waist should be 4¼ times the width of your wrist; hips 6 times wider; thigh, 3½; calf 2¼ and ankle 1¼ times the width. If you consistently are less or more than you should be in all these areas, do something about your weight.

● Do you worry about your skin? Perfect skins are rare. You can minimize skin problems and help prevent flare-up of skin eruptions through regular skin care.

For example, if your skin is oily and tends toward blackheads and other blemishes, wash it with a medicated cleansing jelly (Fresh-Start). This helps clear pores, stimulates your skin and combats excess oiliness.

● Do you worry about others liking you? Both boys and girls will like you if you (a) like them and (b) like yourself. You have to offer something — humor, enthusiasm, appreciation, sincere interest. When you learn the secret of this, you build your own confidence.

● Do you worry about your school grades? You should but are you aiming for straight As by cramming and not through true interest in your subjects?

Relax. Start working for a B, for example, and you may get those As once your own personal pressure is off.

Fine Failure

Susan B. Anthony, the suffragette, was arrested and fined $100 for voting in the presidential election of 1872, but she refused to pay the fine and was not forced to do so.

"No" Is Again The Answer For Abolishment

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House said "no" again Tuesday on a bill to abolish the job of county school superintendent where it is no longer needed.

The bill was killed 81-57, one vote shy of enough to pass. An effort to revive it is expected.

The measure would declare the office abolished in all 26 counties where it was vacant last Jan. 1.

In counties where there are less than four districts still not reorganized, voters would decide whether the office would be abolished.

Recent governors have been reluctant to fill vacancies in the job in reorganized counties because the superintendent then has only nominal duties.

Twenty - five members were absent or declined to vote on on the bill Tuesday.

On a vote of 128-11 the House passed a bill to ban job discrimination on account of age for those between 40 and 65.

Also sent to the Senate without discussion, 136-1, was a bill to extend the school retirement program to non - teaching employes of public schools.

Another bill passed would let judges release an accused person without bond on his first offense, except in the case of major crimes.

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee to endorse a bill to set up an administrative hearing officer for state licensing boards.

The committee deferred action pending a hearing for the opponents.

Eagleton said few if any of the boards are equipped to conduct judicial hearings and pass on license suspensions or revocations.

Under his proposal a commissioner appointed by the governor would hear such cases. His decisions would be subject to review in the courts.

A similar proposal was recommended by the "Little Hoover" Commission.

The committee also deferred action on bills to repeal the uniform commercial code enacted two years ago and to set up a Mo-Kan agency to help develop the Kansas City metropolitan area.

Sponsors of the Mo-Kan plan said a substitute would be presented to broaden bonding powers.

Postmen Find Repellent To Be Best Friend

WASHINGTON AP -- The postman's best friend, a dog repellant, has increased by 40 per cent the likelihood that he will swiftly complete his appointed rounds in one piece.

That's the progress report Asst. Postmaster General Richard J. Murphy recently gave the House Appropriations Committee.

Dogs sank their teeth into postmen 7,000 times last year, costing them more than $1 million in sick leave and doctor bills, Murphy said. But over the last five months -- since the carriers began carrying a repellant which keeps Fido at a distance - disabling dog bites were reduced 40 per cent, Murphy told the committee.

The sweet cassava is used as a substitute for potatoes.

Employment Comp. Fund Transferred

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Herman Julien, director of the Division of Employment Security, reported today the unemployment compensation account is being transferred from the Central Missouri Trust Co. here to the Suburban Bank of Kansas City.

Julien called it a relatively small account that has an average balance of around $2 million. He said unemployment benefit checks totaling between $1 and $1.5 million are drawn on the account each week.

Central Missouri Trust, which Gov. Warren E. Hearnes campaigned against last year as the center of the "Establishment," has had the account only about a year, Julien said. Before that it was in the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis for many years.

Since becoming governor, Hearnes has refused to approve Central Missouri Trust as one of three major state depositories. But it has retained its position because Treasurer M. E. Morris had declined to submit a new list of proposed depositories.

Today's Spanish Lesson

By William Archer
Lesson No. 27

Reading time 5 Min. Study time 5 Min.

Yesterday we showed you that the Spanish verb ending 'mos' means 'we' in English. 'Vamos' means 'we go,' 'we are going', 'we will go':

A) We are going to the hotel B) Vamos al hotel. C) VAH-mos/ahl/o-TELL

A) We are going to swim. B) Vamos a nadar. C) VAH-mos/ah/nah-DAHR

With this simple sound, 'VAH-mos' (vamos), you control the first person plural of the future tense. Isn't this a wonderful "key"? With it, you can add the infinitive of ANY verb in Spanish and control the entire future tense of the language.

We promised you control of Spanish with just twelve sounds and endings. Here are the first eight:

A) I want B) quiero C) key-AIR-o; A) We want B) queremos C) care-RAY-mos; A) I go, I am going, I will go B) voy a C) voy/ah; A) we go, we are going, we will go B) vamos a C) VAH-mos/ah; A) he wants B) quiere C) key-AIR-ray; A) they want B) quieren C) key-AIR-en; A) he goes, he is going, he will go B) va a C) vah-ah ; A) they go, they will go, they are going B) van a C) vahn/ah

It really is easy. Simply commit to memory these eight sounds and endings and you will be able to, by employing the infinitives of the verbs, use the Spanish language in the present and future tenses. (NOTE: In the third person singular and plural it is necessary to use the personal pronoun to indicate the person speaking -- he, she, you (s.) or they, you (p.).

Spanish is perhaps the easiest and most perfect language on earth (with the exception of its 'rregular verbs). Because rules of grammar in the language seldom vary, the pronunciation of Spanish words almost never varies. If it does, a written accent indicates the variance.

With the SPEED SPEECH SYSTEM, you avoid the tremendous task of verb conjugation and can move through the language with ease. Remember, English is 70 per cent Latin and another 15% is Latin 'kin' through synonyms. You already know 85% of Spanish by just knowing English. The movement of verbs is all that disturbed you. This never disturbs the child because, by instinct, he uses the SPEED SPEECH SYSTEM.

We know that you are anxious for more nouns because you now possess the verbs to use them with. So, here are more nouns:

A) pork B) puerco C) poo-AIR-co

A) tomato B) tomate C) toe-MAH-tay

A) spoon B) cuchara C) coo-CHAH-rah

A) ham B)jamon C)hah-MOAN

A)fruit B) fruta C)FROO-tah

A) knife B) cuchillo C) coo-CHEE-yo

A) Ice cream B) helado C) a-LAH-doe

A) onions B)cebollas C) say-BO-yahs

A) fork B)tenedor C) tay-nay-DOOR

Do not add nouns to your vocabulary without using them in a sentence, such as, 'I want a knife, please'. -- 'He wants ice cream'. -- 'I want fruit', etc.

Tomorrow we will give you the "keys" to the past tenses. Just four sounds and endings. That is all, and you will then be able to say and write anything you want to in Spanish.

Spanish Speed Speech appears in The Daily Sikeston Standard as a public service. The Speed Speech course consists of a textbook, a set of two 45 rpm. records and a dictionary of working words. You may purchase any one or all three items by sending check or money order for $3.04 per each in care "SPANISH" this newspaper. We are so sure that you will be pleased, that we offer a money-back guarantee.

A 19-year-old draftee from the hills of West Virginia was assigned to an Army school where a requisite for graduation was a security clearance. Weeks passed, and still his clearance didn't come through. His superiors were baffled, since the boy had never traveled, his family had been Americans for generations and he seemed far too innocent ever to have gotten into difficulty. He was on the verge of being transferred, when a letter from a relative back home resolved the mystery. "John, boy," it read, "you in trouble? A lot of federal men been around asking questions about you. Course we ain't told them nothing. . ."

John sent the folks a quick explanation — whereupon they cooperated with "the feds." Soon afterward his clearance arrived, and he graduated with honors. — G.C.

Convenient, Canned Pears

Pears -- canned pears -- specifically, canned Bartlett pears are in abundant supply right now.

The supply, in fact, is about 50 per cent larger than last year. This is a near record, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service which lists canned pears among the most plentiful foods for March and April.

The convenience of this canned fruit -- for both quick, ready use and home storage -- is a particularly good feature at this time of year while fresh fruits are seasonably more limited.

Bartlett pears boast the smooth texture and delicate flavor that years ago won pears the nickname, "Butterfruit." Grown largely in the rich, volcanic soil of the Pacific Coast orchards, this variety is consistently fine-falvored, uniform in shape and color and just-right sweet.

These are the qualities which make canned pears so companionable, too. Pears are easily teamed with other fruits, many vegetables, cheese, poultry, meats and seafood. Not only will they make tasty salad ingredients and refreshing desserts, but pears make fine accompaniments to protein items.

Take advantage of the abundant supplies of canned Bartlett pears by purchasing several cans . . keep some for future use, and try these USDA recommended palate - pleasing pear recipes.

PEAR - SEAFOAM SALAD
1 c. cottage cheese
1 pkg. lime-flavored gelatin
1-3/4 c. hot liquid, (pear syrup plus water)
2 tblsp. lemon juice
6 to 8 canned pear halves
2 tblsp. pimiento
1/2 c crushed pineapple, undrained.
2 tblsp. green pepper, chopped

Dissolve gelatin in liquid; add lemon juice. Cool. Pour a thin layer into round oiled 8-inch pan; allow to set. Cool remaining gelatin until syrupy. Drain pears. Place pimiento strip in tip of each pear cavity before placing pear cut-side down in gelatin. Combine pineapple, cottage cheese, green pepper and remaining pimiento and fold into remaining gelatin. Pour mixture over pears; chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate. Garnish with a ring of cottage cheese around edges and in the center, and parsley sprigs around edge. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

PEAR KABOBS(hors d'oeuvres)

Cube canned pears and hearty aged cheddar cheese. Insert a tiny wooded pick into pear cube, and then cheese cube (kabob fashion). Perch on miniature "hot" meat ball.

Other kabob ideas to be served hot or cold: Pears, cooked ham cube, pineapple; Pears, olives, cooked lamb cubes; Pears, Plumped prunes, turkey cubes.

PEARADISE SHORTCAKE
1 pkg. Chocolate Cake Mix
4 to 6 canned Bartlett pears, diced
Whipped cream

Bake cake in square or rectangular pan, according to package instructions. Cool. When ready to serve, cut cake into squares. Split pieces and fashion into individual shortcakes using diced pears for filling and whipped cream for topping. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Today's Kitchen Is "Star" of Home

Some of the most significant advancements in this year's new homes are in the kitchens.

Kitchen planning has, in fact, become an exact science, and no room in the home today has been so completely revolutionized in appearance and function, reports the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

Before some of the nation's best designing talent tackled the problem of making it more pleasant and useful, the kitchen of many homes was a sorry sight. All too often it had a cluttered look due to poor arrangement of appliances and equipment. It was poorly lighted and hard to work in. Keeping it clean was a major problem.

Contrast that with the modern kitchen where everything is well arranged and conveniently at hand -- a pleasure to work in and easy to keep spotless. The center of food preparation is, of course, the sink, with its flanking countertops. In the well-planned kitchen, the range, refrigerator, automatic dishwasher and storage areas are installed so that the housewife has the fewest possible steps to travel between them and the sink.

Modern sinks in single, double and even triple bowl styles come in a myriad of colors as well as stainless steel. Hose spray attachments and food waste disposers are coming to be "standard equipment."

To obtain professional help in planning your kitchen, consult an experienced plumbing contractor, the Bureau suggests. He is an expert who will help

Create just the kind of kitchen you want.

IMPISH IMPRESSION—Looking something like a shaggy leprechaun, this model exemplifies the "impish" trend for spring. Her "hair hat," designed by Heiser in New York, is the final touch for a wild wool outfit worn over leotards.

Convenient, Canned Pears

Pears -- canned pears -- specifically, canned Bartlett pears are in abundant supply right now.

The supply, in fact, is about 50 per cent larger than last year. This is a near record, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service which lists canned pears among the most plentiful foods for March and April.

The convenience of this canned fruit -- for both quick, ready use and home storage -- is a particularly good feature at this time of year while fresh fruits are seasonably more limited.

Bartlett pears boast the smooth texture and delicate flavor that years ago won pears the nickname, "Butterfruit." Grown largely in the rich, volcanic soil of the Pacific Coast orchards, this variety is consistently fine-falvored, uniform in shape and color and just-right sweet.

These are the qualities which make canned pears so companionable, too. Pears are easily teamed with other fruits, many vegetables, cheese, poultry, meats and seafood. Not only will they make tasty salad ingredients and refreshing desserts, but pears make fine accompaniments to protein items.

Take advantage of the abundant supplies of canned Bartlett pears by purchasing several cans . . keep some for future use, and try these USDA recommended palate - pleasing pear recipes.

PEAR - SEAFOAM SALAD
c. cottage cheese
pkg. lime-flavored gelatin
-3/4 c. hot liquid, (pear syrup plus water)
tblsp. lemon juice
to 8 canned pear halves
tblsp. pimiento
/2 c crushed pineapple, undrained.
tblsp. green pepper, chopped

Dissolve gelatin in liquid; add emon juice. Cool. Pour a thin ayer into round oiled 8-inch an; allow to set. Cool remaining gelatin until syrupy. Drain pears. Place pimiento strip in tip of each pear cavity before placing pear cut-side down in gelatin. Combine pineapple, cottage cheese, green pepper and remaining pimiento and fold into remaining gelatin. Pour mixture over pears; chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate. Garnish with a ring of cottage cheese around edges and in the center, and parsley sprigs around edge. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

PEAR KABOBS(hors d'oeuvres)

Cube canned pears and hearty aged cheddar cheese. Insert a tiny wooded pick into pear cube, and then cheese cube (kabob fashion). Perch on miniature "hot" meat ball.

Other kabob ideas to be served hot or cold: Pears, cooked ham cube, pineapple; Pears, olives, cooked lamb cubes; Pears, Plumped prunes, turkey cubes.

PEARADISE SHORTCAKE

1 pkg. Chocolate Cake Mix
4 to 6 canned Bartlett pears, diced
Whipped cream

Bake cake in square or rectangular pan, according to package instructions. Cool. When ready to serve, cut cake into squares. Split pieces and fashion into individual shortcakes using diced pears for filling and whipped cream for topping. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Today's Kitchen Is "Star" of Home

Some of the most significant advancements in this year's new homes are in the kitchens.

Kitchen planning has, in fact, become an exact science, and no room in the home today has been so completely revolutionized in appearance and function, reports the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

Before some of the nation's best designing talent tackled the problem of making it more pleasant and useful, the kitchen of many homes was a sorry sight. All too often it had a cluttered look due to poor arrangement of appliances and equipment. It was poorly lighted and hard to work in. Keeping it clean was a major problem.

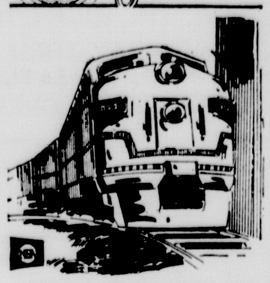
Contrast that with the modern kitchen where everything is well arranged and conveniently at hand -- a pleasure to work in and easy to keep spotless. The center of food preparation is, of course, the sink, with its flanking countertops. In the well-planned kitchen, the range, refrigerator, automatic dishwasher and storage areas are installed so that the housewife has the fewest possible steps to travel between them and the sink.

Modern sinks in single, double and even triple bowl styles come in a myriad of colors as well as stainless steel. Hose spray attachments and food waste disposers are coming to be "standard equipment."

To obtain professional help in planning your kitchen, consult an experienced plumbing contractor, the Bureau suggests. He is an expert who will help

Create just the kind of kitchen you want.

Matter of Fact



More than 500 trains pass through Chicago, the world's largest railroad and air traffic center, every day. On a normal day 280,000 commuters and 47,000 passengers use the trains. The city's industrial yards have a capacity of 200,000 freight cars. More than 20 airports serve the area and three major airports handle millions of passengers each year. The Chicago-O'Hare International Airport is the world's busiest.

2 YEAR NAVY ROTC PROGRAM NOW AVAILABLE

The Navy has announced a new two year college program leading to a commission in addition to the 4 year program currently being offered under the Navy Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

The new two year program, to be taken in the junior and senior years, open NROTC opportunities to the men who did not participate in their freshman and sophomore years.

The program includes a six-week summer training period prior to the Junior year in addition to on-campus instruction during the junior and senior years. Successful applicants will receive $40 a month during Junior and senior year plus $78 a month during the summer session.

Students at colleges which do not have NROTC programs can enroll in the program at those schools sponsoring NROTC units.

Applications may be made at any U.S. Navy Recruiting Station.

papers defended the employment of tear gas. At the Capitol here, after getting an explanation from McNamara, several senators spoke out to defend what had happened.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said use of tear gas to rescue captured Americans from the Viet Cong, or to overcome guerrillas hiding among Vietnamese civilians was justified.

What caused the storm of protest?

Several forces seemed to be involved:

1. A general fear in many foreign countries that the United States is expanding the conflict in Viet Nam toward a major war with Red China.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, whose government supports U. S. defense of South Viet Nam, asked President Johnson Tuesday to explain a statement attributed to U. S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor in Saigon that there was no limit on escalation of the fighting. Johnson is said to have replied that U. S. actions would be measured, fitting and adequate to meet Communist aggression.

The U. S. position is that the Communists are forcing expansion of the war with their operations in South Viet Nam. But no one can give any guarantees how far the Communist operations and U. S. counter-attacks on North Viet Nam will go. Each new development on the U. S. side is likely to provide a focus for protests by those who would like to have the United States make peace quickly in order to avoid greater conflict.

2. The effort of Communist countries to discredit and undermine the whole U. S. policy in Viet Nam, as a means of swinging public opinion against it. Washington officials recall that during the Korean conflict Communists accused the United States falsely of waging germ warfare. They expect Communist officials, press and radio to try to turn any American action against this country, and especially to exploit any U.S. mistake of policy or propaganda.

3. A deep-rooted horror of gas warfare, dating back at least 50 years to the use of gas by the Germans in World War I.

The Germans first employed gas against French and British troops on April 22, 1915. They used chlorine gas, according to military records. Mustard gas, which was the type most commonly used in World War I, was largely responsible for one-third of the 272,000 casualties American troops suffered in the war.

In 1925 an international conference at Geneva wrote the international agreement which stands as the main document on this subject in international law today. The agreement was defined as a "protocol for the prohibition of the uses in war of asphyxiating, poisonous, or other gases, and of bacteriological methods of warfare." The agreement was signed by the United States among others but was never ratified here and is not legally binding on this country.

U. S. officials say, however, that the treaty's prohibition of gas warfare and its statement that use of gas weapons "has been jointly condemned by the general opinion of the civilized world" has been in line with American policy on the subject. The legal argument advanced by officials in the present situation is simply that tear gas is different.

The U. S. legal case rests on the contention that the kind of gases used in Viet Nam, generally classed as "tear gas," have become in modern times a common and customary police method of dealing with riots. What is common and customary in civilized countries, officials say, is generally accepted under international law as being legal. Rusk hit on this point in his news conference.

Rusk also touched briefly on another point which seems to baffle officials here. That is: Why is world public opinion so sensitive to what the United States does in Viet Nam but seemingly so indifferent to what the Communists do?

While insisting that gas had been used in a few instances essentially to save lives where explosives would have taken heavy casualties, Rusk also said that during 1964 the Communists killed more than 400 South Vietnames civilian officials and kidnapped more than 1,000. Among other civilians, he said, 1,300 were killed and more than 8,000 kidnaped.

"Those who are concerned about tear gas," he said, "I would hope would be concerned about those facts."

The agreement was signed by the United States among others but was never ratified here and is not legally binding on this country.

U. S. officials say, however, that the treaty's prohibition of gas warfare and its statement that use of gas weapons "has been jointly condemned by the general opinion of the civilized world" has been in line with American policy on the subject. The legal argument advanced by officials in the present situation is simply that tear gas is different.

The U. S. legal case rests on the contention that the kind of gases used in Viet Nam, generally classed as "tear gas," have become in modern times a common and customary police method of dealing with riots. What is common and customary in civilized countries, officials say, is generally accepted under international law as being legal. Rusk hit on this point in his news conference.

Rusk also touched briefly on another point which seems to baffle officials here. That is: Why is world public opinion so sensitive to what the United States does in Viet Nam but seemingly so indifferent to what the Communists do?

While insisting that gas had been used in a few instances essentially to save lives where explosives would have taken heavy casualties, Rusk also said that during 1964 the Communists killed more than 400 South Vietnames civilian officials and kidnapped more than 1,000. Among other civilians, he said, 1,300 were killed and more than 8,000 kidnaped.

"Those who are concerned about tear gas," he said, "I would hope would be concerned about those facts."

A CLOSE RUNNERUP in the Maharajah contest is Hartley "Bill" Jones and his manager, V. Allan Hubbard, of the Rotary Club. The first week gave the Rotary Club second place in the Follies contest, sponsored by the Junior Womans Club. The all-civic organizations are creating a wide interest in the coming Follies to be held at the Middle School on April 9 and 10. All monies donated in the Maharajah contest will go to the Hospital for help in building the proposed new wing.

Checks To IRS Should Be Labeled

ST. LOUIS, Missouri --When you send a check to the Internal Revenue Service, be sure you indicate what it is for, District Director for Missouri, Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, cautions taxpayers.

"Often, we receive payments with no explanation of what they are for," Mr. Bookwalter said.

When this happens, the checks are placed in a special account. Every effort is made to identify the payments. But this takes time and additional clerical help -- help which could be used to process refunds. Internal Revenue has a large number of checks just waiting to be credited to some taxpayer's account.

Mr. Bookwalter asks taxpayers sending in checks or money orders in payment of taxes to attach Internal Revenue's bill or notice to their payments. If you do not have a bill or notice, attach a note stating what the payment is for, the year of tax, and the type of tax owed. Please be sure to include your name, address and taxpayer identifying number. For most, this is the Social Security number.

It's also a good idea to keep your money order stub or cancelled checks in case you ever have to verify your tax payments.

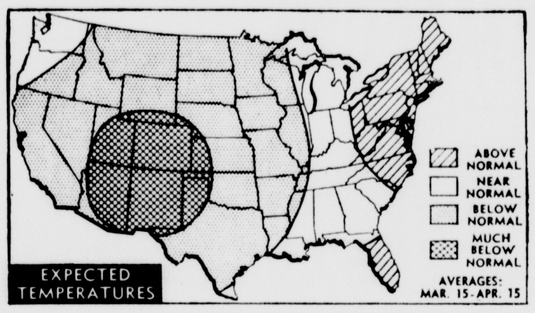
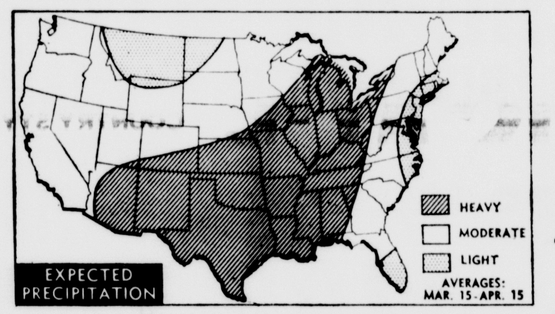
Moribund March

Map shows Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperature, precipitation through April 15.



Below normal temperatures will chill most of the country. Above normal temperatures are expected along the east coast and in Florida.



Heavy precipitation will cover part of the nation's mid-region. Most of the remainder of the country will see moderate dampness.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I need a grownup to stick up for me. Will you be the one? Our next door neighbors are moving out of town in a few weeks and they want to make me a present of their two hamsters.

My mother says I can't take the hamsters because they will smell up the whole house and also they hatch very often and we will have three dozen before we know it.

Our neighbors enjoyed the hamsters very much and they had them for almost a year. Also I don't think their house smelled any worse than anybody else's house.

I promised Mom I would take care of them and they would not get in anybody's way. She still says no. Please help me. --Pet-Less

Dear Pet: If your neighbors had the hamsters for almost a year and there are still only two, they are probably brothers.

I can't help you with the smell argument, because they sure do--but children learn a great deal from having pets. They also develop a sense of responsibility when they are given a chance to care for living creatures. I hope your Mom will reconsider and I also hope that she doesn't get mad at me for putting her in one heck of a spot.

Dear Ann Landers: My business (construction) took a turn for the worse. I found myself unable to finance my freshman daughter's education for the remaining two quarters of the year.

I asked my married daughter (whose education I paid for) to loan me the money to put her sister through. This married daughter now earns $5300 a year teaching. Her husband makes $8500 a year. They have no children and no debts.

Her answer shocked me. She said, "If you can't afford to keep Romona in school let her go to work."

When I was growing up we were taught to share and help each other out. I feel that my oldest daughter is selfish and short-sighted. Will you comment on family responsibility, please?--Disappointed

Dear Disappointed: In many families, where there is real warmth and love, older brothers and sisters do help the younger ones through college. Unfortunately your family is not so blessed.

Your older daughter is doubly selfish. Not only did she refuse to help educate her sister, but she refused her father a loan.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a newcomer to your country and have a few questions which may seem silly to girls who have grown up here.

When my date calls for me what should I do with him? If I am not ready do I shout, "Please sit down," or what? If I am ready, do I ask him to be seated? If so, for how long? Should I encourage him to speak with other members of my family the first time he comes to our home or would it be best to wait until the second or third date? Should I offer him a cup of coffee?

Customs vary according to the country and I don't want to frighten a young man away with too much, or too little, attention. Thank you. --San Fran

Dear San: A young man appreciates it if the young woman is ready when he arrives. If he shows up early, ask another member of the family to greet him and visit until you appear.

But speed it up, Toots. He did not come to your home to chat with your Aunt Tillie. Skip the coffee, and be on your way.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDER'S booklet "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go." enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

matter of fact

The game of bridge, a name applied to each of the three card games, bridge whist, auction bridge and contract bridge, derives from the game of whist. Bridge whist has been obsolete since 1910. Surveys have indicated there are about 5,000,000 auction bridge players in the United States today. Auction bridge once had 15,000,000 players in the United States before it became secondary to contract bridge in the 1930s.

Checks To IRS Should Be Labeled

ST. LOUIS, Missouri --When you send a check to the Internal Revenue Service, be sure you indicate what it is for, District Director for Missouri, Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, cautions taxpayers.

"Often, we receive payments with no explanation of what they are for," Mr. Bookwalter said.

When this happens, the checks are placed in a special account. Every effort is made to identify the payments. But this takes time and additional clerical help -- help which could be used to process refunds. Internal Revenue has a large number of checks just waiting to be credited to some taxpayer's account.

Mr. Bookwalter asks taxpayers sending in checks or money orders in payment of taxes to attach Internal Revenue's bill or notice to their payments. If you do not have a bill or notice, attach a note stating what the payment is for, the year of tax, and the type of tax owed. Please be sure to include your name, address and taxpayer identifying number. For most, this is the Social Security number.

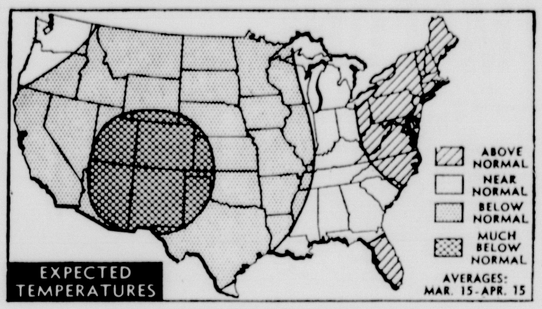
It's also a good idea to keep your money order stub or cancelled checks in case you ever have to verify your tax payments.

BONDHOLDER—Perching pertly, French actress Claudine Auger displays some of the charm she will use to captivate James (007) Bond in the movie thriller "Thunderball." Film will be shot in the Bahamas.

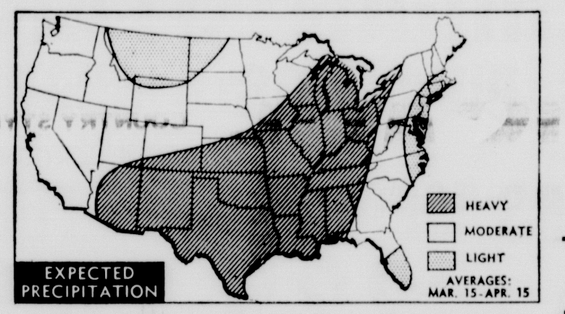
Either heaven or hell will have continuous background music piped in. Which one you think it is tells a lot about your personality. —Bill Vaughn

Moribund March

Map shows Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperature, precipitation through April 15.



Below normal temperatures will chill most of the country. Above normal temperatures are expected along the east coast and in Florida.



Heavy precipitation will cover part of the nation's mid-region. Most of the remainder of the country will see moderate dampness.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I need a grownup to stick up for me. Will you be the one? Our next door neighbors are moving out of town in a few weeks and they want to make me a present of their two hamsters.

My mother says I can't take the hamsters because they will smell up the whole house and also they hatch very often and we will have three dozen before we know it.

Our neighbors enjoyed the hamsters very much and they had them for almost a year. Also I don't think their house smelled any worse than anybody else's house.

I promised Mom I would take care of them and they would not get in anybody's way. She still says no. Please help me. --Pet-Less

Dear Pet: If your neighbors had the hamsters for almost a year and there are still only two, they are probably brothers.

I can't help you with the smell argument, because they sure do--but children learn a great deal from having pets. They also develop a sense of responsibility when they are given a chance to care for living creatures. I hope your Mom will reconsider and I also hope that she doesn't get mad at me for putting her in one heck of a spot.

Dear Ann Landers: My business (construction) took a turn for the worse. I found myself unable to finance my freshman daughter's education for the remaining two quarters of the year.

I asked my married daughter (whose education I paid for) to loan me the money to put her sister through. This married daughter now earns $5300 a year teaching. Her husband makes $8500 a year. They have no children and no debts.

Her answer shocked me. She said, "If you can't afford to keep Romona in school let her go to work."

When I was growing up we were taught to share and help each other out. I feel that my oldest daughter is selfish and short-sighted. Will you comment on family responsibility, please?--Disappointed

Dear Disappointed: In many families, where there is real warmth and love, older brothers and sisters do help the younger ones through college. Unfortunately your family is not so blessed.

Your older daughter is doubly selfish. Not only did she refuse to help educate her sister, but she refused her father a loan.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a newcomer to your country and have a few questions which may seem silly to girls who have grown up here.

When my date calls for me what should I do with him? If I am not ready do I shout, "Please sit down," or what? If I am ready, do I ask him to be seated? If so, for how long? Should I encourage him to speak with other members of my family the first time he comes to our home or would it be best to wait until the second or third date? Should I offer him a cup of coffee?

Customs vary according to the country and I don't want to frighten a young man away with too much, or too little, attention. Thank you. --San Fran

Dear San: A young man appreciates it if the young woman is ready when he arrives. If he shows up early, ask another member of the family to greet him and visit until you appear.

But speed it up, Toots. He did not come to your home to chat with your Aunt Tillie. Skip the coffee, and be on your way.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDER'S booklet "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

50 YEARS AGO
March 25, 1915

The Sikeston High School basketball team played Caruth at Senath Friday evening that resulted in a score of 25 to 18 in favor of Sikeston. A second game was played on Saturday evening with a score of 25 to 20 in favor of Sikeston.

Saturday, March 13, was the birthday of Mrs. Laura Smith and her son, Dr. Handy Smith. In honor of the occasion Mrs. Handy Smith gave a dinner party.

40 YEARS AGO
March 25, 1925

The Sikeston High School players came second in the dramatic contest, which was held in the Charleston auditorium last Friday afternoon. The first prize went to the Charleston players, who presented a one-act play, "Rats."

The friends in Sikeston of Max Smith will be glad to hear that he is the father of a girl baby born Sunday at Monroe, La. The young lady has been named Maxine.

The Memorial Park Association is preparing for a big special close out sale of family burial lots. The association reports that the sale of family lots has been far above expectation and they hope to close out the remaining lots in this special sale.

Campaigns for funds for relief work in the tornado stricken districts of Southern Illinois and Indiana, got under way in Sikeston Tuesday, when the Chamber of Commerce started its personal soliciting among business men and when the local Red Cross organization arranged with the Malone Theatre for a benefit show next Thursday.

30 YEARS AGO
March 25, 1935

Five Sikeston Boy Scouts were named Friday evening as members of a Southeast Missouri area council group which will attend the national Scout jamboree in Washington, D. C., from August 21 to 30, Wilbur Ensor, a member of the area jamboree committee, announced Saturday. The Sikeston Scouts are: Melvin Taylor, Joe Dover and William Van Horne, all Eagles and members of Troop 41; Walter Swan, a Star scout and member of Troop 42; and Albert Canoy, Life, Troop 43.

As a result of Coach William E. Mahew's announcement that he would organize a high school baseball team, 40 men students reported for the first practice Friday.

Final tabulations of the census data shows that there were 10,879 bales of cotton ginned in Scott County from the 1934 crop as compared with 72,761 bales from the 1933 crop.

Calmness and fast, sane thinking and strong safety belts undoubtedly saved the lives of Leonard McMullin and Granvill J. Phillips Thursday afternoon when the two-seater plane in which they were riding stopped upside down in a gumbo clover field near Clarktown after striking the ground, jumping a drainage ditch, and scooting through mud.

Rationing was extended to baby shoes sized 0-4 in an announcement by the Office of Price Administration today. Hitherto, rationing has affected only those shoes from sizes 4 1/2 up.

Keasler Motor Co., is the name of the business for which a large, modern building is being erected on Highway 61 just north of Tanner street. Hubert Keasler, owner of the building, plans to operate a Pontiac sales and service agency.

Another new building for Highway 61 is the brick structure being erected a few blocks south of the new Keasler building. W. E. Reed of Union, Mo., is the owner of this building, which is being built of brick and is 20 by 40 feet in size. An apartment, consisting of three rooms and bath, will be on the second floor. The building is to be leased as a restaurant.

More building activity on the highway includes the work of restoring the Ethridge Recapp Tire Co., whose plant was nearly destroyed by fire several weeks ago.

The Lord said, . . . "Should not I pity Nineveh?" (Jonah 4:10 to 11, RSV)

PRAYER: Good Lord, give Thy servants to understand and fulfill their calling to be instruments of Thy mercy. Help us as we minister to the spiritual and other needs of persons. Help those whom we serve to accept salvation through Christ our Lord and give Thee the glory. Amen.

Arthur Pierce Added To Ten Most Wanted List

Arthur Pierce, Jr., reportedly armed with .45 and .38 caliber revolvers and charged with the strangulation - murders of and Indianapolis, Indiana, mother and daughter, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

The nude and molested bodies of Pierce's alleged girl friend and her 15-year-old daughter were discovered in their Indianapolis apartment on June 13, 1964. Both women had been strangled and sexually assaulted and Pierce was reported to have been in the victim's apartment the night before the bodies were found. Pierce, who had been paroled from the Indiana State Penitentiary at Michigan City, Indiana. On January 19, 1964, reportedly had been residing at the women's residence since his release from prison. When investigation indicated his apparent flight from Indiana to avoid prosecution for this crime, FBI assistance was requested to locate him.

A Federal warrant was issued at Indianapolis, Indiana, on June 15, 1964, charging Pierce with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

The criminal career of this fugitive began with his arrest and conviction for burglary in 1954 at the age of 18. He was sentenced to one year and confined to the Indiana State Farm in Greencastle, Indiana.

He was arrested again in January, 1960, for auto banditry, and after conviction was sentenced to ten years in the Indiana State Reformatory, Pendleton, Indiana, where he remained confined until his parole in January 1964.

Pierce is a white American who was born at Indianapolis, Indiana, on May 8, 1936. He is 5'7" tall, weighs 190 to 210 pounds, has a heavy build, medium complexion, brown hair and brown eyes. In addition to a burn scar on his left forearm, he bears scars on his left wrist, right wing finger and left thigh. He has been employed as a mechanic, painter, produce salesman, truck driver, used - car salesman and welder. He reportedly wears upper dentures and may have ulcers.

He has been described as polite, smooth - talking and well-mannered and is said to frequently drink beer and "screwdrivers," a mixture of vodka and orange juice. He reportedly dresses neatly in flashy but inexpensive sport clothes, smokes cigarettes and inexpensive cigars, enjoys poker and "crap games" and occasionally dances, swims, roller skates and attends movies.

Since Pierce is wanted in connection with two strangulation-murders and may be armed with .38 and .45 caliber revolvers, he should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Arthur Pierce, Jr., you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

An old-school Navy officer, a tough, rough and highly efficient disciplinarian, commanded a training station in Virginia. On the base were some 65,000 Seabees. When I was on a routine food-inspection tour of his post, the captain proudly showed me around. The high point of the tour was a huge dome-shaped cage at least 15 feet high and 30 feet in diameter, located near his quarters. In the cage was a large bird. The captain pointed out with justifiable pleasure that his boys had presented him with this eagle as an emblem of his rank and authority. I looked in astonishment at the specimen, but simply hadn't the guts to tell him that his bird was a buzzard — and an old one at that! — Maj. A. H. Bryan, USA (Ret.)

Round Steak Turns Regal In Roll-Ups

An easy-to-serve entree makes entertaining fun! When the main course can be whisked to the table either to be passed around or served by the host, it gives a casual mood to the dinner.

If the entree is handsome as well as interesting, then the meal is well on its way to being a success. Round steak, cut into individual servings and wrapped around carrot and dill pickle strips, is suggested by noted meat authority, Reba Staggs, as a good choice for such a main dish.

To prepare the roll-ups, the round steak servings are first pounded with a meat mallet or the edge of a sturdy saucer from the purchased thickness of one-half inch to one-fourth inch thickness. After rolling, the meat is dredged in seasoned flour and browned in lard or drippings. Bouillon is the braising liquid along with flavorful seasonings of chili and Worcestershire sauce plus a bit of savory.

Regal Beef Roll-Ups
1 beef round steak, cut ½ inch thick
1 large carrot
3 medium dill pickles
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
½ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon savory
Flour for gravy, if desired

Cut steak into 6 servings and pound to ¼ inch thickness. Cut carrot into thirds and each third into six strips. Cut dill pickles lengthwise into quarters. Place 2 dill pickle strips and 3 carrot strips on each piece of steak. Roll as a jelly roll and fasten with wooden picks or string. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water. Add chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce and savory and pour over beef roll-ups. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Thicken liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 servings.

Rainfall Record

Cherrapunji, in India, holds the world's records for most rainfall in a single month and a single year. The town was drenched with 1,042 inches during the 12 months following August of 1860 and its total monthly fall in July of 1861 exceeded 366 inches.

The Lord said, . . . "Should not I pity Nineveh?" (Jonah 4:10 to 11, RSV)

PRAYER: Good Lord, give Thy servants to understand and fulfill their calling to be instruments of Thy mercy. Help us as we minister to the spiritual and other needs of persons. Help those whom we serve to accept salvation through Christ our Lord and give Thee the glory. Amen.

Arthur Pierce, Jr.

Arthur Pierce Added To Ten Most Wanted List

Arthur Pierce, Jr., reportedly armed with .45 and .38 caliber revolvers and charged with the strangulation - murders of and Indianapolis, Indiana, mother and daughter, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

The nude and molested bodies of Pierce's alleged girl friend and her 15-year-old daughter were discovered in their Indianapolis apartment on June 13, 1964. Both women had been strangled and sexually assaulted and Pierce was reported to have been in the victim's apartment the night before the bodies were found. Pierce, who had been paroled from the Indiana State Penitentiary at Michigan City, Indiana. On January 19, 1964, reportedly had been residing at the women's residence since his release from prison. When investigation indicated his apparent flight from Indiana to avoid prosecution for this crime, FBI assistance was requested to locate him.

A Federal warrant was issued at Indianapolis, Indiana, on June 15, 1964, charging Pierce with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

The criminal career of this fugitive began with his arrest and conviction for burglary in 1954 at the age of 18. He was sentenced to one year and confined to the Indiana State Farm in Greencastle, Indiana.

He was arrested again in January, 1960, for auto banditry, and after conviction was sentenced to ten years in the Indiana State Reformatory, Pendleton, Indiana, where he remained confined until his parole in January 1964.

Pierce is a white American who was born at Indianapolis, Indiana, on May 8, 1936. He is 5'7" tall, weighs 190 to 210 pounds, has a heavy build, medium complexion, brown hair and brown eyes. In addition to a burn scar on his left forearm, he bears scars on his left wrist, right wing finger and left thigh. He has been employed as a mechanic, painter, produce salesman, truck driver, used - car salesman and welder. He reportedly wears upper dentures and may have ulcers.

He has been described as polite, smooth - talking and well-mannered and is said to frequently drink beer and "screwdrivers," a mixture of vodka and orange juice. He reportedly dresses neatly in flashy but inexpensive sport clothes, smokes cigarettes and inexpensive cigars, enjoys poker and "crap games" and occasionally dances, swims, roller skates and attends movies.

Since Pierce is wanted in connection with two strangulation-murders and may be armed with .38 and .45 caliber revolvers, he should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Arthur Pierce, Jr., you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

An old-school Navy officer, a tough, rough and highly efficient disciplinarian, commanded a training station in Virginia. On the base were some 65,000 Seabees. When I was on a routine food-inspection tour of his post, the captain proudly showed me around. The high point of the tour was a huge dome-shaped cage at least 15 feet high and 30 feet in diameter, located near his quarters. In the cage was a large bird. The captain pointed out with justifiable pleasure that his boys had presented him with this eagle as an emblem of his rank and authority. I looked in astonishment at the specimen, but simply hadn't the guts to tell him that his bird was a buzzard — and an old one at that! — Maj. A. H. Bryan, USA (Ret.)

Round Steak Turns Regal In Roll-Ups

An easy-to-serve entree makes entertaining fun! When the main course can be whisked to the table either to be passed around or served by the host, it gives a casual mood to the dinner.

If the entree is handsome as well as interesting, then the meal is well on its way to being a success. Round steak, cut into individual servings and wrapped around carrot and dill pickle strips, is suggested by noted meat authority, Reba Staggs, as a good choice for such a main dish.

To prepare the roll-ups, the round steak servings are first pounded with a meat mallet or the edge of a sturdy saucer from the purchased thickness of one-half inch to one-fourth inch thickness. After rolling, the meat is dredged in seasoned flour and browned in lard or drippings. Bouillon is the braising liquid along with flavorful seasonings of chili and Worcestershire sauce plus a bit of savory.

Regal Beef Roll-Ups

1 beef round steak, cut ½ inch thick
1 large carrot
3 medium dill pickles
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
¼ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon savory
Four for gravy, if desired

Cut steak into 6 servings and pound to ¼ inch thickness. Cut carrot into thirds and each third into six strips. Cut dill pickles lengthwise into quarters. Place 2 dill pickle strips and 3 carrot strips on each piece of steak. Roll as a jelly roll and fasten with wooden picks or string. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water. Add chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce and savory and pour over beef roll-ups. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Thicken liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 servings.

Rainfall Record

Cherrapunji, in India, holds the world's records for most rainfall in a single month and a single year. The town was drenched with 1,042 inches during the 12 months following August of 1860 and its total monthly fall in July of 1861 exceeded 366 inches.

Today In U.S. History

Today is Thursday, March 25, the 84th day of 1965. There are 281 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1911, the Triangle Waist Company fire occurred in a 10-story loft building in New York City; 147 lives were lost.

On this date

In 1776, Gen. George Washington was awarded the first Congressional Medal.

In 1865, Confederate forces captured Ft. Stedman, Va.

In 1939, Adolf Hitler announced the German people would stand shoulder to shoulder with the battle-proved Italian nation.

In 1942, the U.S. 3rd Army crossed the Maine River 27 miles east of the Rhine Bridgehead.

Ten year ago—Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri said he would not enter any presidential primaries in his attempt to win the Democratic presidential nomination.

Five years ago—The Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice commission held Egypt responsible for a grenade attack on a gathering in Patish, Israel.

Simulated Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Far beneath the Nevada desert, the United States has developed means of simulating the altitude conditions a nuclear-tipped missile would encounter if detonated at nearly 100 miles above the earth.

This was learned today in an interview with Brig. Gen. Delmar L. Crowson, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Division of Military Application.

All indications are that such a manmade creation —deep within the earth — of the vacuum at the fringes of outer space is designed to:

—Help further improve America's defenses against enemy missiles.

—Enhance the power of U.S. missiles to penetrate an enemy's electronic and other defenses.

Crowson said further that deep drilling techniques developed for underground nuclear tests at Nevada and elsewhere have a rich potential pay-off for peacetime industry, especially the oil and construction industries.

The general discussed the novel nuclear weapons testing technique in amplifying somewhat the AEC's recent disclosures that "sifnificant progress" has been made in improving America's nuclear defensive and offensive capabilities through underground testing. The limited test-ban treaty excludes all but underground testing.

The AEC recently reported to Congress:

—Development and deployment of new, more powerful and versatile nuclear bombs and long-range missiles.

—Significant progress toward further increasing the "hardness and penetration capability" of the missile warheads — that is their powers to penetrate enemy defenses and to withstand countermeasures.

—Further advances in the art of developing relatively "clean" weapons — that is, those having less radioactive fallout.

—New progress toward improving capabilities for detecting underground tests by other nations.

Crowson said one of the major techniques developed for underground testing is the carving out of huge subterranean rooms, with tunnels radiating from them, much like spokes of a wheel. These rooms range up to 900 cubic yards in size.

Nearly all air can be pumped out of large-diameter pipes in the rooms to create vacuum conditions. Weapons devices can be detonated under conditions simulating an altitude of up to 400,000 or 500,000 feet, the general said.
